

Pilcher Store Opens Saturday

Friday evening, November sixth, marks the formal opening of Pilcher's store on Main and Fifth. The hours will be between seven and nine o'clock when special entertainment and a musical program has been arranged for. Flowers will be given to the women callers and cigars to the men.

Tan and brown, the Pilcher store's national color scheme, has been carried out in the store, even to the lighting fixtures, which were ordered special for the local store. The windows throughout the store are of the Arcade style, and beveled mirrors are placed in every available space in the spacious room, which covers 4,500 square feet. Magnesite floors in the brown and tan color scheme are a new and attractive feature.

A rest room on the second floor is being furnished in a mohair velvet set of tan and brown, with davenport lamps, spinster writing desk, and rags to harmonize.

At the right entrance the men's complete furnishing department will be found, while the left entrance will carry novelties, drug sundries and the ladies' ready to wear furnishings.

Twenty clerks will be employed in the new store.

Local Dairies October Marks Just Average

Lost River is High With 91.5 Out of 100

October ratings of nine Klamath dairies selling milk within the boundaries of Klamath Falls were announced today by Dr. E. D. Lamb, deputy dairy and food commissioner.

The heights and the depths were revealed in the report. The highest mark returned was 91.5 out of a possible 100 while the lowest was 47.5. Dairy inspections were made by Special Sanitary Officer Lee Craft, under the supervision and direction of Dr. E. D. Lamb.

In commenting on the dairy situation in Klamath today, Dr. Lamb said:

"One thing that must be impressed upon the Klamath dairymen who sell milk in Klamath Falls. He must secure a city permit before he can sell milk here. If he doesn't he is subject to fine and imprisonment. The last person that was arrested for not having a permit, was fined $50. Others that have not taken out permits, will be arrested and fined just as quickly."

Following is the dairy report for October:

Dairy	Equip.	Meth.	Score
Lost River	35.5	56	91.5
Mountain	36	53	89

Ayrshire	20	27.5	47.5

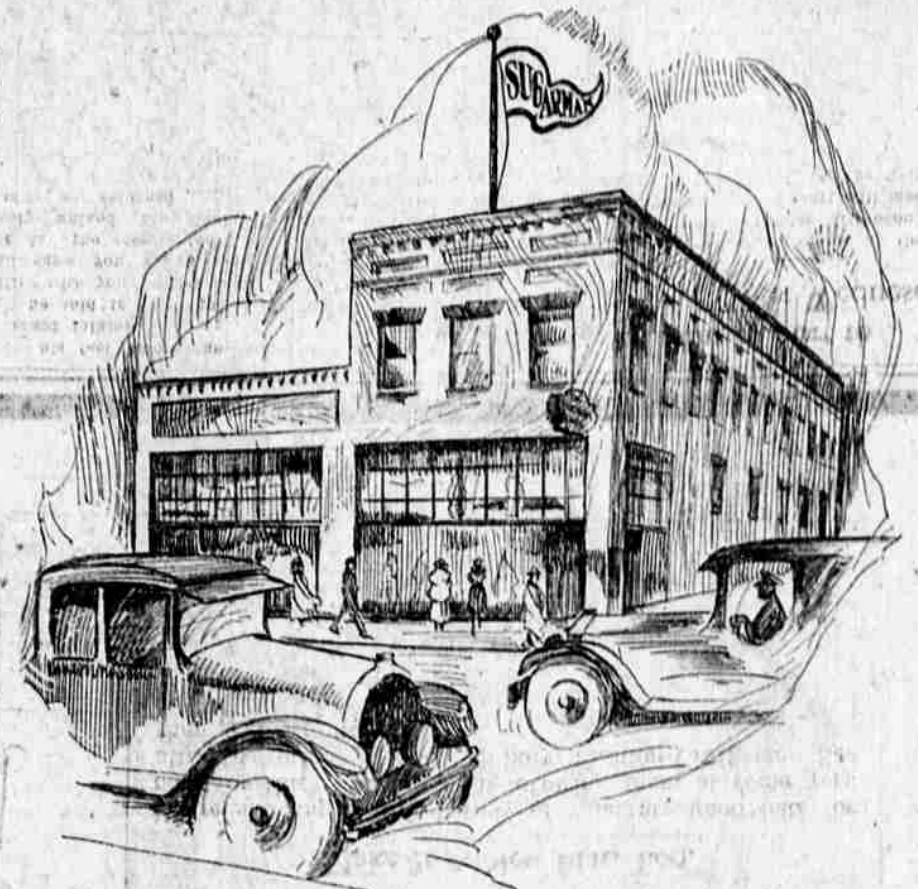

HALLOWEEN PRANK?

