GOVERNOR URGES BOTH RAILROADS TO BUILD LINES

Walter M. Pierce Testifies at Rail Hearing in Opposition to S. P.

STATE UNDEVELOPED Competing Lines Should be Permitted on Open Territory, he Asserts

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 13. (A.P.)—Governor Walter M. Pierce took the stand in the rail hearing today as the first witness for the Oregon public service commission, as intervenor, and recommended that both the Southern Pacific and the Oregon Trunk be allowed to make the extensions for which they have applied. The hearing is being conducted before Charles D. Mahaffie, director of finance of the interstate commerce commission. The Southern Pacific completed its case this morning. Paul Shoup, vice president of the company, testified, telling of the acquisition of the Oregon, California and Eastern (Strahorn line), and the Nevada-California-Oregon company line.

He said that everything will be done by the Southern Pacific to make its control of the Strahorn line satisfactory to Klamath Falls. He said his company will begin standardizing the Nevada-California-Oregon line as soon as the interstate commerce commission gives approval and ratifies the acquisition of the line by the Southern Pacific.

Cross-State Line
Governor Pierce recited that the Oregon commission had sought to obtain a cross state line from Crane to Odell, and that a line be built south from Bend, to open up a large region of the state now without rail transportation. He emphasized the need of development in the territory around Lakeview. He favored standardization of the narrow gauge road now entering Lakeview from the south, and declared that Lakeview should have an outlet to the north, giving connection with markets served by the Northern lines and the Union Pacific.

Competition Needed
"Where a single line of railroad is sufficient I do not believe in duplication of construction, but I do believe that the vast central Oregon country should have rail competition and that competing companies should have joint user privileges with existing companies.

At present we are prevented from reaching the eastern markets. We need a cross-state line. Such a line, if built under conditions and safeguards which will permit the owning companies freely and actively to participate in western Oregon tonnage will prove a great boon to the entire state.

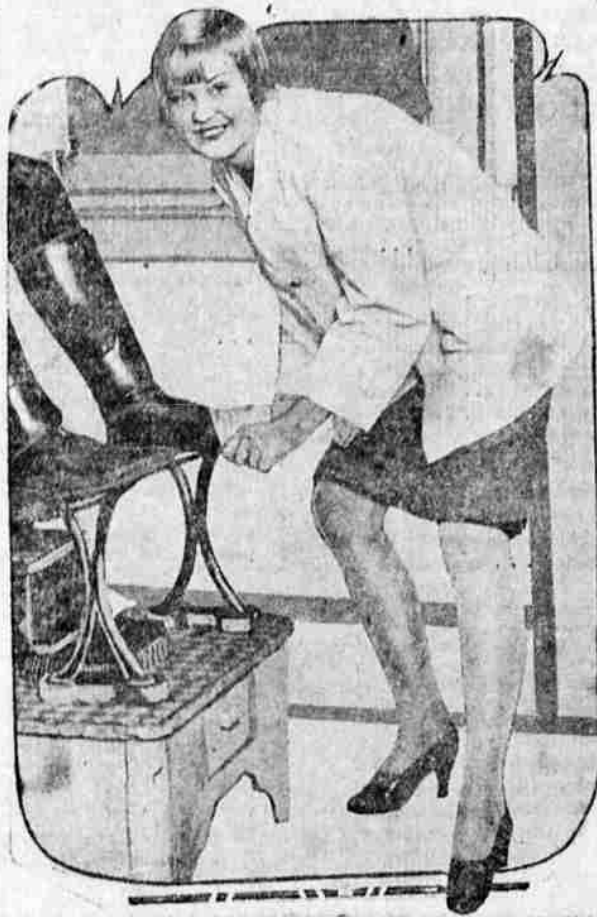

Criticizes Sproule
"I was surprised to see that President Sproule of the Southern Pacific made a statement that Oregon should be divided into exclusive zones (Continued on Page Six)

A Sick Lad!

Like the announcer at the Pine Tree, this guy bet a little too much on the Senators today.

She'd Keep Busy Here

This fellow citizen, is a close up of Miss Mae Woods, a winsome little beauty in Milwaukee, who, press reports say, is doing a rushing business, and who always has a waiting list in her chair.

If Mae should decide to come to Klamath Falls and establish herself in a bootblack stand somewhere on the "main drag" it's a safe bet that Klamath Falls would establish a world's record in the per capita number of shined and polished shoes.

Walter Johnson Is Slated To Pitch Crucial Game For Solons In Final Game Of World Series

Evening Herald's Party at Pine Tree at Eleven o'Clock Tomorrow Promises to Pack The House—Interest Locally Is at High Pitch

Who'll win the world series?
There are a lot of the fans hereabouts who'd like to know, but they'll join the crowd at the Pine Tree tomorrow when the Herald assisted by Harry Poole, stages its final baseball party to the fans of Klamath Falls.

The games are now tied, three each, and the last and deciding game will be played at Pittsburgh tomorrow. Walter Johnson, who already has twirled the Senators to a brace of victories over the Pirates, is scheduled to take up the task where the highly touted Coveleskie has twice tried and failed. Can good old Walter deliver in the crucial game?

Here's a wonderful right arm equal to this Herculean task to which it will be put?

Tomorrow's game promises to be one of the most dramatic in the history of organized baseball. The Pirates have come from behind and tied up the count, and they are now ready to fight it out for the premier honors of baseball.

