METHODIST LADIES AID WITH MRS. STUCKY

THE regular monthly meeting of the Methodist Ladies Aid was held at the home of Mrs. E. C. Stucky on Canby avenue on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Stucky, Mrs. Kenneth Smith and Mrs. Norris Young acting as hostesses for the afternoon. The decorations throughout the home were especially pretty with autumn flowers and leaves. Some forty of the members of the Aid were present. At the close of the business discussion the hostesses served light refreshments.

Plans for the bazaar and cooked food sale were discussed. The date decided upon to be December fifth. At a date in the very near future the ladies will announce the place of the sale. Fancy work was distributed among the ladies to complete for the bazaar.

Thursday, November nineteenth, Mrs. E. H. Bataiger will be hostess. This gathering to be a joint meeting of the aid and the Tea Cup club.

MRS. CHILCOTE AND MRS. HELDING TO ENTERTAIN

THE LITERARY DEPARTMENT OF UNIVERSITY WOMEN
(By MISS MAYBELLE LEAVITT)

THAT "Critics are obnoxious and malicious animals. That they never read new books beyond the first chapter, and they know little or nothing of general literature. They have opinions but no conviction, their opinion being that enemies should be damned and friends praised," will be refuted and set aside by the Literary department of the American Association of University Women, which meet for the first time on November 7th, at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. R. E. Geary, 237 Cedar street.

American contemporary critics will be studied and criticized in their turn by members of this group. Henry L. Menken has the honor of being first on the list, as a perfectly proper since he is granted first place among Americans by his countrymen and Europeans alike. Leaders of this study branch of the Association are Mrs. G. A. Krause and Mrs. Geary.

They are particularly anxious that members of the Association who attend the meeting next Saturday afternoon be prepared to discuss Mr. Menken from some point of view, either that of critic, editor, or to save some definite knowledge of his life and temperament. The meeting on November 7th, promises to be a lively one since Mr. Menken is a person who inspires intense dislike or almost canine devotion in his readers; arguments should therefore be many, and there is nothing like argument to arouse interest in a subject.

Those wishing to prepare themselves on the matter of Mr. Menken will find that the way has been made easy by Mrs. Krause who has segregated all material available and placed it on reserve at the City Library rooms.

A Modern House Reminiscent of Old Colonial Days

House No. 717 Designed for American Face Brick Association

THIS house turned endwise or broadside to the street, to fit your particular lot, will be equally attractive. Simplicity is the keynote of this design which adapts itself to all colors and textures of brick. With good bond and mortar joint treatment, it will be a gem in any landscape. Two shades of brick might be used, one for the field and the other for the trim. Thus the band course at the second story window sill, the quoins, arches, and the like might be either slightly darker or lighter than the body of the wall, preferably darker.

Following the usual Colonial plan, the entrance hall has been centered, with the stairway ascending to a landing where one might expect the genial welcome of grandfather's clock.

The living room on the left is unusually large with a fine fireplace on the opposite wall and French doors opening to the sun porch. The dining room on the right opens on a breakfast porch beyond, directly connecting with the kitchen, pantry, and rear porch. This arrangement would, if desired, permit the use of the breakfast porch as a play room for the children. A lavatory and coat closet are off the hall. Note the garage connected with the kitchen.

Of the four large bedrooms on the second floor, two are arranged for twin beds. A linen cabinet is found in the hall. If the two bath rooms shown are not needed one may be converted into a sewing room if so desired. The attic which has sufficient space for several more rooms is reached by a convenient stairway.

The porch adjacent to the dining room and kitchen may, if desired, be converted into a maid's bedroom by omitting the French doors from the dining room. If the building site should happen to slope to either side, the garage could be placed under either porch instead of where now shown.

