Klamath Moulding Company Finds Ready Market For Product

TWO SHIFTS WORKING New Industry Now Shipping All of Output to Eastern Points

With two shifts working, employing 20 men, the Klamath Moulding company is now shipping approximately 10 cars of moulding per month. All of the shipments are made to eastern points.

Equipment at the plant consists of 2 No. 131 S. A. Woods moulding machines. The day shift is in charge of C. Caldwell, plant manager, while the night foreman is F. M. Hoton. Development of this plant during the past year has passed practically unnoticed, few Klamath Falls residents realizing the extent to which it has grown.

"We find little trouble in marketing our product and look for steady and continued business all winter," Caldwell said.

Lumber purchases for the plant are made from the Campbell-Towle Lumber company, the Big Lakes Lumber company, Shaw-Bertram and Lamm's mill.

Balloon Pants Claim One More Man As Victim

Another good man and true fell last week before the onslaught of the balloon pant. The latest to suffer with the affliction is Freeman Staley, Pelican Bay grader. He was gone for two weeks on a vacation to San Francisco and the first dance he attended he appeared in the aforesaid pants. No reason for the lapse is known, and friends are fearful he may have contracted other equally bad habits while down below. It is stated, however, on good authority that he did NOT wear a red tie while tripping the light fantastic.

Not Alarmed At Beetle Invasion

According to an interview in the Astorian, Wash., Sentinel, Arthur Farrish, president of the Arthur Farrish Lumber company of that city, does not believe that as much damage is caused by disease in timber as some people have stated. In fact, Mr. Farrish declared in this interview, in his opinion there was nothing to be greatly alarmed over. He expressed the opinion that some of the trouble is due to the fact that the timber is cut at the wrong time of the year. He stated that if the cutting was done at the proper time, the beetles would not do any damage.

Nine Brothers Finish Moving Last Of Logs

Nine Brothers completed removal of logs from the Squaw Flat Unit last week. The logs were cut and bunched last winter and were taken from timber purchased from the Shaw-Bertram company.

Between 700,000 and 800,000 feet of logs on the Swan Lake Unit are now decked and will be hauled within the next week or ten days.

Peyton and Larkey will begin shipment of from 50,000 to 75,000 feet daily to the mill here within the next two weeks.

May Bar Zadow From Fishing In The Williamson

A move is now on foot among his fellow employes to bar T. W. Zadow, yard foreman for the Chiloquin Lumber company at Chiloquin, from fishing in the Williamson River except on Christmas and New Years. The reason is simple. He doesn't leave any in the river. From Christmas to the Fourth he uses a Royal Coachman and a Blue Upright and from the Fourth to Christmas he uses a Blue Upright and a Royal Coachman. By thus changing the position of the flies once a year he fools the fish in the last part of the season that he might have missed previously.

Johnson To Log Off Right-of-Way

Contract for logging off 15 miles of the right-of-way on the Klamath Falls-Lakeview highway from a point 5 miles north of Bonanza to Beatty has been awarded to Cy Johnson. It is expected that a crew of about 15 men will be employed in the work.

Mill Electrician Is Philanthropist

Nearly all of the expenses of the soda fountain at the Pelican Bay club rooms have been paid this month by Electrician Bob Kessler. Beginning with the first hot days of the month Kessler has averaged a gallon of sherbet per day. As anyone can prove by melting it, sherbet is just colored water. Hence the transaction during the month has netted the fountain about 98 per cent profit.

Hubbs Believed To Have Sinned

J. H. Hubbs, Algoma cat skinner, is believed by his fellow sufferers to have committed some lawless outrage during the Fourth of July celebrations. At any rate his once smooth-shaven face, with a "skin you love to touch," is now bristling with a many days' growth of black beard, believed to be a desperate effort on his part to disguise himself.

Jack Cruikshank, acknowledged leader of the elite in the Algoma camp, spent an evening in Fort Klamath recently and when he returned had two more photos to add to his collection on the bunk house wall. He is declared to have one of the finest collections of photos in existence, his selection embracing at least one representative from every town in the county.

Kennel Club Now At Algoma Camp

A kennel club is now in process of formation at the Algoma camp, following the action of A. W. Howard, commissary clerk, who presented Paymaster Jack Smith and Timekeeper J. M. Burge each with a genuine black wofus hound pup. The dogs have forced both Howard and Burge to make a change in their housekeeping methods, as now both have to sweep under their beds.

Champ Catskinner Seeks New Laurels

F. LaFayette McCarter, acknowledged champ cat skinner of Oregon, flopped the other Sunday when he sought to extend his laurels to the fishing game. He fished all day without a bite and it was finally discovered by a companion that because of his long association with cats McCarter was using catfish bait instead of making a try with something that would interest trout.

Art Invades Woods; Boys Have Gallery

No Admission Charged for Real Sight

That the better instincts in man will ever rise to the surface, no matter where he is, is demonstrated by the case of Rook McCollum and Jimmie Johnston, fireman and engineer, respectively, on one of the Pelican Bay logging trains.

