GIRL'S BODY IS FOUND; SUSPECT HELD IN PRISON

Carmen Wagner, Eureka Manicurist, Found Dead in Secluded Spot

MYSTERY NEARS END

Walter David, Half-Breed Indian, is Detained by California Authorities

EUREKA, Calif., Oct. 24.—(A.P.)—Suspected of the murder of Carmen Wagner, 18 year old beauty parlor operator of Eureka and Henry Sweet, her companion on a hunting trip, Jack Ryan, a half-breed Indian was imprisoned early today in a ranch house near Coyote Flat, sixty miles south of here. A radio message to the Humboldt Standard, making this announcement, stated that Ryan would be brought to Eureka today.

Walter David, half brother of Ryan, was arrested yesterday near the scene of the murder and is in the county jail here for questioning. Ryan was arrested on a tip that he had fled from the Coyote Flat country to Deer creek, approximately 40 miles to the east of the flat. Under Sheriff Ed Reed and four deputies followed on horseback over the brush tangled mountain trails.

They reached Deer creek at 9:30 p. m. and found Ryan asleep in a bunk house of the Northern California Redwood Lumber company.

The man was excited and nervous when he faced his pursuers and he was brought handcuffed on horseback to the Leland Bryant ranch. Bryant was one of the earlier suspects, but easily cleared himself and the passes made headquarters of his ranch.

The placing of charges against both Ryan and David will await an autopsy on the girl. The district attorney's office indicated that the charge probably would be murder and criminal assault.

EUREKA, Calif., Oct. 24.—The body of Miss Carmen Wagner, 18, Ferndale beauty parlor proprietor, for whom passes have been scouring the backwoods and hills near Eureka for many days, was found yesterday in a rudely made grave in an isolated wooded section 75 miles east of here.

The young woman had been shot to death. Her dog "Pronto" shot through the head, was found buried a few feet from where his mistress lay. Henry Sweet, the companion of Miss Wagner on a hunting trip, was found dead beside his parked automobile several miles from the point where Miss Wagner and her dog were found. The finding of Sweet's body several days ago, led to the search for Miss Wagner, which ended yesterday. The body of Miss Wagner will be returned to Eureka today.

Indian Picked up
Soon after the discovery was made, the posse arrested Walter David, 24 year old, half breed Indian. Unexplained scratches on his face, declared to resemble finger nail marks were the direct cause of his arrest. Search was under way today for Jack Ryan, 22, half brother of David.

Whether or not the arrest of David furnished a key to the mystery was not clear today. The finding of her body and the arrest of the half breed Indian resulted in the creation of a new series of unanswered questions regarding the circumstances which led to the girl's fate.

Robbery is Motive
The authorities believe Sweet was killed for a roll of currency he carried and Miss Wagner and her dog were carried away and shot to death when a search was started and the countryside was being combed for them.

Was she taken captive by the man who killed Sweet and held until it was thought dangerous to permit her to remain alive longer? This is the question authorities will endeavor to answer today.

Frank Way To Appeal Case; Notice Filed

Supreme Court Will Decide on Alleged Errors

Frank Way, behind the walls of the state penitentiary, has decided to appeal to the state supreme court. It was announced this morning by his attorneys.

Way was convicted here last September on the charge of manslaughter, in connection with the killing of Timothy Murphy in the Devil's Garden country east of Ely. He was sentenced to serve ten years in the state penitentiary.

Notice of appeal in the case was to have been filed in circuit court this afternoon.

The attorneys for Way, J. H. Carnahan, C. F. Stone and Jay Upton, will set forth in their appeal to the higher court that there were certain errors in the trial that were so flagrant as to entitle Way to a new trial. Among the alleged errors is the charge that not one of the requested instructions of the defense was included in the instructions of the court to the jury.

Water Rights Claims Made Public Today

Assistant State Engineer R. W. Potter Is Here

Another step toward the solution of the complex problem of Sprague river valley water rights was taken this afternoon when claims of Sprague river farmers to water rights were made public by Assistant State Engineer R. W. Potter in circuit court.

By this action the farmers will become cognizant of the claims for water of their neighbors. If he takes issue with the claim or claims of a neighbor, he may contest it and the respective claimants will fight it out before the state engineer.

