HANEY FOR SENATOR

Bert Haney's refusal to resign from the Shipping Board at President Coolidge's demand, and his quarrel with Admiral Palmer's policy, is said to have made Mr. Haney the logical candidate for the Democrats for United States senate next year. Certainly no available Democrat is better qualified, and Mr. Haney's stand for Oregon development will give him a strong following among republicans.

Admiral Palmer is merely carrying out the president's policy, which is to withdraw the government from the shipping business because it is a losing venture. This policy works for the larger ports whose developed commerce is looked after by established lines and against smaller ports and those whose commerce is still in the process of development, and to whom some such subsidy as lines operating at a loss, are necessary.

We have there the old, old, quarrel of special interests, such as northwest ports, against the general interests of all the government, with Mr. Haney, democrat, taking the side of special interests, against Mr. Coolidge, republican, taking the side of the general public. Each reverses the historic policy of his party, for it has been the democrats who have opposed subsidy, paternalism and privilege and the republicans who have fostered them.

All of which shows how little real difference there is between the two political parties, a difference becoming less daily as government degenerates into a mere struggle for spoils. The new South, becoming industrial, wants a tariff for her industries, the middle west was specially favored for sugar, wheat and other tariffs, the northwest wants subsidized steamer lines, etc. Everywhere government has come to mean the doling out of pap for the few at the expense of the many.—Salem Journal.

If the third time breaks the charm Harold Hessig of Klamath Hot Springs is glad he broke his arm recently.

LYLE'S PLATFORM GIVEN

ed. I might suggest that both the Police and the Fire Departments should not be made a political football subject to the whims of new administrative officers, but should be considered only from an efficiency standpoint, and for that reason should be taken out of politics altogether.
I believe in a clean town and a wholesome community.
I am in favor of more parks and play ground equipment, zoning of the city into residential and industrial districts, more and better sewer sanitation, more paving and, principally, repairing immediately the main arteries of travel, such as Sixth street and Oregon avenue.

Strict rules for sanitation and health should be enforced for the general good of the community and greater cooperation should be had between various departments to the end that this city should be an ideal community in which to reside.
In conclusion, I would say that if elected, I will work for a bigger and better Klamath Falls.
Respectfully submitted,
A. J. LYLE.

Expert Sees Big Chances Here for Poultry Raising

Opportunities for Klamath poultrymen exceed those of the poultrymen of the fertile Willamette valley.

This statement came from the lips of one in a position to know, namely, H. E. Cosby, poultry specialist, connected with extension service department of the Oregon Agricultural college, who arrived in Klamath Falls last night to spend several days here projecting field work in Klamath county.

"The reason is very apparent," Cosby pointed out. "In Klamath county during the growing period of the pullet, green feed is assured the bird. In the Willamette valley, poultrymen are unable to secure an abundance of green feed. It makes all the difference in the world."

Mr. Cosby will make several personal inspections of poultry farms in the vicinity of Klamath Falls. Tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock he will conduct a culling demonstration on the T. N. Case ranch near Altamont and tomorrow evening at 7:30 he will address a meeting at the Mt. Laki church at which he will take up the subjects of culling and feeding of poultry.

Mr. Cosby plans to remain in Klamath Falls until Friday morning.

Near East Relief Workers in City

Rev. M. B. Paroungian, who spent the early part of his life in Armenia, and W. A. Sellwood, who spent a couple of years in Russia, are in the city in the interest of the Near East relief. Last Sunday they spoke in several of the churches with encouraging results.

Today they are speaking in the public schools, telling the children about the little orphans in the Near East who are calling America their father and mother because their own parents are dead.

At 10 o'clock Saturday morning a motion picture, "Uncle America Sees It Too," will be shown at the Liberty theater through the courtesy of Harry Poole. All children, teachers and ministers are invited, as well as the public generally. The price of admission will be a bundle of old clothes.

Munger Laundry to Be Built on 4th and Klamath

The new Munger laundry building will arise on the corner of Fourth and Klamath avenue, and not on 2nd and Main.

The city council became appraised of this decision of the incoming concern, when application for the construction of the new laundry, which will cost $45,000, was made and approved last night.

According to officials of the concern, decision to change the location of the laundry was prompted by a desire to be closer to the city heating plant.

Building activities in Klamath Falls for the past week represent an investment of $65,000. Continual activity in constructing new residences costing from $1000 to $4000 was noted.

CAMP FOREMAN IS BADLY INJURED; HAND CRUSHED

Arthur Keenan, foreman of the Shaw-Bertram Lumber camp, may lose his right hand as the result of an accident at the camp 14 miles northeast of Braymill, yesterday afternoon when his hand was crushed between two cars.

Keenan was rushed to the Klamath General hospital last night. It was quickly ascertained that practically every bone in the injured member was broken and badly crushed. Whether or not the hand will be saved is a question.

GUESTS AT DE LAP HOME

Mrs. Verle Brewbaker and two children, Kathryn and Robert, who are visiting here from California, with Mrs. Brewbaker's mother, Mrs. McMillan, were the luncheon guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. DeLap today. Mrs. Brewbaker is a niece of Mrs. DeLap. Mr. Brewbaker who is also visiting here is enjoying a deer hunt with a party of friends this week.

RETURN TO HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Hawkins left this morning by motor for their home at Cottage Grove, after visiting here for the past fortnight, with Mrs. Hawkins sister, Mrs. Doela Norris. While here they motored to Lakeview where they attended the Roundup over the week-end.