What were originally barren bunk house walls have been transformed by the two until no Paris exhibition exceeds the display that now greets the eye of the casual beholder on entering their domicile.

With a woodsman's passion for facts the boys have made a fixed rule that utter frankness shall prevail in the case of any picture in the exhibition—and it does. Nothing is concealed and much of the subject matter is indeed striking.

LEGION SEEKS WILL BROACH

Broach, believed to be logging or working in a camp somewhere in the Klamath district, is wanted by Bill Canton, local service officer of the American Legion, according to announcement made today by Canton. F. T. Horn, pioneer Louisiana lumberman, is now in charge as general superintendent for the Modoc Lumber company at Chiloquin, purchased from the Menefee and Goldthwaite interest by the Forest Lumber company during the past month.

"Great country up here," said Horn.

"You can let the mosquitoes bite you without fear of malaria and few of the snakes are poisonous, I feel fine."

The guy who puts a button in the collection plate and takes out 25 cents change is usually president of the town anti-vice association.

DALE JOHNSTON WANTED!

A message of importance for Dale Johnston, believed to be engaged in logging in the Klamath district, has been received and is now being held at the office of the Lumberlogue at 121 North Eighth Street. He is requested to call or send in his address to the Editor of the Lumberlogue that the message may be forwarded to him. Anyone knowing his whereabouts is requested to communicate immediately with the Lumberlogue, as the message is extremely important.

Buy 35,000-Acre Timber Tract On Vancouver Island

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 22.—Thirty-five thousand acres of timber in the Cowichan Lake area on Vancouver Island, owned by the James Logging company, has been acquired by the Campbell River Lumber company of White Rock, where it has been operating a sawmill for some years. Included in the purchase is a sawmill of 50,000 feet per day capacity, three trags and a complete logging outfit. This will give the Campbell River Lumber company a second mill. It will start logging operations immediately on its own behalf, the outfit being on the ground. This company has also taken over additional limits of the Empire Lumber company in the same district on a logging basis, and while it has control of this timber, the ownership remains with the leasing company.

LAKEVIEW FIRM BUYS TIMBER IN ALTURAS REGION

Fossett Company Acquires 240 Acres From W. N. Harris

HOLDINGS INCREASED Another Small Sawmill near Alturas, Calif. Begins Operations

ALTURAS, July 22.—John Fossett of Lakeview, Ore., has purchased 240 acres of land within the Modoc National Forest formerly owned by W. N. Harris of Willow Ranch, bringing the Fossett timber holdings adjacent to Goose Lake Valley to 4000 acres, estimated at forty million feet of merchantable yellow pine and ten million feet of white fir. These lands lie within and adjacent to the Pandango Logging Unit which is being reoperated by the Forest Service at the present time.

Mr. Fossett is owner of the Lassen Creek Sawmill which is cutting at the present time from 25 to 30 thousand board feet of timber per day. He ships box grades from this mill to the Alturas Box Factory while the upper grades go to Wisconsin.

The Cantrall sawmill, 15 miles from Alturas in Jess valley started up on July 16th, with Forrest Cantrall at the helm. They have contracted with the forest service for a half million feet of mixed yellow pine and white fir, and expect to cut a half million board feet of lumber this season, partly on forest land and partly on private holdings of their own.

Here's One Scaler Who Gets Action

Politeness at Wheeler-Olmstead Is Explained

Reason for the politeness shown Louis Espen, scaler at the Wheeler-Olmstead mill, has just been revealed.

Espen, be it known, was not so many years ago a mitt-heaver of no mean prominence. In the narrow confines of the squared circle Espen has met and dealt harshly with no less personages than Floyd Johnson, one-time aspirant for the heavy crown, and sly-poly Willie Meehan, who is still rated as one of the tough ones.

Badly broken hands and the fact that with his weight of 160 pounds he was always forced to meet bigger men caused Espen to leave the ring, after following it for many years.

The fight with Meehan was a night mare, Espen declared. "I'd slam my glove into his stomach, and it would sink clear to the wrist in bulges. Meehan would grunt and grin and slam back. It was like fighting a balloon," he said.

Anyway, the boys now treat him politely, so maybe it wasn't time wasted.

Sawyer Goes Wild And Mill Has To Buy Another Ford

Henry Kraneburg, known as "High-Speed Henry", sawyer at the Chiloquin Lumber company mill, has been battling along at a terrific clip, squeezing 75,000 feet per day out of the Chiloquin mill and as a result the company has been forced to order another Fordson to carry away the lumber. Anyway another Fordson has been ordered and Kraneburg is blamed for it.

Plan Big Doings At Log Congress

A. Whisnant, secretary of the Pacific Logging congress, recently was in Tacoma and Seattle making arrangements for the coming 16th session of the Logging Congress, which will be held in Seattle during the first half of October. The exact dates for the congress have not yet been set.

The feature of the coming logging congress will be the show of logging machinery, equipment and supplies. A site for the big show has been obtained on Sixth Avenue South below Dearborn street. This show will be the biggest of its kind ever held and one of the most unique displays ever undertaken anywhere by anyone. Plans are being worked out on a very ambitious yet practical scale.
