"THERE'S no room in the world for bad temper," someone said the other day. Now consider Miss Polly. Her complexion is rather that of a discolored bath sponge; her hair grows too high on her head and a wispy always hangs in front of each ear; her mouth is big and her nose stubby and her eyes of no particular color at all. Yet from her face radiates something very, very much like beauty. What is it? A good disposition.

Everybody adores Miss Polly, and of course that makes her sweeter than ever. But the trick of turning the other cheek, of pouring oil on troubled water, of making friends, of being on the spot in time of need, of raising a laugh, isn't necessarily born in a person. What makes so many plain people popular?

In the first place (perhaps because they are plain) they don't take themselves too seriously. The stock in trade of a good looking person is his or her good looks. He or she's got to advertise, to display to advantage, to consider supply and demand. But a plain person's free of all that.

If a plain person is left out of a party it isn't so unexpected. Nine chances out of ten she doesn't harbor a slight. She never has to worry lest she's fading or going out of style. Nothing in the world sours one quicker than allowing one's mind to get tied up to a disappointment. Forget it. Life's too short. Everybody likes the man who temperamentally can keep on the crest of the wave. And, in the second place, good nature is a habit. It may be an effort to acquire it in the beginning, but once you rise above your indignation of your sense of your own importance or your feeling of the seriousness of life, it's plain sailing. And some morning you'll wake up to find yourself popular. After all, why should people put up with a grouch? Moreover, no one really needs to be plain these days.

LINDLEY SISTERS ENTERTAIN WITH DELIGHTFUL BRIDGE

On Wednesday evening one of the most attractive bridge parties of the week was presided over by the Misses Josephine and Katherine Lindley at their home on Riverside. An attractive arrangement of marigolds in low Japanese bowls decorated the home. Trophies for the evening were awarded to Mrs. Lester Offield and Miss Fern Hanks. Miss Gertrude Lindley added much to the evening's enjoyment by giving a clever dance number. At the close of the play the hostesses served a daintily appointed luncheon.

The guest list included: Mrs. Lester Offield, Mrs. Marvin Lucas, Mrs. Robert Lindley, Mrs. Lloyd Stoner, Mrs. Robert Riggs, Mrs. George Myers, Mrs. George R. Lindley and the Misses Fern Hanks, Lois Bynon, Pearl Renie, Francis Humphrey, Margaret Hargus, Eileen Mordoff, Dorothy Currin, Jeanne Perry, Mary Johnson, Bertha Petz, Bessie Tull, and the hostesses.

ONE O'CLOCK LUNCHEON HONORS MRS. LEONETTI

A charmingly arranged one o'clock luncheon of Wednesday was presided over by Mrs. E. Almeter, when she honored Mrs. Victor Leonetti at her home on Johnson avenue. The flowers chosen for the occasion were beautiful Ophelia roses and sweet peas of the pastel shades. Mrs. John Almeter, Sr., and Mrs. George Metz assisted the hostess. Covers were laid for Mrs. Victor Leonetti, the honor guest, Mrs. Carl Sandall, Mrs. W. E. Beck, Mrs. Fred Leonetti, Mrs. E. H. Benton, Mrs. J. Griffith, Mrs. R. N. Almeter, Mrs. R. McSurber and the hostess.

BIRTHDAY DINNER PARTY AT HARNES HOME

Complimenting Mr. Bert Cook with a delightful dinner party at the Barnes home, Mrs. W. B. Barnes was hostess on Friday evening. The dinner table was attractively centered with a basket of old fashioned flowers. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Bert Cook, Mrs. Marion Barnes, Allison and James Barnes, Deane Houston, Goldie Miller and the hostess.

VERSE

Verse cannot tell the longing in my heart,
The ever growing wish that mine may be
As beautiful to you, at least in part.
As is your friendship beautiful to me,
But it can tell what all my spirit knows,
What otherwise my tongue would strive to do:
That ever in my heart there also grows
A deep, imperishable love for you.—Harriet Tyng.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF UNIVERSITY WOMEN MEET

An unusual amount of interest was shown in the initial meeting of the American Association of University Women which met in the club rooms of the Library on Monday evening. The club which is now enjoying its twelfth birthday has shown rapid strides and is now one of the outstanding clubs of the city. Mrs. Rachel Solomon, Mrs. William Ganong and Mrs. E. L. Cramblitt sponsored the club over twelve years ago. Classes were organized at the meeting on Monday evening. Mrs. A. L. Rice to have charge of the study of the child of school age. Current literature which will cover the study of biography this year will be under the direction of Mrs. G. A. Krause and Mrs. R. Geary. Mrs. Charles Wood Eberlein will take charge of the class in the study of drama.

The present officers are Mrs. J. R. Shaw, president; Mrs. Rachel Solomon, vice president; Mrs. George Stephenson, secretary and Mrs. E. L. Cramblitt, treasurer. Miss Le Laine West will be hostess to the club at their next meeting at the home of Mrs. Wilbur Jones. The meeting will take up the business matters of the club.

