PROPERTY NOT ON TAX ROLLS

Oregon has five hundred million dollars worth of marketable property that escaped taxation, according to the statement made by State Treasurer Tom Kay at the Western Taxpayers' conference in Portland this week. Mr. Kay added that if assessors entered that property on the tax rolls it would go a long way toward solving the problem of excessive taxation. This furnishes good food for thought for the assessors of the state, who in all probability will continue to act on their own judgment regardless of Mr. Kay's suggestion. Therefore, the way will remain open for tinkering with the tax laws in an effort to attain the impossible—a system that will satisfy everybody. What a wonderful thing it would be if the cost of government could be maintained satisfactorily without everybody bearing their just proportion of it.—Roseburg News-Review.

REFERENDUM WILL BE RESENTED

We doubt whether such astute organizers and inciters as Sanfield MacDonal and H. H. Stallard can interest the people of Oregon in a referendum on the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act. Efforts of eastern liquor interests to solidify "wet" sentiment in Oregon will merely stimulate the activity of the Anti-Saloon league. Even the employment of the two gentlemen just mentioned will hardly suffice to cover up the real source of the agitation. Indeed, they merely call attention to the character of an attempt to undermine the enforcement of the liquor laws that will be resented by the people of Oregon.—Oregon Voter.

WHAT OTHERS ARE DOING

ORIGIN OF "SISKIYOU"

By M. Hall McAllister

It is well known that the first white men to visit the Pacific coast, other than the English and Spanish explorers who came by the sea, were the Canadian French trappers who followed the beaver and other fur bearers right through to the western ocean.

These hard men gave names to the country, to the Indians and to natural features, as they saw them, and some of these names have come down to the present day.

As these pioneers spoke only a patois French mixed with a little Indian, it naturally follows that these western names are equally of these mixed languages.

The following are well known: nez perces means pinched noses, and Gros Ventres for big stomachs. The well known northern Indians, Siskiyou, are six pebbles, as will later be explained. Another French name, pend o'reille, meaning the lake of that name shaped like an ear pendant, and Couer d'Alene, the heart of the woods.

Now as to the word Siskiyou: The meaning is from two French words, "Six" meaning the numeral six, and pronounced six or sis, and "calloux", meaning pebbles.

When the Canadian trappers arrived in northern California they noticed that the children of a certain tribe played a game with six pebbles, similar to the white children's game of jackstones, and to distinguish them they dubbed "six calloux Indians," which name has come down to us as Siskiyou.

An English big game hunter, Mr. Baillie-Grohman, visited this coast in the early sixties and seventies and stated in his book: "I camped with a tribe called Siskiyou Indians; this is a distorted name from two Canadian-French words, 'six calloux', which means 'six pebbles', to indicate a children's game played by this tribe."

Mr. Baillie-Grohman also stated that in 1855, when the news reached the trappers of the west of Lincoln's assassination, they said that Boon, the assassin, yelled "Six serpents and a tarantula," the phrase "sic semper tyrannis" being distorted as above.—Mt. Shasta Herald.

STORK KEPT BUSY

Bringing two babies on one gallon of gas is the latest system of economy and efficiency inaugurated by the well known stork.

Two babes were deposited within an hour of each other to residents of the McGregory apartments on Commercial avenue last night. At 7 o'clock a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Allen McGregory. An hour later a daughter arrived for Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Smith living in the same house.

The son was the McGregory's first child, the little girl the Smith's fifth.—Marshfield Daily News.

ALL ABOUT BEND

Copy for the October number of the Union Pacific magazine, to be devoted to Bend and the Bend country, is being prepared this week by L. K. Cramb, secretary of the Bend commercial club. Cramb's article will be 2,500 words in length and will be well illustrated. Another article in the magazine about Bend will be written by George Palmer Utnam, president of the Knickerbocker Press of New York, former editor of The Bulletin. The magazine will have a wide circulation, and will be placed on trains, in schools, colleges and libraries.—Bend Bulletin.

OLD TIMER DIES

Andrew Storgard passed away at his home on Highland avenue last night after suffering from Bright's disease for several years. Mr. Storgard was born in Wasa, Finland, and was 59 years old the day before his death. He has made his home on Coos Bay for the past 30 years and all of his children have been born and raised in this city. His widow and four children,

Erick, Anna, Stella and Mildred, all of this city, survive. The funeral arrangements have not been completed. The members of the Martha society, who were holding their annual picnic tomorrow, have postponed it on account of the death of Mr. Storgard. Mrs. Storgard is a member of the Martha lodge.

The funeral of Andrew Storgard, who passed away last night, will be held from the Thuerwacher funeral home Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. Rev. Edlund will officiate at the service and interment will be at the Odd Fellows cemetery.—Coos Bay Times.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

Just fifty years ago today, a double wedding of brother and sister to sister and brother, took place in Marshfield and the event will be celebrated by the families on Coos river and in San Francisco.

