Institute To Open In This City Thursday

Notable Speakers Will Address Klamath Teachers

Twelve hours of concentrated instruction and advice on education will be dealt out to approximately 150 school teachers of Klamath county at the Teachers' Institute which opens tomorrow morning at the Klamath county high school, and closes Friday noon.

Notable speakers have been secured to outline to the teachers salient features of their duties to the children and the public. Prominent among these are J. A. Churchill, state superintendent of schools, C. A. Howard, superintendent of schools at Marshfield; and J. S. Landers, president of the state Normal school.

New Courses

Mr. Churchill will outline to the teachers the general phases of the new courses of study that will be initiated in schools this year. Just what subjects Mr. Howard and Mr. Landers will touch on are not known although it is supposed they will deal with the theme of education in general.

Proposed activities of the county health unit in schools throughout the county will be explained by Miss Lydia Fricke and Miss Hazel McClelland, county health nurses. Miss Fricke will assume the position of city school nurse while Miss McClelland will undertake the duties of county school nurse.

Miss Elizabeth Nelson, musical director of city schools, will outline to the institute the plan of musical instruction that will be taught this coming school year.

ALTAR SOCIETY NAMES OFFICERS

With a membership of over two hundred, the St. Mary's Altar society held their first meeting of the fall season last evening at the Lyceum hall, with election of officers for the ensuing year, followed by a social evening. During the fall and winter months the society will meet twice each month on the first Tuesday of each month in the evening and the last Tuesday of each month in the afternoon.

The following officers were elected at last evening's meeting:

Miss Augusta Clynych, president; Mrs. H. S. McLaughlin, vice president; Mrs. D. P. McAlliff, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. W. H. McPherran and Mrs. J. Drehr were hostesses at the social gathering, that followed the election of officers last evening.

Cook Honolulu Bound Tomorrow

One of the best advertisers of Klamath left here this morning for good, in the person of R. H. Cook, photographer of Underwood's pharmacy.

With Mrs. Cook, Mr. Cook will drive to San Francisco where he will board a liner on September 8, bound for Honolulu. Mr. Cook has accepted a responsible position as photographer and druggist in Honolulu.

During his residence here, Mr. Cook made Klamath and Crater lake famous by his remarkable pictures of scenic spots throughout the country.

At the PINE TREE

A pleasing entertainment is offered by Emile Edouard in a study of miniature portraits. He is a capable artist whose work is performed in a quick and perfect manner full of comedy and novelty from the beginning to the end.

The Doucette Duo style their act "A Little Different," and live up to the billing. The male member is a trap drummer of no mean ability, and the female sings several songs in a very pleasing manner. Their offering should meet with approval wherever they play.

Bobbie Austin & Sister, in a high class dancing revue. Their repertoire of dance numbers practically include all known styles featuring pantomime waltz, eccentric wedding dance, apache and many new creations, with beautiful costumes and effects.

Chas. Glick and Miss Fern Bright will be seen here in their new and delightful Broadway divertissement called "Just a Bundle of Personality" hailing fresh from the ranks of many well known musical comedy productions where they co-starred together, and will display a wealth of talent seldom seen outside of the better class of musical comedy productions. Miss Fern Bright besides being a clever artiste is a noted beauty and has won fame and many laurels in this particular class of feminine attractiveness, and also for the marvelous stage gowns. Mr. Chas. Glick is a great bass soloist of grand opera quality, as well as a comedian of no mean ability.

Three Minstrel Misses, a trio of versatile entertainers that can be relied upon to more than please an audience with their winsome mannerisms and youthful vigor.

At The LIBERTY

Western productions make good virile fare for the jaded appetites of theatergoers today. When these out door stories are sufficiently well embroidered with comedy and romance they usually appeal to theatergoers of all classes. And such a production is "The Texas Bearcat," in which Bob Custer, the Texas boy, comes again to this community at the Liberty theater.

Bob is swiftly coming to the fore in his field of Western action productions. His new one shows a fine understanding of his work, a virile, he-man quality to his characterization.

It has what such a production must always have — movement.

A bright feature of the production is little blonde haired Sally Rand, who was recently featured in Cecil De Mille's "The Golden Bed," and Paul Bern's "The Dress Maker from Paris." Miss Rand, who is a recruit from vaudeville, is said to be one of the most beautiful girls on the screen today.

"The Texas Bearcat" will be shown again tonight.

NAVY SEAPLANE LOST ON OCEAN

plane flight from San Francisco to Honolulu.

This gloomy view of the predicament of Commander John Rodgers, U. S. N., and his four co-aviators, was based on official reports received last night from ships in the path of the big seaplane PN-9 Number 1. The reports all yielded the same definite fact: That the aviators were lost, untraceable in the darkness.

