PLANS MADE FOR "JIGGS DINNER" THIS EVENING

MRS. Fred Cofer was hostess on Thursday afternoon to ladies of the western division of the Methodist Aid. Plans were discussed for the "Jiggs dinner" which the division is giving this evening in the Odd Fellows' hall between the hours of five-thirty and eight-thirty o'clock. Mrs. C. H. Barnstable and Mrs. Momyer are in charge of the dinner, to which the general public is cordially invited.

Hallowe'en decorations are being used in making the hall attractive for the affair and surprises are in store for all those who attend the dinner.

ENJOYABLE HALLOWE'EN PARTY THURSDAY EVE

RUTHMAY CHILCOTE complimented several of her little friends on Thursday evening with an enjoyable Hallowe'en party. Games were enjoyed during the party hours after which Mrs. Chilcote served the little guests with light refreshments. The guests were Aida Newton, Alisa Ryan, Rose Darley, Helen Shive, Alyssa Hector, Geraldine Stallings, Letta Kenyon, Eleanor Yarnes, Harriet Stratton, Gwendolyn Martin, Marie Wakefield, Mary Anice and Mildred Caldwell.

MISS EVELYN AMICKE HOSTESS TO TRI-S GIRLS

MISS EVELYN AMICKE was hostess to the girls of the Tri-S club at her home on High Tuesday evening. At this meeting plans were made for the coming year, new laws were drawn up. Pledges were made and on Monday evening at the home of Miss Lois Bynon the girls will give a "rush party."

Officers for the year were elected on Tuesday evening including Miss Evelyn Frances, president; Miss Leatha Simmons, vice president; Miss Evelyn Amicke, secretary; Miss Honor Moore, treasurer; Miss Addie Jenkins, reporter; Miss Lois Bynon, social chairman.

Closing the business meeting, Miss Amicke served a dainty luncheon. The Amicke home being attractively decorated in Hallowe'en decorations for the affair.

GHOSTS AND WITCHES PREVAILED AT PARTY

EVERY one in every appointment was the Hallowe'en party for which dainty little Roberta and Janet Bedford were hostesses at the Bedford home on Friday evening. Evelyn Westfall taking the part of the "ghost" filled the little tots with spooky thoughts, while Mrs. G. Jones, who assisted Mrs. Bedford throughout the evening, took the part of an "old witch" and told the youngsters weird tales of what their future held in store. Refreshments were served at ten o'clock. The guests were Mary Thomas, Marie Collier, Lois Delay, Betty Jones, Imelda Telford, Audrey Shellhorn, Betty McConnell, Katherine and Betty Cleghorn, Mary De Lan, Thelma Fossum and Roberta and Janet Bedford.

A Popular Style of House

House No. 106

Designed by John Bernard
Courtesy, American Face Brick Association

DUTCH Colonial is decidedly in vogue these days. During the past few years it has been growing in popularity in all parts of the country. It is not, however, a fad, for in the eastern parts of the country it has been quite extensively, especially in New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania, from the earliest Colonial days.

This style of architecture gives an exceptionally homelike character to a house. Its broad, low lines tend to tie the house intimately into its surroundings. And from the practical point of view, it adds a second story at the least additional expense.

The designer of this house has taken full advantage of the possibilities in the Dutch Colonial. The lower story of the front is especially charming because of the nice relation between the bay windows and the fanlight entrance. The well-proportioned dormer is in good scale with the rest of the house and adds to the attractiveness of the whole.

The gambrel roof, which is one of the characteristics of this style, has been especially well done.

This house would be attractive whether built of a smooth or rough texture face brick. The small brick units, with their mortar joints between, tend to emphasize the lowness of the structure and add interest and color to the wall surface.

This house was designed for a corner lot, or one having a frontage of 60 feet or more. On a corner lot a garage could be placed at the dining room end of the house, with a covered wall leading to it that would balance the porch on the other end of the house.

The interior is planned to give the appearance of a large house, with the principal rooms on either side of the hall. The downstairs rooms are of ample size and in good proportion, with ample windows to provide plenty of light and ventilation.

The principal bedroom is an exceptionally cheerful room with windows on three sides and a fireplace. Note also the number of closets on the second floor.

The kitchen is conveniently arranged and connects with the dining room by a pantry. The space at the left of the kitchen would make a cozy little breakfast nook. The sink is placed in a bay window similar to those on the front of the house, insuring ample light and a pleasant place to work.

TWO MATRONS HOSTESSES AT EVENINGS OF BRIDGE

TWO delightful bridge evenings of this week were presided over by Mrs. Kenneth Klaha and Mrs. Thomas Richardson when they entertained on Monday and Tuesday evenings at the Sunset apartments. Decorations appropriate to the Hallowe'en season were in evidence. At either end of the prettily appointed luncheon table, low Japanese bowls filled with golden baby chrysanthemums were placed. A tall silver candelabra holding glowing yellow tapers centered the table. Place cards, daintily colored in Hallowe'en emblems marked the place of each guest.
