Promises

MISTS—and the subtle music
Of a softly falling rain.
Dawn—and a robin singing, Then sunshine bright again.

The afterglow on the skyline After the sun has set.
Life, after resurrection, In the land where we never forget.

—Alice Field Hale.

EVER so often I wonder just how many of the world's people actually experience real joy in living?
How many really take pleasure in the performance of duty and in the accomplishment of toils? Not until we know the sweetness of duty and the nobility of labor can we rejoice in our daily tasks and find happiness in being alive.

Bringing a sour face and a bitter tongue to the work of the day will never help us in finding the sweetness of living. No one with ugliness of mind can have health of body, or love of friends.

Each age has its type of beauty.
There is the beauty of youth, radiant as the budding rose, the beauty of maturity, this same flower in full bloom, and then comes old age, the flower withered, no doubt, but still possessing a quaint refinement and a charm to youth alone, but I believe that an indescribable strength of character and tone of soul which is reflected in the features.

True beauty is not merely a physical condition, regularity of features and other commonly accepted attributes. It is not something which vanity and primping can fashion.

I think sometimes that our elderly friends possess in the autumn of their lives a charm much rarer than the vivacity of their lost youth. Life and the kindly way in which they have walked on with the years, have fashioned a look of beautiful character on their countenances. It is as if the features of a statue could become animated with some beautiful and high resolve, lending it a strange and soulful beauty. Some faces symmetrically perfect are in youth like empty windows, and in old age they are illuminated and brightened by years of contentment and patience.

chapter of the O. E. S. will be held in the Masonic Hall on Tuesday evening at eight o'clock. The work of the order will be exemplified by the Past Matrons and the Past Patrons of the order. A social hour and refreshments will close the meeting.

MRS. POOLE TO HONOR MRS. THOMAS DELZELL

HONORING Mrs. Thomas Delzell one of the city's most attractive young matrons, who arrived in Klamath Falls a few months ago to make her future home, coming here as a bride, Mrs. Harry W. Poole has issued invitations for a matinee at the Pine Tree theatre on Wednesday, November fourth. Tea at the hotel White Pelican will follow the matinee.

AUCTION BRIDGE CLUB WITH MRS. G. A. KRAUSE

MRS. G. A. KRAUSE was hostess to the Auction Bridge club on Wednesday afternoon at her home on Grant. Four tables were in play during the afternoon. High score was awarded to Mrs. W. M. Duncan.

HELEN GRIZZLE ENTERTAINS FRIENDS

HONORING a number of her school mates, little Helen Griz-zle was a delightful hostess on Wednesday evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Grizzle on Jefferson. Games and music passed the merry hours. The home was decorated in Halloween colors with goblins, witches and black cats peeking out from every corner. At the conclusion of the evening Mrs.
Grizzle served light refreshments.
The guests were Maxine Elliott, Helene Holbrook, Mirna Brookfield, Evola Thrasher, Ann Thrasher, Bernice Hogue, Zoa Butler, Louise Hunter, Jean Beard, Grace Groesbeck and the hostess.

RADIO CARNIVAL COMING EVENT

WITH the date of their Radio Carnival just three weeks away, erevings find the members of the Business and Professional Women's club busily engaged in making novelties for the bazaar.
The affair which will be held in the chamber of commerce gives promise of being one of the most unique of this season. Radio decorations will be carried out, a radio pond will be one of the novel attractions.
Booths with candles, aprons and novelties will be placed about the room and at each booth a radio will be stationed.

A silver tea will be held in conjunction with the carnival, tea being served between the hours of three to five. Some thirty of the matrons of the city will be asked to assist the business women as patronesses for the affair between the hours of one and six o'clock.

The girls are deserving of much credit and should have the co-operation of the entire community in helping to make the carnival a success. Funds realized from the event to be used in buying equipment for the rest room of the new library.

November the fourteenth, nineteen hundred and twenty-five is the date.

THREE AFTERNOONS OF BRIDGE LOVELY AFFAIRS

STANDING out in lovely distinction on this week's social calendar were the bridge afternoons of Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, over which Mrs. E. H. Pike and Mrs. H. W. Bridgeford presided. On Wednesday and Thursday the affairs were held at the home of Mrs. Pike, when seven tables were in play. Friday afternoon the guests gathered at the Bridgeford home when five tables were in play. Vases and banquets of baby asters in the orchid shades with ferns carried out the color scheme.

Trophy for high score on Wednesday afternoon went to Mrs. R. E.
Dewesse and the consolation to Mrs.
O. W. Robertson. Thursday's play resulted in Mrs. G. H. Merrymen holding high score and Mrs. J. M.
Bedford the consolation. Mrs. George Stephenson was awarded high score on Friday afternoon with consolation going to Mrs. K. G. Cummings.
Light refreshments followed the conclusion of the afternoon's play.

HONORING PAST MATRONS AND PAST PATRONS
