

NO MORE DEPUTY WARDENS ARE TO BE GIVEN STARS

Averill Announces New Ruling for State Game Commission Employees

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 10.—State Game Warden E. P. Averill today issued orders that will do away with practically all special deputy game wardens and will make enforcement officers entirely independent of gun clubs.

It has been the custom to appoint special deputies for several years, Averill said, and between 400 and 500 such officers now carry stars. Almost no arrests have been made by them and Averill believes that practically the only thing accomplished by their having stars is the gratification of their desire for authority. Under his orders no more special deputies will be appointed except on request of the commission or regular deputies.

All watchmen at gun clubs have also been taken off the special deputy rolls. This action was taken, Averill said, because the watchmen made practically no arrests and the authority was wanted by the watchmen in order to help them keep off poachers in which the commission was not interested.

Deputy wardens are ordered not to shoot on gun club preserves unless under written permission of the state warden of the commission. This will keep deputies from edging their way into invitations to shoot, Averill said. Members of clubs have sometimes objected to having the deputies shoot.

William Franks Is Located But Charges Dropped

William Franks, who was, past tense, accused of kidnaping his own children several weeks ago has been located in a small town in Idaho, but so far as the district attorney's office is concerned he will remain there indefinitely.

This despite the earnest wish of Mrs. Franks to recover their four children, who Mr. Franks took from her.

"The fact of the matter is that a further investigation into the law of the case brings out that Franks could not have been guilty of kidnaping his own child," W. A. West, deputy district attorney said today. In other words because the state has no legal ground on which to proceed, it has washed its hands of the affair. If Mrs. Franks wanted her husband back, the state might take measures in that direction but it could not get the children back because the father is a joint guardian.

WAY CASE WILL FINISH TONIGHT

Murphy did you not?
A—Yes, on May 28.
Q—Now would it not be impossible for a fallen knuckle incurred five days before, to be without any swelling?
A—In my judgment and from my observation during my medical experience, I would say that any fallen knuckle or bone displacement of that sort would bring a swelling for some time thereafter.

Q—Then the injury probably occurred some time before Murphy's death.
A—Yes, I would think so.

Character Witnesses
An imposing group of character witnesses were called to the stand to testify as to the good character of Way in Klamath county and in Primville.

In cross examining each one Horace Manning asked whether or not they had heard of Frank Way being mixed up in gun play in or about Dorris, Calif. Only Miss Ida B. Momyer, indicated that she had heard even an inkling of such an affair. She told of hearing something about a controversy between homesteaders and sheep men but doubted ever having heard of Frank Way pulling a gun on anybody on that occasion.

May Close Tonight
By 3:30 p. m. the state promised it would complete its case and, providing a night session is held, it was freely predicted about the court house that the case would go to the jury sometime before 9 o'clock tonight.

The case is being conducted with a facility and despatch, with a dearth of objections on both sides, and with a lack of wrangling among attorneys, that has seldom been seen in Klamath Falls.