The question of water rights in Sprague river became a live issue last summer, when a dry summer brought a shortage of water. Question of riparian rights and vested rights came up and were taken to the circuit court for settlement. Judge Leavitt decided that the adjudication of claims was one which should rightly come before the state engineer, and referred it to that department.

According to Mr. Potter the water right contests will be held in Ely next spring.

In their possession state officials found eight quarts of liquor which Palma claimed was secured from the rum ship Vingas in rum row by the chief boatswain's mate, Whitehead, who was in command of the patrol boat.

Palma's signed statement alleges that the liquor was secured from the schooner on Thursday but was not distributed until yesterday afternoon at Noon, as the patrol boat put in for repairs after returning from rum row. Cop Falls As Auto Plunges Off Broad St.

Geo. Waltermeier Sentenced to 60 Days in Jail

George Waltermeier is back in jail again, this time for sixty days. Waltermeier was intoxicated last night when he was driving an automobile. The car's wobbling of his car as it proceeded down Main street to Broad and down Broad street to some unknown destination, attracted the attention of State Prohibition Agent L. L. McBride, who with a flock of officers placed the young man under arrest.

In the exciting chase, during which Waltermeier was endeavoring to throw away all the moonshine whiskey in his car, McBride drove alongside Waltermeier's car and City Patrolman Mitchell hopped onto the running board.

Waltermeier lost control of the car and the automobile plunged into a ditch which runs parallel to Broad street. The lurch threw Mitchell cuts about the knee. Knowles, who had jumped onto the running board at the same time, managed to keep his position.

Waltermeier's companion W. H. Uner was arrested on a charge of possession of intoxicating liquors, following the discovery of two pints of moonshine in the car. He was to have appeared this afternoon before Justice of the Peace Ed Kendall.

Waltermeier was arrested convicted and sent to jail last year on a liquor charge, according to authorities. He insisted last night that he was not drunk, but authorities were inclined to doubt his statement when he lurched into both walls of the court house corridor on his way to the sheriff's office.

JURORS TO GET CONVICTS' CASE THIS AFTERNOON

Final Arguments under way in Trial of Willos and Ellsworth Kelley

LENIENCY IS URGED

Defense Counsel Declares They Had no Part in Violence During Break

SALEM, Ore., Oct. 24.—The fate of Ellsworth Kelley and James Willos, convicts charged with Tom Murray with the murder of Guard John Sweeney in the prison break of August 12, went to the jury at 12:14 o'clock today, following a morning of arguments by the opposing attorneys.

SALEM, Ore., Oct. 24.—With the state asking verdicts of first degree murder, carrying the death penalty, and the defense pleading that they took no part in the shooting which accompanied the prison break of August 12 in which two guards were killed, the trial of James Willos and Ellsworth Kelley, accused of the murder of Guard John Sweeney, will go to the jury some time during the day.

Allen Carson, special assistant prosecutor in the case, made the opening argument for the state yesterday afternoon, charging Kelley and Willos to be equally guilty with Tom Murray, already convicted of the murder of Sweeney, in that they were parties to the criminal conspiracy in which he was killed and declaring that they aided and abetted in the commission of the crime and benefitted equally in the matter of securing their freedom from the prison with Murray.

In Conspiracy
Carson declared the state had proved beyond a question that both of the defendants were parties to the conspiracy, and that while the original plan of the convicts might not necessarily have contemplated murder if executed as planned, it did contemplate shooting if shooting became necessary as established by admissions of the defendants produced in the testimony.

Pleads For Convicts
Will R. King, counsel for the defense, opened his final argument late in the afternoon and was still speaking when court adjourned until this morning. There was no visible attempt on his part to acquit the defendants, his entire plea being directed toward leniency justified, he said, by mitigating circumstances in the case of Willos and Kelley. King contends that neither of the defendants had any part in the killing of the guards, that they agreed to the escape plot with the understanding that there was to be no violence used and that at no time during the escape or during their subsequent flight were either of them parties to any violence.

Let The Small Town Merchant Move

These merchants who are opposing the Oregon Trunk because they are afraid of the competition that is sure to follow increased population, should move to a town where such development is not possible. They would deny you the opportunities you are entitled to for the small gain that might come to themselves. There are merchants here big enough to stand for development, and they are supporting the coming of the Oregon Trunk. These are the men who are deserving of your support and the ones you should patronize when you have money to spend.