EASTERN STAR MEMBERS COMPLIMENT MEDFORD CHAPTER

Covers were laid for sixty-five at the prettily appointed dinner on Tuesday evening for which Aloha chapter of the Eastern Star were hostesses, honoring some thirty members of Remes chapter of Medford. The dinner was held in the chamber of commerce dining room and much credit should be given Mrs. Keller for the arrangement. Following the dinner the guests were taken to the Masonic temple for the lodge meeting. A banquet followed the meeting. The tables were beautifully decorated in blue, yellow, white, green and red, the colors of the order. The tables were so arranged as to form a star with the two Worthy Matrons and the two Worthy Patrons seated at a square table in the center of the star. Lovely silver candle sticks holding pastel shaded tapers were used about the tables with the floral centerpieces.

The next meeting of the Star will be held on October 13, the gathering to be of a social nature.

HAPPY HOUR CLUB WITH MRS. R. A. EMMITT

Members of the Happy Hour club and a few special guests met at the home of Mrs. R. A. Emmitt on Tuesday afternoon. Purple and gold was the color note carried out in lovely low vases of marigolds and asters. A prettily appointed luncheon was served by the hostess at the conclusion of the social afternoon. Special guests for the afternoon were: Mrs. Abble Walker, Mrs. Amelia Whitlock and Mrs. George Barth. The club members present were Mrs. W. Templar, Mrs. W. Steinmetz, Mrs. F. Summers, Mrs. O. M. Hector, Mrs. W. P. Johnson, Mrs. L. Rudolph and the hostess. Mrs. W. Cofer will be hostess to the club at their next gathering.

AU REVOIR COURTESY HONORS WICKSTRUMS

Captain and Mrs. Al Wickstrum, who recently left for Alameda, California, were the honor guests on Thursday evening, when Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Van Camp entertained with dinner. The table was centered with an art bowl of bright colored asters and ferns, fresh from the Van Camp flower beds. Covers were laid for Captain and Mrs. Al Wickstrum, Mr. R. Morris of Alameda and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Van Camp.

CHARMING BRIDGE AFTERNOONS

Standing out in lovely distinction on the week's social calendar were the bridge afternoons of Thursday and Friday when Mrs. Charles Wood Eberlein and Mrs. T. C. Campbell were hostesses at the Hall Annex. The attractive annex was most beautifully decorated with Chinese vases filled with lovely yellow Chrysanthemums and about the room dropping gracefully from archways and colonnades were individual baskets of marigolds. Strictly Chinese in its every appointment form the clever Chinese invitation at the head of the stairs to the dainty wee Betty and Jane Hauger, who assisted the hostesses gowned in Chinese robes, with wee small yellow mums prettily arranged in their hair, the event marked one of the leading events of the fall and winter months. At the head of the stairs was the tea table centered with a Dutch silver candelabra holding yellow glowing tapers, upon which a Chinese scarf was gracefully draped. The confections were carried out in the same color tone.

On Thursday afternoon Mrs. H. E. Hauger held high score, the favor for second place going to Mrs. Bert Hall and the consolation to Mrs. Jack Slater. Friday afternoon the trophy for high score went to Mrs. Oscar Shive. Mrs. John Sargent received second high and Mrs. John Boye the consolation.

YOUNGER SOCIAL SET GATHER AT MASSEY HOME

For the younger social set one of the most enjoyable affairs of the past week was the party of Saturday evening, over which the Misses Alida Massey and Venice Moore presided. Throughout the Massey home where the affair was held, were lovely Dresden vases of daisies, marigolds and autumn leaves, symbolic of fall. Games, music and dancing passed the merry hours for the guests who numbered fifty. Assisted by Mrs. C. A. Massey, the young hostesses served a daintily appointed luncheon at the hour of midnight.

MISS MAYBELLE LEAVITT TO GIVE BOOK REVIEW

The Study club of the library will hold their second meeting of the fall and winter months on Monday afternoon, October 5, in the club rooms of the library. At this meeting Miss Maybelle Leavitt will give a book review of the "Scarlet Cockade" by Sublette. Much interest has been shown in the club and with a number of the city's most prominent literary critics appearing before the club during the fall and winter months, it is hoped the meetings will prove unusually successful.

A FLOWER GARDEN JUST OVER THE HILL

Over a winding road, which carries you to the hill top, secluded from the rest of the city, lies one of the most beautiful flower gardens you could hope to see. Even though fall has set in and the frost has somewhat tinged their beautiful petals, roses are still blooming in the late September sun. Asters in all the radiant colors, pretty faced pansies, gladiolas, zenias, golden glow, portulacca and sun flowers catch your eye as you motor to the cozy little cottage of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Van Camp in North Klamath. In the center of the lovely lawn is a fountain in the shape of a star with little Dresden images standing out amongst the flowers.

Even yet the Van Camp family each morning go to their beautiful garden and pick strawberries for the morning meal. Being a lover of nature one must also love and understand the birds, and Mrs. Van Camp has a family of some dozen registered German and St. Andrews Rollers.

Sometime when you are motoring, with no special place in mind, and you must hurry, for soon autumn will be fading and the lovely garden will be no more, ride to North Klamath in the Blehn addition and see for yourself what can really be cultivated on Klamath soil.

SAN FRANCISCO.—Six San Quentin convicts, charged with murdering Branch O. Miller, prison clerk, during an attempted jail break, petitioned the district court of appeals for an order to exhume the body of the dead man. The prisoners contend that Miller was killed by gun-fire, whereas they were unarmed.
