Fifty Leaders Of Bomb Outrages In Lisbon Sent Away

LISBON.—(P)—The head of the criminal investigating police has become one of the most popular men in Lisbon because of his activities in rounding up the leaders in the recent bomb outrages. As a result 50 of the most dangerous extremists have been deported to west Africa.

Little effort had been made to apprehend the trouble makers until the attempted assassination of Colonel Ferreira de Amaral, head of the Lisbon police, who was shot on a street corner. Only one of the group of assassins was arrested at the time, but rigid investigations soon revealed the identity of the others and all were taken into custody. This proved an easy task when the police decided to act, because the leaders, having escaped arrest after previous outrages, became bolder with each succeeding one and did not take the trouble to hide from the police.

Colonel Amaral's fine record in the World war won for him general admiration and the police of all sections of Lisbon joined in a concerted move to apprehend his assailants.

The investigations revealed that the terrorists in addition to the bomb outrages had been guilty of robberies and extortions, it having been shown that one of the Lisbon banks had given large sums of money to the men under threat of damage by a bomb.

Money May Be The Root of All Evil—

—but to the man with an aching tooth it seems as though the real root of all evil was firmly imbedded in his own jaw. If you've ever had tooth ache, you'll feel inclined to agree. The point is this—what are you doing now to prevent toothache? Better let us give your teeth a free examination—it may save you a lot of pain later on.

Auto Tries to Fly

This automobile tried to turn into an airplane in Cleveland. The driver swerved to the curb to avoid a collision and lost control. The car leaped the curb and slid straight up the guy wire of a telephone pole, sticking there when it had reached the angle shown above.

There's nothing missing from this combination

An eminent authority has called whole wheat the perfect food—because it contains every element needed to sustain the human body.

And SHREDDED WHEAT is whole wheat—the perfect food in biscuit form.

At this time of year you will find SHREDDED WHEAT doubly delicious when served with peaches and other fresh fruits. It's a combination which brings variety to the diet, and provides health-guarding nutriment in keeping with the seasonal demand of your appetite. It's just the crisp, wholesome food your system is calling for.
