

install NOW! pay later at your convenience in small monthly installments

LET'S get together—sit down and talk this thing over—decide on a definite date for the installation of your Montag Furnace.

The longer you "put off" placing your order—the harder it will be for us to give you the type of Montag service we insist upon your having.

Surely, by this time you have decided on a Montag Furnace. Of course, you want the furnace that is going to fit your home exactly as though it were made exclusively for your property.

What's the use—then—of waiting to place your order.

Winter isn't far off—just a few more of these nice days—and cold weather will be here. It will be a lot more comfortable—for you and for us—to have the job done—right now.

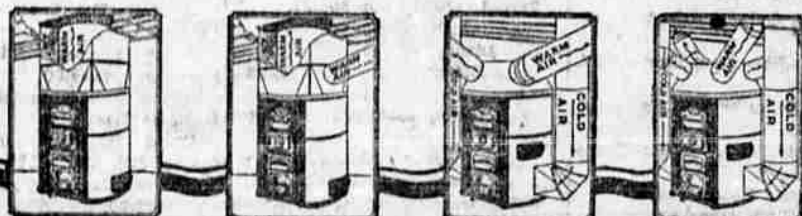

The money part needn't bother you if you're waiting to get all the money at once—forget it! Very few furnaces are sold for all cash. Practically everybody makes a small payment down and takes care of the balance in small monthly payments. You can do the same. We will arrange satisfactory terms. Order now so we can have time to scientifically install your Montag Furnace.

At the PINE TREE

Jackie Coogan opened yesterday at the Pine Tree theatre in "The Rag Man," a comedy of New York life. As an Irish-American orphan who becomes partner of a Jewish rag man, Jackie was never more amusing. "The Rag Man" is the best of his recent pictures, and shows for the last time tonight.

When Ronald Colman completed his role in "A Tale in Paradise," he claims he qualified as a past master of movie thrills. Among his scenes here were: A hand-to-hand battle with another man at the bottom of the Pacific ocean for possession of a priceless pearl.

"A Thief in Paradise" is Colman's fifth screen appearance. Aileen Pringle is co-featured with the young English actor and Miss Doris Kenyon, which comes to the Pine Tree Tuesday.

At The LIBERTY

The masked rider who traveled with a band of outlaws, who was more daring, swifter in the saddle, more elusive than a rain cloud whisked by a high wind across the desert wastes—who was this rider? Why was the mask worn, when the others of the pack did not bother to conceal their identities?

Have you read Zane Grey's "Riders of the Purple Sage," a story of the western ranges? That is the tale of Lanister and the masked rider, and Tom Mix portrays the role of Lanister.

At the Liberty theatre tonight only. One of the season's finest casts was assembled for "Broad," a screen version of the Charles Norris novel, which is coming to the Liberty theatre on Tuesday for a run of two days. The chief role, that of a girl swayed between a love for business life and the home, is played by Mae Busch, who has lately appeared in such successes as "Name the Man," "The Christian," "The Shooting of Dan McGrew," and "Broken Barriers." The leading man is Robert Frazer, and other players include Pat O'Malley, Wanda Hawley, Hobart Bosworth, Myrtle Steadman, Ward Crane, Raymond Lee, and Eugenie Besserer.
