

Crim Winner in Mix With Bobby Allen

Chiloquin Fight Card Ends With a Bang

What promised to be a grand finale as a fight card ended last night or sometime early this morning at Chiloquin with a grand finale that left the crowd pleased when Jack Crim planted a smashing left on the wavering jaw of Bobby Allen and sent that gentleman to the floor dead to the world in the second round of their scheduled six-round go.

Preceding this fight, which was a real one, was a wrangle over finances that gave the affair all the earmarks of a Shelby promotion.

Allen, it seemed, had to have $50 before he would fight. Crim wanted to fight and was willing to go on for nothing, he said, and that is what he finally did, taking out his satisfaction in giving Allen an unmerciful trimming.

A hat, or several hats, were passed. Harry Poole, who had already announced he would let the promoters have his Chiloquin theatre for nothing, went further and took charge of the financing. He circled the house and gathered in $34. The promoters made up the rest and the battle was on.

Reports prior to the fight that this was to be a grudge match seemed fully justified by the attitude of both fighters. Neither waivered any time in fancy footwork. All blows were meant to hurt and Crim's were most effective. Allen went to the floor twice in the first round and in the second after taking bitter punishment toppled to the hard wooden floor with a bang when Crim planted a left square to his jaw after hitting him at will in the first part of the round.

In the semi-windup Wilbur Harrington allowed Kid Porter to stay two rounds and part of another before deciding to end it all. Harrington could have gotten his man any time before the middle of the first round.

Able Gordon, seasoned ring vet, took the first four rounds of an exhibition match with Babe Lightfoot. The last two were more even, with Gordon obviously tiring. Lightfoot noticeably eased up on his man while Gordon seemed to be using all he had. The decision was received with boos. (No, not "booze", although there was plenty of it in evidence.)

Young Floyd was knocked out in the second round of his contest with Ted Frenchie. Both specialized in haymakers and Frenchie landed the most.

A youth billed as "Society Red" was so lacking in caution as to open up and swap punches with young "Buddy" Crim and "Buddy" introduced him to the birdies early in the first round of their contest. And, by the way, if someone with knowledge of the game keeps on coaching "Buddie" he is going to be heard from in a year or so.

Al Sharp and William Ezell are evidently quite good friends. They put on the curtain raiser and at the end of the fourth round a draw decision was given. Sharp weighed 157, Ezell 135. Both were tired out at the end of their tussle.

Earl Ritchie did a good job of refereeing.

At Kelly, former resident of Klamath Falls, has returned to the city and has accepted a position with the Mecca pool hall.

The Western pioneer was an exacting person. Whether he lived in camp, or in one of the few settlements of the early Fifties, he had certain demands which must be met. One of these was for good coffee,—and he got it.

But the Western pioneer was not a quiet person. When he liked something he didn't mind saying so. That's why the fame of Folger's Coffee, Tea and Spices reached the folks back home. From the North, East and South came calls for Folger Products. So great were the demands that despite the continuous expansion of the pioneer-Folger plant at San Francisco, it became necessary to establish a second plant at Kansas City, Mo., then a branch at Dallas, Texas.

As we this year celebrate our Diamond Jubilee—along with that of the State of California—it is a satisfaction to know that the growth of our business is traceable to the approval placed on Folger products by our first customers—the Argonauts. These early settlers liked quality and they found it in Folger Products. And this holds good today. It is because of their unusual quality that Folger Products are now sold in 29 states.

So when you buy a package bearing the Folger name, you know you are getting a product which has back of it the experience of 75 years. Coffee and Tea packed in vacuum (Folger's is the original vacuum packed tea,) Spices, the finest the world's markets afford, and Extracts which have been household favorites for three generations.

Is it any wonder we ask you to make the Folger Test? We ask it because we know that the best coffee, tea, spices and extracts will always win. We've seen it happen for 75 years.
