Traffic Official Of S. P. Here on Inspection Trip

F. C. Lathrop, assistant passenger traffic manager of the Southern Pacific company, arrived here last evening. For the purpose of keeping in close touch with the passenger traffic affairs of his company, Mr. Lathrop gets away from his desk in San Francisco and periodically gets first hand information through personal contact with the traveling public and railroad men, with the result that the efficiency of the passenger department has lately been making rapid strides forward. During the past week his company met one of the hardest tests it has ever been subjected to, when it handled tens of thousands of visitors to the Bay city during the Diamond Jubilee week. Not a single serious accident occurred in transporting this great multitude of people.

On no section of the Southern Pacific system has Mr. Lathrop more friends than in Klamath county, for he has taken a special interest in bringing this territory to the attention of the traveling public. A great lover of nature himself, he looks upon Klamath county as one of the scenic wonders of the many to be found along the Southern Pacific and never misses an opportunity to sing its praises.

Oregon Football Practice Starts

EUGENE, Ore., Sept. 14.—With practically every letterman who is eligible for this year's variety football team at the University of Oregon already on hand, the training season for the 1925 team will start tomorrow. Oregon backers are hopeful over the outlook, though Coach Dick Smith has little to say.

One thing stands out in the minds of the followers of the sport this year. Oregon will have adequate and competent substitutes.

The list of veterans who will report tomorrow is encouraging, and the outlook quite bright.

Lebanon Men Are Injured in Wreck

INDEPENDENCE, Ore., Sept. 14.—Walter Lawrence and Warren G. Shields were injured, the former seriously when the automobile in which they were riding between Albany and Independence left the road, turned turtle and pinned them beneath it about 8 miles south of here on the Buena Vista road yesterday afternoon. Both are residents of Lebanon and were taken there following the accident.

The spill occurred when the men turned their car too far out of the road in passing another car, they told Dr. G. C. Knott who was called to attend them. Loose gravel in the road was also held to be a contributing cause.

Lawrence, with several ribs on his left side fractured and blood running from his mouth, was the most seriously injured. Dr. Knott said, although he could not determine at the time whether Lawrence was injured internally. Shields suffered a broken collar bone and cuts on his hands.

At The LIBERTY

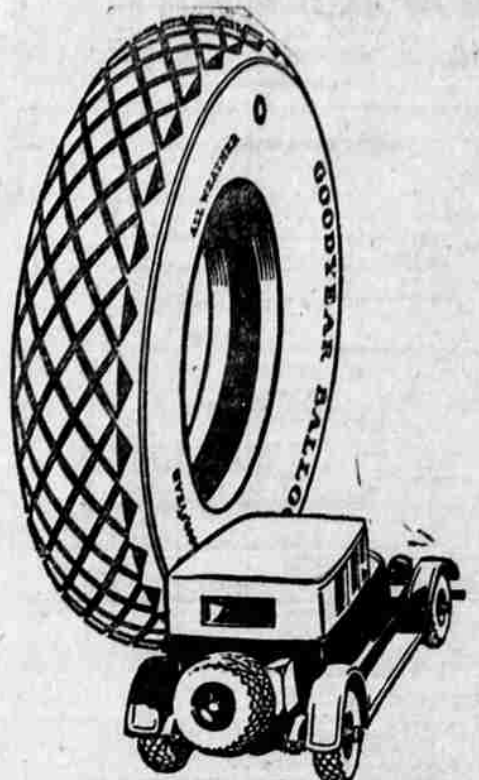

Riding on a log, less than two feet in diameter, down a rapid stream, isn't the easiest thing in the world. Yet the lumberjacks who were drafted into actors' jobs for atmospheric scenes in "The Knockout," which shows at the Liberty tonight, declare they would rather ride a log than cruise in a taxi down Broadway. They made this assertion while in New York, where they were brought

With all the confusion, misunderstanding and general lack of information on the subject of tire buying, one might think Abraham Lincoln coined his famous phrase after an experience in tire buying.

The truth of what he said as applied to tires is best summed up today in this statement of fact: MORE PEOPLE RIDE ON GOODYEAR TIRES THAN ON ANY OTHER KIND.

Of course there is a real reason.

At the PINE TREE

Amazement, surprise, disbelief in one's own eyes—these are some of the emotions aroused by "The Lost World," which opens at the Pine Tree Tuesday.

The picture makers have long promised "something really new—a second 'Birth of a Nation'—a photoplay that will start a new chapter in film history."

"The Lost World" comes nearest to living up to these promises of any picture we have seen in a long time.

School text books say that the last of the dinosaurs became extinct at least 10,000,000 years ago. Yet on the picture screen these fearsome creatures of the reptilian age actually come to life—with a reality that makes one tremble for the safety of Bessie Love, Lewis Stone, Wallace Berry, Lloyd Hughes and the other film adventurers who find the huge creatures still alive in an unexplored area of South America.

The amazement that these reptiles instill is equaled only by the curiosity as to how the producers were able to do it. This picture might be described as the one photoplay of universal appeal. Every class of movie patron will find a super thrill in it.

For those who like romance we have Lewis Stone and Lloyd Hughes struggling for the heart of Bessie Love, and at the same time trying to prevent her from being gobbled up by hungry, man eating dinosaurs.

For those who hanker for adventure the picture offers the hunting episode where Stone, Berry and Hughes attempt to bag a 150,000 pound monster that doesn't mind elephant guns any more than beanshooters.

For the serious minded student we from Canada for the interiors of the picture.

One of the most thrilling scenes in the picture is an incident in which a number of intoxicated woodsmen ride down a rapid stream to witness a fight between Milton Sills and a six-foot-seven adversary. That he might get genuine thrills into this scene Director Lambert Hillier engaged a dozen or more of Canada's best log riders for the action.

have a picturization of the earth just as paleontologists say it was millions of years before the first man.

For those who like spectacles this movie contains what might be termed the most spectacular event the earth has seen in 15,000,000 years. A volcano sets fire to a forest representing thousands of acres. Scores of prehistoric monsters, such as the brontosaurus, triceratops, trachodon, diplodocus, allosaurus and megalosaurus flee into an immense lake, while the human actors try to keep out of their paths.

It took over seven years to produce this motion picture. That is not surprising.
