A HISTORY-MAKING EPOCH

The next year promises to make history in Oregon. Here in Klamath county two big railroad systems are fighting for supremacy. It appears almost certain that both will be permitted to build and thus tap the almost unlimited timber resources of Klamath county and central Oregon.

Over in Baker county an immense copper mining industry which promises to rival Butte, Montana, is on the eve of an awakening. Millions of dollars will be spent in development of the mines which are expected to produce more copper, gold and silver ore than any other district that was ever mined on the American continent.

Coos Bay is nearing the completion of a new harbor which will play an important part in the development of southwestern Oregon.

Railroads are spending thousands upon thousands of dollars advertising the Pacific coast. Their efforts will bring home-seekers to every section of these western states.

Klamath county has every reason to rejoice over the coming of the railroads to this section. But it must not lose sight of the fact that the various development projects in other parts of the state will likewise aid in the development of this section.

History is in the making in Klamath county and the entire state. The people of this awakened empire should take full advantage of every opportunity that is presented, and thus speed the day when Klamath Falls is to become the metropolis of southern Oregon.

The Northern lines will not go "down Klamath to the sea." But they'll capture Klamath "like Grant took richmond."

Hints to tired mothers: If you want to rock your baby to sleep, just pile in the car and drive out over the Shippington road.

They didn't need police reserves at the ball game yesterday. But an adding machine could have kept pretty busy.

Stewart's Washington Letter

By CHARLES P. STEWART
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Nothing could be funnier—or more pathetic, maybe—than the naïveté of Americans who think this country will get some actual cash out of the financial negotiations the government is arranging with the continental European powers we made war loans to.

On the contrary, we're just about to shell out a lot more money.

Take France, for instance. She owes us around four billions. Having scaled this amount down all he can, Finance Minister Cailaux will admit the rest and agree with Secretary of the Treasury Mellon on the lowest interest rate he can get.

"But of course France can't begin paying anything for another ten years," Cailaux will add.

"Certainly not," we'll acquiesce.

"And in conclusion, now the French have re-established their credit," Cailaux will suggest, "how about letting 'em have a few more hundreds of millions?"

Which we will do, forthwith. You can bet on it.

French politicians are like politicians everywhere. Ten years is quite a while.

If the French government of today can get a 10-year moratorium the whole thing will be fixed, so far as the men who make the bargain are concerned. Let posterity stew over the actual paying—they'll be out of office, or dead perhaps.

Same here. If present day Washington induces France to begin wiping out her war indebtedness to the United States a decade hence, word will be passed out to the American public, "We've attended to everything"—then, sotto voce, "A later administration can walk the floor over the question of collection.

Defense Puts on Evidence

DAYTON, Tenn., July 20.—Defense attorneys put into the Scopes trial record today statements by scientists upholding the theory of evolution.

Maynard M. Metcalf, zoologist, former head of the zoological department at Oberlin college declared:

"There is no conflict, no least degree of conflict, between the Bible and the fact of evolution, but literal interpretation of the words of the Bible is not only preposterous, it is insulting both to God and to the human intelligence."

"The fundamentalist," he said, "is trying to shut man's mind to God's ever growing revelation of himself to the human soul."

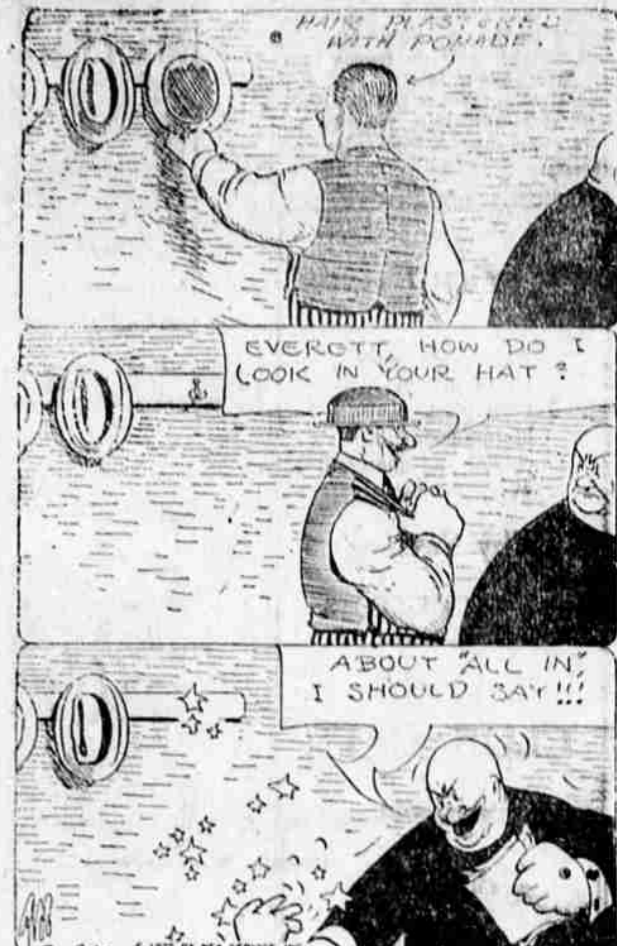

Evolution is visible today in both plant and animal world. He cited the development and breeding of cabbage from the plant of the mustard family as an example.

There is no such thing as species in nature, but the words "species," "genus," family, etc., were terms used to describe the fact that animals and plants differed among themselves and differ to different degrees.

Crater Lake Film Shown In Portland

First release of the film, "The Origin of Crater Lake," which was sponsored by the local chamber of commerce, to show people of the outside world that Klamath Falls is on the road to Crater Lake, was shown in Portland during the Elks convention at the Liberty theater, when thousands of people from all over the United States were in the northern city. With the great increase in the number of tourists coming via Klamath Falls to Crater Lake it is thought this section was sold to a large number of tourists in Portland during the convention.

During the entire week the one-reel picture, which shows a number of Klamath Falls views, will be run at the People's theater. At the close of the week the film will be returned here and will probably be sent into California to be shown in a number of the southern states theaters.

Harry Poole has given the local chamber cooperation in assisting and keeping the film in perfect shape.
