THIS IS THE STAKE THEY ARE FIGHTING FOR

We have stated time and again that the fight being carried on in the present campaign is not over the expenditure of money, the remission of taxes or things of that kind. The stake is a large one; one so large as to be worth millions to the farmers of the project and one that means almost life or death to the California Oregon Power company.

Shortly after the present board took office it asked the reclamation service to join with them in the preparation of a contract, under the terms of which the control of the district would pass into the hands of the farmers. Contracts were prepared and exchanged and a meeting was held in this city, but no agreement was reached and the question was passed up to the authorities at Washington. The stumbling block was the question of the control of the waters of Klamath lake—the question that is at the bottom of the present campaign and the determination of which will mean whether the farmers will keep what they now own or whether it will be turned over to the California Oregon Power company by the reclamation service. Here is the paragraph that means millions of dollars to the California Oregon Power company and the one condition in the contract that the present board absolutely refused to permit to be made a part of the contract:

"Quantity of Water to be Furnished

"38. The quantity of water to be furnished to the district hereunder shall be that quantity which may be applied beneficially in accordance with good usage for the irrigation of THE IRRIGABLE LANDS WITHIN THE BOUNDARIES OF THE DISTRICT AS NOW FIXED AND DEFINED. In case of shortage AT ANY TIME, the amount to be furnished to the district shall be an equitable proportion, as nearly as practicable operations will permit, of the water actually available at the time for all of the area being watered from the source of supply, such proportionate share to be determined by the Secretary of the Interior. In no event shall liability accrue against the United States, its officers, agents or employees, or any of them for any damage direct or indirect, arising from floods, drought, HOSTILE DIVERSION, interruption of service made necessary by repairs, unavoidable accidents, SHORTAGE OF WATER, INACCURACY OF DISTRIBUTION OR ANY OTHER CAUSE."

Farmers, that's the damnable condition to which your representatives on the board of directors of the Klamath Irrigation district, Bradbury and Jacob, refused to consent. If they had, there would be no opposition to Jacob today; there would be no campaign of vicious lying; there would be no contest, for the reclamation service would have had placed in its hands the power it needed to turn over to the California Oregon Power company water rights that are worth millions of dollars and for which it should pay at the same rate as the farmers of the district.

The plan of the reclamation service is to secure control of the water, under the terms of this paragraph, then announce the abandonment of the reclamation of all lands outside of the district. This automatically releases the water rights, which would revert to the California Oregon Power company under filings now in Salem. Once the title to this water passes out of the hands of the reclamation service and into the control of the California Oregon Power company THEY NEVER CAN BE RECOVERED.

Then under the provisions of the paragraph quoted above, the district would be entitled to "AN EQUITABLE PROPORTION * * * OF THE WATER ACTUALLY AVAILABLE * * * FOR THE AREA BEING WATERED." This means that the water for the California Oregon Power company COMES FIRST, and then if there is any water left, it will be distributed between the Klamath Irrigation district and the pumping districts, in proportion to the number of acres being irrigated. If the supply of water dropped to just that owned by the California Oregon Power company, THERE WOULD NOT BE A DROP FOR THE IRRIGATION OF THE LANDS OF THE DISTRICT.

This, Mr. Farmer, is what the opponents of Jacob and Short want you to approve when they ask you to vote against them. This is what the reclamation service demands from the farmers of the project. This is what the Klamath News, the mouthpiece of the California Oregon Power company, a newspaper that during the past year has lost thousands upon thousands of dollars, seeks to hide in the dust it is stirring up over the expenses of the district, over Bradbury, over Eberlein.

This is your fight, Mr. Farmer. It is not Bradbury's nor Jacob's, nor Eberlein's. It is your fight for your rights and your property. If you want to turn over to

JOURNALISTS DINE

Riley H. Allen, editor of the Honolulu Star Bulletin, accompanied by Mrs. Allen, arrived in Eugene last night from Seattle. They are on route to San Francisco from where they expect to embark for Hawaii in a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen will be given a dinner at the Osburn hotel at 6 o'clock this evening by members of the Sigma Delta Chi Journalism fraternity, and the Theta Sigma Phi Journalism sorority.

Mr. Allen while attending the University of Washington wrote sports for the Seattle P. I. and is well known among newspaper men and women of the Pacific coast.—Eugene Register.

STARS WITH MARINES

Bob Fargo, former Salem high school student who is with the marines at Mare Island, is playing excellent football, according to several clippings sent to his mother who resides in Salem. Fargo went to Salem high about a year and a half ago but quit school to join the marines. During the first year there he made the football team and has been one of the mainstays of the team this year.

A letter to his mother giving an account of one of their games with the St. Ignace varsity football team tells of the ability of the marines. The marines lost the game 13 to 0, but only after a hard fought game.—Salem Capitol Journal.

KILLED BY TRUCK

Henry Floyd Pisk, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Pisk of Veneta, was killed instantly on the road near his home yesterday morning when he was run over by a motor truck driven by Eric Neuwander of Santa Clara.

