ANDREW COLLIER AGAINST ACTION

R. E. Crego, although it is reported to have been drawn up by a group of lumbermen at a secret meeting last Friday, at which representatives of the Southern Pacific company were present.

S. P. Journalists Immediately after the barred-door session of the chamber of commerce directors, publicity agents for the Southern Pacific gleefully began typing biased stories of the meeting which they sent at Southern Pacific expense to the metropolitan daily newspapers in Portland in an effort to forestall unbiased and truthful stories which the regular correspondents of the Portland papers wired from here last night.

Much favorable comment was heard about the streets today on the stand taken by President Collier and his three supporters in their efforts to save the chamber of commerce directors from certain ridicule. The people were laughing openly at the so-called "resolution" upon which the members are asked to vote.

Must Think We're Dubs "They must take us for a lot of dubs," commented one outraged chamber of commerce member.

"If they can't do any better than that, I'm through," threatened another.

And back of the entire star chamber proceeding, foolish as members claimed it to be, was the guiding hand of the Southern Pacific.
