WHAT WE LEARNED

Dealers all over the country keep talking about the "Used Car Problem". They seem to regard it as a sort of nightmare. We learned long ago that the biggest part of the problem consists of getting people to realize that all Used Cars and all Used Car Dealers aren't alike. And it isn't a problem at all!

Frank Nakata To Visit Land Of His Birth

After residing in Klamath Falls for more than 13 years, Frank Nakata, well known and respected resident of this city, left this morning for San Francisco from which point he will sail on October 15 for his old home at Ochifu Mura, which is located 300 miles south of Yokohama, Japan.

After 23 years away from his native land, Nakata is making his first trip home, looking forward to seeing his aged father, who is now in his 78th year. Mrs. Nakata, who with her two sons left here about two years ago, is in poor health and he is anxious to get to their old home, hoping that she and the two boys will be able to return to the United States with him at the end of three months or more.

The New City Laundry, which has grown to be one of the largest in southern Oregon, was first started by Nakata more than 13 years ago and he recently disposed of all his interests here.

In leaving for his old home, Mr. Nakata expressed his intentions of again returning to Klamath Falls and subscribed for The Evening Herald, which will be sent to him at his far away home.

AUTO TRUCK MEN SUE STATE BOARD

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Suit was filed in the United States district court here today against the state highway commission to restrain the commission from putting into effect an order limiting truck loads on the Columbia river highway between Portland and Hood River. The commission recently ruled that maximum loads on the highway should be reduced from 22,000 pounds to 16,500 pounds.

The suit is brought by R. B. Morris, of Morris and Lowther, auto freight carriers from Portland to The Dalles; H. E. Hewitt and Lew Nunamaker, of John Day valley freight lines; H. L. Livingston of Bend-Portland transit; and the Portland-Hood River truck lines.

The case was brought in federal court because it is averred the state highway commission receives aid for the main lines in Oregon from the federal government.

—Frank McArthur—that the district was opposed to the Southern Pacific. Mr. McArthur then apologized for having made such a statement.

Following the presentation of the rail situation, the chamber directors went into immediate executive session in an effort to arrive at some definite decision regarding the rail controversy.

EUGENE CHAMBER ENDORSES S. P.; IS AGAINST NONE

EUGENE, Ore., Sept. 29. — The railroad development now under way by the Southern Pacific company in central and southwestern Oregon was unanimously endorsed by the Eugene chamber of commerce at its annual meeting last night.

The resolution passed by the chamber was one adopted by the board of directors, yesterday in place of a previous resolution adopted July 6. The first resolution declared against duplication of investment in and duplication of operation upon railroads wherever such duplication could be avoided without injury to public interests.

No names of roads were mentioned in the former resolution, but several members of the chamber objected to the clause bearing on the duplication of railroads and it was therefore omitted from the final statement as a satisfactory compromise. The resolution as passed does not place the chamber in opposition to other roads, it was pointed out by members of the body.

The resolution was brought up by the chamber in an effort to show the Southern Pacific company that it is in favor of the work which will place Eugene on a new road to the east, which is several hundred miles shorter than existing routes, said F. L. Chambers, retiring president, in answer to a question as to the purpose of the resolution.

The Hill lines are not mentioned in the resolution and the chamber shows no opposition to any road through the resolution, said Mr. Chambers.

COUNCIL TO PUT OVER DRIVE FOR CEMETERY FUND

City Governing Body Feels Disgrace of Unkempt Burial Grounds

Surrounded by towns whose respect for their dead is marked by a cemetery that is a credit to the city, Klamath Falls can well hang her head in shame when visitors view Linkville cemetery.

Such was the opinion last night of the city council in discussing the situation.

"There is just one way we can improve the property, and that is to ask for the help of the city by private subscription," Councilman Fred Cofer suggested. "I have a feeling that a number of people, particularly those whose relatives, parents or children are buried in the cemetery, will be willing to contribute to a fund that would enable us to bring the cemetery up to a standard that would compare favorably with other towns."

Councilman Baisiger spoke up: "I was at Lakeview the other day and you should see the cemetery they have. Their city is smaller and poorer than ours, and yet they find the time and money to provide a decent last resting place for the dead."

It was felt by the council that the city and even the county within a radius of 15 miles of the city, would support a public movement to improve the city cemetery. A movement to this end will probably be initiated in the near future.

Revival Meetings Attracting Crowds

The revival meetings in the tent at Seventh and Pine are attracting large crowds each night. The evangelist spoke on "The Unpardonable Sin." Sunday evening and the audience showed keen interest in his quotations from the scriptures.

Many sick and maimed persons attended last night, some on crutches and others being carried into the tent, indicating their faith in God's power to heal the sick. The evangelist assured many of them that their prayers had been heard.

The subject tonight will be "What is the matter with Klamath Falls?"
