At the PINE TREE

One of those ultra-modern women who hates housework and likes to preach about the freedom of her sex takes possession of the screen at the Pine Tree theatre today in its current engagement of "The Talker". She blonches a "hen-pecked" husband and has her entire neighborhood thoroughly covered but suddenly her young and unsophisticated sister disappears. It appears the child has adopted her views and escaped with one of the greatest yet most fascinating rogues of the community—a man who happens already to be married.

The Three Balmains are an exhibition that includes a number of new feats, done only by this trio. Morton & Dennis, "The Spurred Dodgers," two comedians of the new school, catchy songs, chatter, harmony and yodeling, Keith & Grear, "A Voice and A Violin," a song bird from Dixie and a violinist of rare merit in classic and popular melodies, McLoughlin & Tiger, a team of funmakers, Robt. Bellin in novelty laughs, a little

At The LIBERTY

A gripping tale of the South Sea Islands where romance flourishes beneath tropical skies is depicted in Venus of the South Seas. The perfectly formed Annette Kollerman is at her best in her portrayal of the island maiden, a fearless little creature, an expert diver and swimmer, plunging into swirling waters without thought of danger, hunting pearls at the bottom of the sea, struggling in the surging torrent with enraged natives.

All lovers of the beautiful will enjoy Venus of the South Seas, at the Liberty today.
