

CONGESTION IN SCHOOL ROOMS THING OF PAST

New School and 8th Grade Grouping Plan is Solution to Problem

Partial solution of the present problem of congestion in the schools will be solved by only the new Central school, which will be ready for occupation sometime before Christmas, but also by a plan of grouping all pupils of the eighth grade together in the Central school.

By drawing the personnel of the Eighth grade from each city school the crowded conditions will probably be alleviated, according to J. P. Wells, city school superintendent.

"That is the biggest problem that confronts us now," Mr. Wells remarked. "Last year the school census showed 2007 between the ages of four years and 20, within the city limits. This year that number will be greatly increased."

Congestion Problem

"The question arises, how are we going to develop our school system to keep abreast of the increase in population? We are building Central school, a project that will cost in the neighborhood of $195,000, and with that investment we are of course bonded up to the limit, and can not issue bonds until the retirement of those that are outstanding."

The City school superintendent admitted that the city school board was the owner of a valuable asset in the old Central school property.

"It isn't known just what will be done with the old Central school," "It depends," he said, "largely upon the congestion in the school district. If it is necessary, we will have to take care of the overflow from all the other schools, in Central school."

Problem May be Solved

"It may be that the present system, with the added space afforded by the new Central school and also the new school rooms in Fairview and Mills Addition schools, will be sufficient to take care of the increased enrollment that we expect. In that event the old Central school will not be used after the new school is opened this year."

The city school district is the owner of one of the most valuable pieces of property in the city, namely the old Central school site. Conservative estimates place the value of this land, on Main between Eighth and Tenth, at between $125,000 and $150,000.

With the sale of this land, the school district would be enabled to construct another school in some other district where there is a need for one.

Parents Able to See Children at Work in College

With the showing of motion pictures of Oregon Juniors attending summer school at Corvallis at the Liberty theater this evening, local parents will have the opportunity of seeing their children in the movies and better appreciate the educational work being carried on by the college. Something over 70 local boys and girls will be seen upon the screen this evening—in the film, which was made possible through the efforts of Frank Sexton.

ENCOURAGEMENT TO INDUSTRY IS GIVEN BY CITY

Repair Work on Link River Road Authorized to Allow Truck Hauling

FACTORY TO MOVE

Warren Construction Company Successful Bidder on Three More Jobs

Encouragement to the newly developed lettuce industry was voiced at the city council meeting last night when, on motion of Councilman Balsiger, chairman of the street committee, the sum of $150 was authorized for repair work on the road on the west side of Link River.

C. A. Henderson, county agent; Ed Geary, Wocus valley farmer, and A. M. Collier, president of the chamber of commerce, appeared before the council and urged that action be taken. It was pointed out that the Savary-Hunt company of Los Angeles had planted 100 acres of land to lettuce as an experiment, and that within a few weeks they would be shipping out approximately 1000 tons of lettuce over this road. Encouragement to this work, they said, would mean the beginning of an extensive lettuce industry for Klamath county.

The first step of the expected plan of the Big Lakes Box company to build an extensive box factory addition to its present plant was taken when it asked and received permission to cross several streets and alleys along the lake front in a railroad spur which it will build. D. V. Kuykendall, attorney, and F. Hill Hunter of the Sawmill Construction and Engineering company said that construction work on the spur would start immediately.

The Warren Construction company was the only, and successful bidder, on three more paving projects which are to be initiated at once. For the Jefferson street paving it submitted a bid of $13,349.29; for the Lincoln street paving, a bid of $13,313.25; and for the Washington street paving, a bid of $10,305.19. It also was awarded the bid for paving alleys Nos. 14 and 15, for the sum of $4,941.30.

A group of physicians, headed by Dr. H. D. L. Stewart, presented a petition asking for unlimited parking regulations for the physicians and surgeons of the city. Dr. Stewart pointed out that in many cases the presence of a physician is a matter of minutes or seconds between life and death, and they should be permitted to park their cars at points convenient to their office. No action was taken by the council.

The street committee was authorized to purchase and install "no parking" signs at various points on the streets where restricted parking is now in force.

The street committee was likewise given authority to arrange for the patching of various paved streets which have been torn up by contractors. The Warren Construction company offered to do this work on a cost-plus basis.

"Doc" Cook Leaves Salem for Islands

With the sailing of the steamship "Manoa" from the Golden Gate harbor on September 9th, Klamath Falls will lose two of its prominent residents, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. "Doc" Cook, who are leaving for Honolulu, where "Doc" will serve as photographer and druggist for one year's time, with one of the leading pharmaceutical firms on the island.

Pictures of Crater Lake and numerous surrounding scenic spots, which "Doc" submitted to the firm won him instant recognition, the result being that he has signed a contract for one year.

For the past seven years he has been at the Underwood drug store and feels that a change will be beneficial to both himself and Mrs. Cook. In leaving Mrs. Cook will take a letter from the local Business and Professional Women's club which she will give the members of the national club in Honolulu.

Henley Boys' Club Out After Ribbons

Boys of the Henley school are looking forward to taking a few blue, red and white ribbons in the potato divisions of the county fair this year. At the Henley school last night, it was announced each boy will exhibit 15 pounds of "spuds."

Members of the club present were Leland Triplett, Clint Myers, Clemmon Sigbord, Jay Manning, Jr., Frank Huuicutt, and Cecil Haley,

Consistent leadership

PACKARD was the first prominent manufacturer of fine cars to provide four-wheel brakes as standard equipment.

Packard is now the first to offer as standard the most important new equipment since the electrical self-starter—the motor oil recycler and the chassis lubricator.

Packard is now the first to offer a special steering and front spring suspension, designed for use with low pressure tires.

In a year other makers may provide what Packard owners now enjoy.

At the wheel of the improved Packard you may learn just what these newest evidences of Packard leadership mean to the Packard owner.

The new Packard Six enclosed cars have been reduced in price by an average of $750.

Building Boom Is Speeded Up

$145,000 In Permits are Granted at Council Meeting

Building permits of approximately $145,000, and including three buildings of major proportions for a city of this size were granted by the city council last night.

Heading the list was the application of E. J. Murray, publisher of the Evening Herald, who proposes to construct a group of bungalow court apartments on Esplanade, just across the railroad track, at a cost of $55,000. The work will be done by the Concrete Pipe company, of which Jack Knowles is manager.

Dr. Warren Hunt of the Klamath Valley hospital filed formal application for permission to construct his 26-room addition to his hospital at a cost of $40,000. Details of this hospital construction have previously been published. George Blehn likewise filed application to build a $30,000 garage at Ninth and Klamath, announcement of which appeared in The Herald yesterday. The new garage will rise at Ninth and Klamath and will house the Balsiger Motor company and the R. R. R. garage.

Other building permits included a miscellaneous collection of dwellings, private garages and additions and improvements to homes and buildings.

Still Operator Is Caught With Goods at Ranch

A secluded farm; a perfectly good still; two barrels of mash; a group of profi sleuths—and jail!

Such was the brief and, to him, sorrowful history of G. F. McCarahan, alleged moonshiner, when state liquor officers, headed by L. L. McBride, ambled into the old Cox farm near Bonanza and spoiled the future of this alleged manufacturer of moonshine.

McCarahan is now in the county jail in default of $2500 bonds, while his still and mash are reposing safely in the vault to be used as evidence when his case comes up for trial.

DEPENDABLE!

If people would't rather pay a few dollars more for a car they can depend on, we wouldn't have a Used Car Department. We find that "quality" means more than "bargain."
