SUMMER CONFERENCES KEEP ENGLISH COLLEGES OCCUPIED

OXFORD, Eng., Aug. 13. (AP)—Where do undergraduates go during the long vacation, is a question often asked by the uninitiated who imagine the colleges and grounds to be deserted for several weeks. Before the war they were, but the conference habit acquired during wartime has struck and developed, and for only two weeks in the vacation is there complete silence in the buildings.

There is a constant inflow of guests to industrial conferences, educational courses and commercial conventions during which the conferences are housed and fed on the lines of a modern hotel. Students for these conferences lead the lives of undergraduates, occupy their rooms, dine in the big halls and by so doing assist the economical problems which is urgent in the cases of some colleges.

Prize Corn