With its unexcelled Associated Press leased wire direct from the playing field, the Evening Herald will give Klamath fans their first and only complete report of this crucial game. Play by play, cheer by cheer and groan by groan, the A. P. wire will carry the news to the fans. If you want to "see" this great waiting fans of Klamath Falls, breath-taking contest as a guest of the Herald, get to the Pine Tree by 11 o'clock tomorrow morning. On second thought, you'd better get there a bit earlier, for the theatre undoubtedly will be packed to the doors, and the first who comes will get the best seats. Eleven o'clock is the zero hour. Let's go!

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS IN ANNUAL SESSION
EUGENE, Ore., Oct. 13.—Delegates to the Knights of Pythias grand lodge session here, numbering nearly 200, and delegates to the Pythian sisters convolve, numbering more than 60, gathered last evening at a dinner given by Eugene lodge members for the first event of the two day grand lodge session.

Eugene Sluffs Sick Man Onto Klamath Falls

Young Man With Terrible Disease is Shipped Here

A human wreck, suffering from a malignant disease, was sluffed off yesterday by Eugene authorities and shipped to Klamath Falls at Eugene's expense. He is Tommie Fambraugh, aged 23, of Ardmore, Okla., one of the passengers on the noon stage from Medford.

Just what the disease is County Health Officer Dr. G. S. Newsom, could not say this afternoon, until after a diagnosis. It was admitted, however, that it could be leprosy, or a violent social disease.

Contracted in Everett
"I contracted this disease in Everett on a farm where I was working," Fambraugh said this afternoon. "They shipped me out of Everett to Seattle. I could not get any help in Seattle and they sent me on to Portland. It was the same story in Portland, only at a dispensary there they looked me over. They wouldn't tell me what was the matter, but seemed anxious to get rid of me. At Salem I was soon apprehended and sent on to Eugene.

"I had been in Eugene for several days when a policeman saw me and took me to jail. A doctor, I think, looked me over and then went and bought a ticket on the stage for Klamath Falls. I stayed all night in Medford last night, and on the ticket they bought me, I came over to Klamath Falls. There were three men and two women on the stage. Two women had babies with them.

No Help
"I can't get any help anywhere. I have stepmother and stepbrothers back in Oklahoma, but I can't get to them."

Fambraugh was quite positive that Eugene police deliberately shipped him to Klamath Falls.

"I didn't want to come here, but I had to because I didn't have any money to go anywhere else. Everywhere I go they want to get me out of town."

Fambraugh was isolated in a tent near the post house this afternoon. A diagnosis will be conducted this afternoon by local doctors to determine his malady.

His face is covered with scales and his right leg swollen to twice its normal size. Officers Craft and Morgan apprehended the pitiable human shell this afternoon.

I. E. VINING TO SPEAK AT LUNCH

I. E. Vining, president of the Oregon state chamber of commerce, will be the speaker at the forum lunch of the chamber of commerce tomorrow noon, according to announcement today. Mr. Vining has just returned to his home in Ashland following a trip through the state and will have an interesting message for Klamath people.

The state chamber executive has always been popular with a Klamath audience, and his appearance here on former occasions has always brought out a record crowd. Tomorrow promises to be no exception.

JURY DISAGREES IN PROSECUTION OF WM. EGGSMAN

Klamath Indian Probably Will not be Tried Again on Assault Charge

OUT FOR 23 HOURS

They Send Word to Judge Wolverton that they are Hopelessly Deadlocked

MEDFORD, Ore., Oct. 13.—After deliberating for 23 hours, the jury which tried Wilbur Eggman, charged with a dangerous assault on Monroe Faithful, reported to Federal Judge Wolverton this morning that it was hopelessly deadlocked, and the jurors were dismissed. Both men are Klamath Indians.

Eggman was charged with stabbing Faithful in the heart during an argument over cattle on the Sprague river several weeks ago. Although the knife blade pierced Faithful's heart, he was not seriously injured and appeared in court as the chief witness against the defendant.

The jury reported to the court that it was evenly divided, six for conviction and six for acquittal, and assured Judge Wolverton that there was absolutely no hope for a verdict.

Indications today were that the case will be dropped, and that Eggman will not face prosecution again for the reputed assault.

Dwight Davis Is Appointed War Secretary

First Assistant Chosen To Succeed Weeks

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—(A.P.)—Dwight F. Davis of Missouri today was appointed secretary of war. He takes the place of John W. Weeks of Massachusetts whose resignation because of ill health was formally announced at the White House.

The change is effective immediately.

As assistant secretary Mr. Davis has been actual head of the war department since last spring when Mr. Weeks was sent to New England by his physicians for an operation and a long vacation.

The new secretary, Mr. Davis, a lawyer and business man, is in his forty-seventh year and will be the youngest member of the cabinet. He has served in the national guard and reserve corps, has been active official head of various finance, education, charitable and recreational organizations, and is the donor of the Davis cup, the most celebrated of tennis trophies.

In selecting him, President Coolidge followed the recommendation of the Republican organization of Missouri, and the advice of a powerful group of political friends.

The change wipes out the reputation of the president's home state, Massachusetts. It likewise presents the unusual picture of two unrelated men of the same family name holding concurrently the title of secretary. As secretary of war, Dwight Davis will sit near the head of the cabinet table, while as secretary of labor, James J. Davis sits at its foot.
