Fourteen Small Homes to Rise; Permits Granted

Foundations for fourteen more small homes will be laid this coming week it was learned last night when the city council granted building applications to fourteen citizens seeking to build homes.

All the proposed residences will be small, not to exceed $2500 and most around $500, and no particular addition gained much of an advantage over another by the extensive construction of residences. The homes will be scattered throughout the town.

In all 26 building permits were allowed. The building investment represented was $20,250.

Women take better care of their hands than men, the only exception being their poker hands.
