A fearless handling of vital problems of today

Beginning Monday

"The Pony Express"

It rides the trail of thrills again

Pony hoofs thunder across the continent from Missouri to California, and east and west are linked again as they were in 1860. Across 2,000 miles of unblazed tract. Through scorching sun and black of night. Through ice and snow and raiding Indians. Eight days and nights of perilous riding and unmatched heroism.

From this thrilling page of history, the screen's greatest director of epic romances has wrought his successor to "The Covered Wagon".

BETTY JEAN BROWN BURNED
Child Is Painfully Hurt by Acid
Foamed on Playground

Little Betty Jean Brown, daughter of Mrs. J. Brown, was painfully burned Friday afternoon, while playing on the play ground with several little playmates. In picking up a bottle which was filled with some deadly acid, the liquid spilled down her arm and side. Her mother rushed to her assistance, to find that the acid had eaten through her hose. She was rushed to a physician and the burns were treated. It is considered most fortunate that the children did not attempt to drink from the bottle, just why or how anyone would so carelessly throw a bottle of poison where children are known to play, is a mystery.

Mr. Kittredge is a resident of Silver Lake, a rancher of that section and very well known in southern Oregon. He arrived in Klamath Falls last night and registered at the Hall hotel.

HENDERSON TO LEAVE

Farm experts from all over the state will gather together at Corvallis next week where they will discuss mutual problems and their solution. The occasion will be the county agent's convention in Corvallis. It is an annual affair, this county agent's convention, and the purpose of the meetings is to delve into problems that confront the county agents from counties all over the state. County Agent C. A. Henderson is planning to leave for Corvallis this afternoon.

SPRAGUE BOOSTER HERE

If there is anybody that could boost the bright prospects of Sprague river more vividly than D. E. Wofford, it is F. A. Hutto, sub-agent on the Klamath Indian reservation from Sprague river. For the past two years and a half, Mr. Hutto, and his aides, Wofford and Dan Wann, have been working indefatigably in the interest of the little community 40 miles east of Klamath Falls at the terminus of the Oregon California and Eastern railroad, and now it appears that their efforts will be rewarded with success. For one mill is in operation and another will soon be turning out lumber. As a result the little community is beginning to grow. Two years ago last September, the only testimonials that such a settlement as Sprague river, existed were stakes and a small store that Wofford and Wann had moved from Yainax. Mr. Hutto, arrived in Klamath Falls last night on his regular weekly visit.

What Does The Passing Public

know about you? They know that your appearance attests the respect you have for the regard of others. Your esteem for the kindly consideration of those you meet is measured by the manner in which you present yourself to them. The man who instinctively feels that such a consideration on his part is but a natural responsibility succeeds in matters where real qualities count.
