BEAUTIFYING GROUNDS

Albert Barrott, well known local landscape gardener is this week working at the farm of Dr. Massey, south of the city on the end road, planting shade trees and lawn.

DANN WANN HERE

Twenty or thirty years hence, Dann Wann will be referred to as one of the pioneers of the thriving community of Sprague River, 49 miles east of Klamath Falls at the terminus of the O. C. & E. railroad. Inasmuch as the settlement is but two years old, Wann could hardly be characterized as a pioneer now. He is a merchant of Sprague River and with his partner B. E. Wolford was one of the first to settle in Sprague river. He is a business visitor in Klamath Falls today and is registered at the Hall hotel.

DELEGATES RETURN

H. L. Voorhies and H. G. Shidler have returned from Eugene where they attended the grand lodge of the Knights of Pythias. The two delegates will make a complete report of the sessions at the lodge meeting next Monday evening and all members of the order are urged to be present to hear their report.

At the PINE TREE

Everyone knows what a flapper is—but do you know a "teaser"?

This is the strange sort of role Laura La Plante enacts in her latest feature coming to the Pine Tree Saturday with Pat O'Malley in "The Teaser," a tale of wholesale flirtation and its manifold complications. The story is a breezy comedy, romance hung about the adventures of a flapper who tries to flirt with all the married men in her set to "get even" when her aunt breaks up her real love affairs. Of course, the love affair is with a flashy cigar drummer. Pat O'Malley plays that part, and that makes it all the funnier because one can sympathize with both aunty and the heroine at the same time.

An innocent flirtation gets "the Teaser" into a domestic scandal.

BOAT NEARS COMPLETION

Chester Clark and Levi Colas of the local U. S. customs office made official measurements of the new gas screw launch Hope that is being built at the Herman Brothers shipyard in Trooper for the Rigerton school.

The new craft will operate on the Coquille river replacing the Norman. She can carry approximately 75 passengers.

The Hope will be launched within a few days.—Marshfield News.

WADE IS WINNER

Wm. Wade is the possessor of the big golf trophy cup presented by the Coos Country club for the best amateur golfer of the season. Wade yesterday won the championship in the finals from Harry Kern, of North Bend by a score of 77 to 81. The contest was interesting and many witnessed the match.

Wade has been at the head of the list during the season practically all the time. The score yesterday was as follows: By holes, in 4, 4, 5, 3, 3, 4, 5, 5, total of 40 for Wade; Kern's score in 4, 5, 5, 4, 4, 3, 4, 5, or 35. Wade out score, 4, 4, 4, 5, 3, 4, 3, 5, 5, total 37. Kern out score, 4, 5, 5, 5, 4, 4, 5, 5, total 42.—Coos Bay Times.