The basement is arranged for laundry, heater and fuel rooms, vegetable cellar, storage, and a fine light space for work-shop. The ceilings of both floors are 8 feet 6 inches in height, and the content is 40,000 cubic feet.

studied has been arranged as follows: George Jean Nathan, dramatic critic for the American Mercury; Alexander Woolcott, critic for Vanity Fair; Robert Benchley, dramatic critic for Life and a contributor to "The Bookman"; Heywood Brown, of the New York World; Henry Sibel Canby, editor in chief of "The Saturday Review"; Walter Lippmann; Christopher Morley; William Rose Bennett; Oswald Garrison Villard, editor of the "Nation"; Stewart Sherman; Sherwood Anderson; Nicholas Roosevelt, of the New York Times; Waldo Frank and Kenerly Digby, of the New York Evening Post.

MR. AND MRS. BROWNE ENTERTAIN AT DINNER

MR. AND MRS. R. W. BROWNE entertained with dinner at their home in Hot Springs on Wednesday evening, honoring Mr. Carl Bohnett and Mr. George Van Sycklyn of San Jose, California. The dinner table was lovely with a Dutch silver basket of assorted flowers in pastel shades and glowing pastel shaded tapers grouped about the centerpiece. Dinner was served at the hour of six-thirty o'clock and covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Leo Houston and children, Elda and Allen, Mrs. Harry Egau of Long Beach, California, Mr. George Van Sycklyn and Mr. Carl Bohnett, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Browne and children, Richard and Elizabeth.

NO HOSTESS BRIDGE ON MONDAY EVENING

A MOST enjoyable affair of this past week was the "no hostess" bridge party on Monday evening, when twelve social matrons of the city gathered at the home of Mrs. Victor Palmer on North Eleven. Halloween decorations were attractively used in decorating the rooms. During the evening there were three tables in play, with Mrs. M.

F. Parker holding high score and Mrs. Allen Sloan receiving second high. At the conclusion of the play, dainty refreshments were served. Among those who gathered at the Palmer home were Mrs. A. B. Esperson, Mrs. H. K. Smith, Mrs. M. F. Parker, Mrs. Rodney Smith, Mrs. Jos. Avery, Mrs. Robert Sloan, Mrs. Knight, Mrs. T. R. Skillington, Mrs. Guy Manning, Mrs. Allen Sloan, Mrs. W. J. Stelmotz and Mrs. Victor Palmer.

SCOTCH PLAIDS ARE VERY SMART

SCOTCH plaids are in vogue again. "Perhaps" we might say that Queen Mary and Princess Mary gave them a boom at one of the recent gatherings at Balmoral Castle at Braemar by appearing in tartan skirts.

Now the "Black Watch" tartan and the black and white Shepherd's plaid, which are neutral in tone are in special demand. Skirts made from the plaids which are shown in the smart shops are closely pleated at the back like kilts. Their fronts are wrapped and fastened on the side with a large gold or silver kilt pin. These add a smart touch to the garment. Both the Queen and the Princess wore skirts which fell almost to their ankles. They wore woolen stockings.

Highland tailors in Scotland are very much amused at tourists who wear tartan skirts, with silk hosiery and high heeled slippers. And after all the walking oxford with smart sport hose are the proper thing to be worn with such garments.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF UNIVERSITY WOMEN MEET

Monday evening the American association of University Women held their regular meeting in the club rooms of the library. Mrs. Rachel E. Solomon presided at the meeting, which proved one of the most successful the club members have had.

Inheritance Tax Will Be Reduced

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24. (AP)—Proposals for immediate reductions in the federal inheritance tax with appeal at the end of six years were endorsed today by Chairman Green of the house ways and means committee.

Such a scheme was presented to the committee yesterday by the national committee on inheritance taxation composed of tax experts from every section of the country.

In endorsing the six years' plan, Mr. Green said this time would give opportunity for states to enact uniform inheritance tax laws prior to withdrawal of the federal government taxes.

Chairman Green opposed immediate appeal, but suggested that full credit might be allowed in settlement of the federal levies for amounts paid on state inheritance taxes. Secretary Mellon has proposed immediate repeal and his position was endorsed yesterday by a number of governors.