W. F. Vanderburgh claimed Viola Clinkinbeard for his bride and John J. Clinkinbeard wedded Philura Vanderburgh. The nuptials took place at the Jas. Clinkinbeard home on north First street.

Mr. Clinkinbeard died a few years ago, but Mrs. Clinkinbeard is at the home place and tomorrow members of the family will gather at the old home for a reunion. The members of the family are George, Anna, Jay, Karl, Ralph and Ada.

The Vanderburgh golden wedding will be celebrated at the home of Dr. Vanderburgh, 332 Parnassus Ave. At the gathering will be the Judge Antonio Perry family, including their two children, Jacqueline and Dale, from Honolulu, Virginia Vanderburgh, Margaret Vanderburgh, Warren Jr. and John.

The family has many friends in this section and will be congratulated by hosts on the memorable anniversary.—Coos Bay Times.

BUILDING NEARS COMPLETION

The new annex of the Hensen-Weis building is nearing the finishing touches and will soon be ready for the company to carry out its plans to have the largest wholesale, retail and second-hand furniture establishment in eastern Oregon.

The firm is a pioneer one and its growth has kept well up to the expansion of business generally in this section and now with additional room they will have no handicap to a much larger volume of business that is warranted by the splendid prospects for good times in all lines of industry all over the northwest.—Baker Democrat.

SILVER AND GOLD

(Special from Callahan)
Driven in 75 feet and to a depth of 30 feet, the Sure Pay mine, two miles south of Callahan, lived up to its name this week when Del Williams and Frank Cory struck a rich body of gold and silver ore.

The mine is owned by Del Williams of Callahan and George and Archie Brown and J. H. Creighton of Fall River Mills. Williams and Cory have been working it for several months. The strike caused a great deal of excitement in the Callahan region and the latest reports were that the ores were growing steadily richer as the tunnel was advanced.—Siskiyou News.

STEWART'S

WASHINGTON LETTER

By CHARLES P. STEWART
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—While Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, whose department runs the Virgin Islands, doesn't admit responsibility on its part for the deplorable conditions which Judge Lucius J. M. Malmin charges exist there, it's beyond anybody's power to deny truthfully that economically the island's population has degenerated disgracefully since the United States took the group over from Denmark in 1917.

Comparative figures speak for themselves. In 1919, before the effects of American rule had had time to make themselves fully felt, the islanders' export to this country amounted to $2,276,512. Those for 1924 were $397,031.

That the decline was due to naval maladministration doesn't necessarily follow. To some extent it certainly doesn't follow.

The application of American laws to insular industries and trade have been to blame for the decay of the once busy, prosperous port of St. Thomas, it seldom is visited except by a very semi-occasional navy transport. Formerly a stopping place for the big ships of several lines, it is not now touched by one. Its commerce is almost wholly gone. It is difficult even to reach, or to leave, once there.

The legislation which wrought this ruin was not of the navy's making. It was the work of a Congress in Washington of whose members few can find the Virgin Islands on the map, without hunting, and some of whom probably never heard of them.

The distant Danish government took an interest in the Virgin group and its people, shaped its policies in their interest and turned them over to the United States as a thriving colony. This country put them under the charge of a naval governor and forgot them—and the governor, too.

Lakeside Lumber Company Sued by State Bank Dept.

The Lakeside Lumber company is occupying a piece of land which does not belong to it.

By contesting the ownership of the First State and Savings bank, defunct, it caused damage to that institution, now in the hands of the state, to the amount of $1500.

These are the contentions of the state banking department which this morning brought suit against the Lakeside Lumber company for $3000.

For the past three years, the concern has occupied the property owned by the defunct bank, and should be charged $1000 for rent, the complaint sets forth. In addition they should be made to pay $500 for attorney fees for the plaintiff.

The state banking department, in charge of liquidation of the assets of the defunct bank, set forth that, an opportunity to sell the land for $20000 was presented recently and that when the Lakeside Lumber company contested the ownership, the deal fell through.

Big Game May Not Be Played

Klamath Falls Issues Ultimatum To Jamieson

Unless Klamath Falls is allowed to play Fuller and is guaranteed $399 as her share of the gate receipts, no championship game will be played with Wood next Sunday.

This is the ultimatum delivered this afternoon by Bert Cook, director of the Pelican nine, to President Jamieson of the Siskiyou-Klamath league.

Wood, at a meeting of the board of directors last night, waived the protest against the victory of Klamath Falls, in which the playing of Fuller was protested.

But they insisted that Fuller be not played in the championship game. Just what position the league directors will take on that question could not be learned this afternoon, although it is generally assumed that they will support Wood.

I event that Fuller will not be allowed to play and the $300 guarantee will not be made, Klamath Falls will refuse to play the championship game and will play in Klamath Falls next Sunday with the Bend team, the champions of the Central Oregon league.
