CHAPMAN'S PALS KILL WITNESSES

Hance car. The red machine passed the others almost in front of my house. The coupe pulled in front of Hance and stopped. Mrs. Hance was the first to alight from the machine. She was barefooted. Her husband stepped out a second later. Some words were exchanged and the hoodlums shot. Mrs. Hance fell dead with a bullet through her head. Hance and a man supposed to be Anderson began wrestling in the road. Several shots were fired at close range. Other shots were fired at him and he fell mortally wounded just as he leaped over a fence into a corn field. The gunmen then turned their weapons on the red machine which had stopped 200 yards up the road. Another machine which passed was also fired at before the slayers jumped into the coupe and drove away.

Names Slayers

To a Middletown officer called to the scene by Crocker, who had found Hance, the slayer man gazed. "He stayed at my home, I told on him. They shot me—Charles Wolfe and Dutch Anderson." Hance, after being rushed to a Mantee hospital called for Fred Puckett, Chief of Detectives, but before Puckett arrived Hance died. Puckett was one of the officers who aided in the capture of Chapman last January. Several hours after the shooting Wolfe was arrested at the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Myrtle Strahan. A coupe resembling the machine seen at the tragedy was parked in front of the Strahan house. Wolfe maintained a silence.

Fearing Death

According to the local officers the Hance's lived in constant dread of death. Friends of the condemned men have sworn vengeance on Hance for giving information about him. It was due to Hance's information concerning the movement of the Chapman gang that he was arrested. When Chapman was taken into custody by local police early this year he readily admitted his identity threatening "to get the man who turned me up for blood money." In addition to the vengeance theory the three suspected that he was the whereabouts of Anderson and was slain before he could "tip" off the officers.

Car Turns Turtle; Man Being Held on Drunkness Charge

Unable to negotiate a right angle turn on the Dalles-California highway one mile north of Algoma, a touring car driven by W. C. Abbott turned over and severely jolted and bruised Abbott and two other men he had picked up on the road. R. E. Knowles who arrived on the scene of the accident a few minutes later placed Abbott under arrest on a charge of driving while intoxicated. The two men who accompanied Abbott are being held as witnesses. Abbott's car was badly damaged.

A Modern Western Type

Six-Room House No. 629. Designed for American Face Brick Association

HERE is a good example of the popular rectangular house with a low, hipped roof. The plan is compact and convenient. The porch has steps to the driveway, besides those to the main walk, which make it convenient for the motorist. A vestibule is included but may be omitted if not desired. From the hall one may enter the living and dining room direct or go to the kitchen.

The living room is of ample size and opens to the adjoining rooms and hall, giving a feeling of spaciousness to the house. The fireplace is attractively set in an alcove with seats at either side.

Beyond the dining room and connected with the kitchen is a pretty octagonal breakfast room or flower room. From this point a fine view may be had of the garden or of the front. The kitchen is well ventilated and equipped with good cabinets.

Three large bedrooms, sleeping porch, and bathroom make up the second floor. There is a dressing room also, that could be converted to a bathroom if desired. The basement contains laundry, furnace, incinerator, vegetable cellar, and storage space.

It is not elaborate ornamentation that gives distinction to this house. It is rather the result of a simple, pleasing treatment of the mass of the building, as emphasized and enhanced by the attractive roof lines.

Placed on a fifty-foot lot there will be plenty of space left on the dining room side for good light, and room on the opposite side for a driveway to the garage which is attached to the building, a feature many will appreciate.

The garage is separated from the house by a solid brick wall for fire protection and has the entrance from the back porch, which keeps odors from the house.

Printing Talks

By ANN INK SPOT

This is my first attempt at being literary and I don't know just what I ought to say except that I am glad I'm here and I'm glad you're here too.

I work for W. O. Smith and my business is to tell you the importance of good printing. If you don't believe good printing counts, just try to read some that isn't good.

Pride and Profit Follow the Use of our Paints

Pride comes from the added attractiveness of the home, and profit results from the extra long life paint adds. After all, it costs more not to paint than to paint. For rust, rot and rain go on till you check them. Paint eliminates repairs and replacements. If your house needs painting—don't put it off, put it on.

Northern Klamath Merchant Is Fined On Liquor Charge

Eddie Santry, whose store near Crescent was raided several weeks ago, entered a plea of guilty before Acting Justice of the Peace Ed Kendall this morning and was fined $150 and costs on a charge of possession of intoxicating liquor. Santry's establishment was raided by deputy sheriffs headed by Lon Burke, and intoxicating liquor was confiscated for evidence. Santry paid his fine and was released.

Poultry Raisers Plan New System of Registration

DES MOINES, Iowa, Aug. 15. (P)—Actual operation of the system of registration of fowls worked out at the American Poultry association convention yesterday will not be started until after the Portland convention next year.

A committee of three, M. F. Delano, Vineyard Haven, Mass., D. E. Hale, Glen Elyn, Ill., and George Robertson, Ottawa, Canada, will take the tentative plan and work out a detailed system that will undoubtedly be adopted and put into operation after the next convention.

Registration of all birds that can score 88 or more points in competition, the adoption of standards for "production" and "champion productive" fowls and the decision to charge a fee of fifty cents a fowl for registration, were the details agreed upon here.

Strenuous objection was raised to reorganization for the slow winners and no agreement was reached on this question.

A. L. Clark of the New Jersey department of agriculture, predicted that the United States department of agriculture would offer to work out with the states a system of flock certification and urged the American Poultry association to support the movement.

HEAVY FROST REPORTED

According to word brought to the city today by Mr. and Mrs. A. Liskey of Tule Lake, last night's snap by weather killed practically all the tumble weed in that section, the frost being very heavy. This morning when Mr. Liskey went to water his stock the pump was slightly frozen. The nicest thing about the

WILL START PROBE OF LAND TROUBLE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—(P)—The department of the interior is about to enter the Florida situation where two groups are contending over land on Marco Island, and Secretary Work has ordered a searching investigation of the troubles. Department officials have received communications from both sides, but they have decided that first hand information is necessary. T. C. Havell, acting commissioner of public lands of the department, will go to the scene with a government engineer soon and public hearings will be held.

Mrs. H. H. Anderson and daughters and Anna Setzer are spending the week end at Lake of the Woods as guests of Mrs. Charles Martin.