What is believed might have been a Halloween prank was reported today by officers of the Christian church who revealed that a Do-All Electric saw and motor disappeared from the church building Saturday night. If boys carried it away as a prank they are asked to notify officers of the church so it can be returned. The saw is valued at several hundred dollars.

Here They Are! Reductions on Your Overcoat

—Since 1906—

Many of our old time customers can trace our growth way back to the days of Linkville for you. They're still with us as they have, years ago, learned the wisdom of confidence. More are joining the ranks every day. We say more for if there weren't this establishment could not enjoy the splendid growth it has. The reason must obviously be the ways of men, their likes and dislikes. Let us prove it to you.

Select from 250 O'coats

Do it now, today, this week, while the time is right. Why wait for spring clearance prices when you get them at these reductions at the start of the winter. Every coat in stock including Hart Schaffner & Marx.

Move the O'coat stock is the verdict. Almost $10,000 worth in a fast selling event. Actuated by the late fall and a heavy stock that means a large carry-over unless we move them now, consequently these liberal reductions at the best time of the year.

Men who appreciate the saving of dollars are going to be here Johnnie-on-the-spot and no, maybe either. We're going to sell overcoats this week and lots of them so you might just as well be the winner as the loser. See a few of them in our window.

Higher Priced — Reduced Proportionately.

Make It A New Hat, Too.

We're showing a nice variety of what are good hats for men for this winter. We're offering them at some very attractive prices. Dobbs, Mallory, Fashion Craft, etc. See them in our window.

POWELL SEATED AS COUNCILMAN

a decision, it replied to Darley.

"We want to get this engineer mix-up cleaned up," Councilman Cofer declared.

"Yes, I should say so," remarked Councilman Stuckey. "Here we are all mixed up on this engineering proposition, with a number of big projects to put over. Before we go farther with them, I want to get Henry's engineering status cleared up."

Contention has been that Henry was unqualified to act as city engineer because he has no state license and failed in his attempt to secure one last spring. Henry claims that his work is legal so long as it is approved by a regular licensed engineer.

"Well, has Henry had any of the plans and specifications approved by a licensed engineer," a councilman wanted to know.

"There was a slight pause and then Klamath Falls' hired clerk inserted himself into the deliberations of the city council and asserted:

"None, whatever."

Gene Henry, quiet up until this point, while the eligibility of his official position was being discussed, was on his feet before the judge had ceased talking.

"I," he said to Gaghagen, "box to differ with you. What is more, I will show you where you are wrong and the council too."

Henry walked into Gaghagen's own office and returned in a minute with a folio packed full of plans and specifications for street improvement in Klamath Falls. Picking one out at random he showed the council that the stamp of a licensed state engineer had been placed on the work.

Mistaken, Perhaps

"Oh, maybe I was mistaken,"

Gaghagen remarked. Then he again carried on his attack against Henry.

"When," he wanted to know, "was this plan approved by a licensed engineer?"

"About six months ago," Henry replied.

"Yes, that's right," cut in Mr. Darley, who happened to be the licensed engineer who approved the plans for street improvement, "it was last spring some time."

Nothing more on the subject of the city engineer, his qualifications or the approval of street improvement plans, was heard from either Gaghagen or the city council.

BOND ISSUE VALID

SALEM, Ore., Nov. 3.—The Supreme court this morning handed down decisions upholding the constitutionality of the Portland city zoning ordinance and the Eugene municipal bond issue.

County Court to Meet Wednesday

Instead of convening at the usual time yesterday afternoon, the Klamath county court will meet tomorrow afternoon for the first session of the December term of court. It was announced today from the county clerk's office.

Although not approached in official session, members of the county court were interviewed by members of the county fair board on the proposition of when the court will be able to pay to the board $3500, which the court had promised. The fair board is particularly anxious to secure the money to meet a $1500 deficit.