Rescue Plans

Throughout the hours of darkness, however, plans for rescue of the aviators, should they be found and alive, were brought to completion. The island of Maui, nearest of the Hawaiian group to the point the PN plane was believed to have dropped into the Pacific, was designated as the rescue base. Airplanes, submarines, surface ships, were started at daybreak on a systematic search of that territory between the 21st and 23rd parallels of latitude and the 153rd and 155th meridians of longitude.

With cloudy weather in prospect today and moderate seas running in the vicinity where it was believed the plane had been forced down, the searching planes took on capacity fuel loads at Lahaina ready to comb the Pacific in quest of the missing seaplane.

No Trace Found

A message received from the destroyer Aroostook at 10:15 last night said:

"No trace of plane number one which must have been forced down over 20 nautical miles south of the Aroostook station where the estimated maximum drift is eight miles an hour to the westward. The seas are moderate and the skies overcast."

With the destroyer Farragut, the Aroostook spent the night moving in the area 300 miles off Honolulu, stabbing the seas in vicinity where the missing plane might have dropped, disabled.

Messages Stop

A message received from the missing plane after the craft radioed that it was trying to remain in the air until the dwindling gasoline supply was exhausted, said: "What is wrong please? Go ahead," meaning that the Aroostook should proceed furnishing radio compass bearings to the PN-9 number 1. To this query the Aroostook answered: "What is your course and are you trying to find us?" To this message there was no answer.

The Aroostook after an all night vigil, was ordered to launch a plane at daylight to aid in the search. The work last night was hampered off the east coast of the island of Maui by treacherous seas and heavy skies. On account of this condition, three planes which took off from Lahaina to aid in the search, were ordered to return and wait until dawn before going into the air again.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., Sept. 2 (AP)—Word of the plight of her son, Flight Commander John Rodgers, on the navy seaplane PN-9 Number 1, reported down in the sea between San Francisco and Honolulu, is being kept from his mother at the Rodgers home in Sion Hill, a half mile from here.

Admiral John A. Rodgers, U. S. N., retired, has kept in touch with the search for his son through the Associated Press. Commander Rodgers' mother, who is advanced in years, was worried over her son's attempted San Francisco-Honolulu venture, and it has been feared that she would not withstand the shock of learning that he had met with mishap.

Fourteen years ago John Rodgers flew from College Park, Md., to the home of his parents, after having studied aviation under the Wright brothers. That flight attracted national attention.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 2 (AP)—The destroyer William Jones was reported by the marine department of the chamber of commerce entering the Golden Gate at 7:15 a. m. with an airplane in tow.

The plane being towed in is the PN-9 number 3, which gave up the non-stop flight endeavor and descended about 300 miles out on the route from San Francisco to Honolulu.

The United States ship Corry also is headed in, bringing a sailor who was stricken with appendicitis. Both will return to their positions, the Corry taking station number 1 and the William Jones the number 2 station.

Being concealed is usually about all a concealed person has to be concealed about.

At Broadway, Malin

Rex, the king of wild horses, starred by Hal Roach in "Black Cyclone," a new photodrama of the Nevada hill country showing September 4, 5 and 6 at the Broadway theater, Malin, is the finest example living today of a magnificent beast, viciously tempered by early influences, being redeemed by kindness and made to serve a worthwhile purpose in life.

As "Casey Jones" he was chained in a stall in Colorado because he was a killer of men—until Hal Roach's scouts discovered the black stallion and brought him out of his prison. Treated in the right way by Carl Morrison, noted horse trainer, he gave evidence in a short time of becoming a prize animal. Fred Jackman, who directed him last year in "The King of Wild Horses," which created a sensation, and also in "Black Cyclone," believes him the finest example of spirit without viciousness that he has ever seen.

REX THE WILD HORSE Black Cyclone

Wolves! His "Lady" in Danger!

Snarling and leaping for the throat of the fair mate of "Black Cyclone"—trying with their cruel fangs to tear the coat of the who was like a Silver Flash in the sunlight!—then in answer to her call came "Black Cyclone," with the blood of battle in his noble veins and death hidden in his hoofs!

Drama—Told in An Amazing Way!

Amazing! Fascinating!—the story of a horse, his coat as black as night, wild, courageous, noble! Of his love for "Lady," white and beautiful, like a Silver Flash in the Morning Sun—and of the coming of "The Killer," brutal ruler of the herd, who coveted her gleaming beauty.

A tale of battles! Of flashing hoofs—like the swords of Knights drawn for possession of a Lady Fair!

—And entwined with this, the dual story of a Mau and Maid, fighting against odds for their happiness—and how out of the night came "Black Cyclone," who knew no master, willing to fight side by side with this man for the conquest of their enemies!

A picture—novel, imaginative, heart gripping—filled with romance, adventure, loyalty an ddevotion, that will cast you spell-bound and hold you with its magic!