The boy, according to two girl schoolmates who were with him at the time, attempted to climb aboard the truck and slipping fell beneath a rear wheel before the driver even knew that he was near. The cries of the little girl attracted his attention and he stopped and went to the boy's assistance, but life was about extinct. Yesterday was the boy's birthday.

Coroner Braustetter said that no inquest will be held as it was plain to be seen that the driver was not held at fault.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Wednesday at the Gates cemetery. The Braustetter chapel is in charge of the body. The boy is survived by his parents, three brothers, Allen, Walter and William and two sisters, Bertha and Elsie all living at Veneta.—Eugene Register.

The California Oregon Power company water rights that are worth millions, then defeat the men who are trying to save them for you. According to newspaper reports, the California Oregon Power company has been purchased by one of the big members of the Power trust, for $20,000,000. It requires no financier or mathematician to figure how much of that twenty million dollars represents the value of the water rights of the company.

That is why The Evening Herald urges the farmers of the district to stand for their rights, for their property, for the millions that are at stake and that will be won if Jacob and Short are elected.

$5000 OFFER STILL STANDS

The offer of the Evening Herald to pay to such charities as may be selected by the Rotary Club, the Kiwanis Club and the Chamber of Commerce, if the Klamath News can produce anything that will show that Charles Wood Eberlein, or anyone else, has invested a dollar in the Evening Herald, directly or indirectly, still stands. There are no strings to this offer. All of our books, papers and confidential information are at the disposal of certified accountants at any time. The only condition is that if the Klamath News fails to prove its charges, it will turn over to the organizations named, $5000 to be distributed for charitable purposes.

The statement in the Klamath News is a lie. It is just part of the vicious, unscrupulous, untruthful campaign it is waging in a mad effort to defeat Jacob and Short and to secure control of the board of directors of the Klamath Irrigation district for the California Oregon Power company. If the Klamath News has any such information that it claims to possess, it should produce it before the election next Tuesday so the people may know which newspaper is telling the truth in this campaign.

There are no stockholders, or investors, no individual or corporation interested in the Evening Herald except the three whose names are given in our report to the postoffice department, and if the Klamath News will produce a scintilla of evidence to the contrary, it will have earned for charity the $5000 we herewith offer.

"FIGURES DONT LIE," but liars will figure. That is the trouble in the present campaign. Liars are figuring to try and prove that the present administration of the Klamath Irrigation district has "squandered" the people's money. The financial statement of the directors will speak for itself. The farmers are not going to be

AGAIN! OFFERS GREATER VALUE

July 23rd Nash introduced new models—by long odds the finest motor cars Nash ever built.

These new models presented new and uniquely original body designs, far-reaching improvements in construction, and many notable refinements in engineering and equipment—all at far greater manufacturing cost.

BUT—NASH DID NOT INCREASE PRICES!

NOW! PRICES REDUCED

Reductions up to $300

The above price reductions are effective November 1st on exactly these same models.

It is possible to make such price reductions only because of the tremendous volume of sales inspired by the manifestly GREATER QUALITY and GREATER VALUE of the Nash product.

In the first 3 months these cars have been on the market the total sales have more than equaled one-half the sales for the entire year of 1924.

taken off their feet by the coterie that's trying to deliver to the California Oregon Power company water rights worth millions. They are going to stand by the men who have stood by them—Short and Jacob.

We would like to ask the farmers this question: Which would you choose between—the statements of a newspaper that has lost tens of thousands of dollars during the past year, a newspaper that stands for the California Oregon Power company and the Southern Pacific company against the interests of this community, or the men who have had the courage to stand up and fight for the interests of the district, in the face of the most vicious attacks and calumny in an effort to save to the district assets worth millions? Someone is paying the bills of the newspaper and if it is worth tens of thousands of dollars a year to maintain a newspaper that will spread lies and misinformation, then there must be something worth while to gain. If it is worth tens of thousands of dollars to get that something, then it should at least be worth your vote to keep it. That is why you should vote for Short and Jacob and keep the water rights that are worth millions to the district. In the end these water rights will pay the cost of the Klamath project.

PI KAPPA ALPHA WINS
"Beavers All Over the World" was the slogan, and a large globe, the decoration scheme of the prize-winning homecoming sign displayed by Pi Kappa Alpha. This is the second year straight the Pi Kappa Alpha has won the trophy.

"By the Lady, By the Tree" was the motto of the winner of second prize, exhibited by Alpha Pi Delta. Portraits of the Lady of the Fountain and the Tree formed the background. A panorama of the campus with the slogan "Our Spirit Flashes High" gave Sigma Phi Sigma third place.

"The signs this year seemed to portray the Homecoming spirit more than ever before," said H. R. Hewitt, assistant professor of political science, on the judging committee. "The committee found it hard to narrow the choice down to a dozen, then finally to three. All of them showed signs of careful workmanship and preparation.—O. A. C. Barometer.

Cross, Irritable Husbands Often Victims of Chronic Fatigue

MANY a wife thinks that because her husband is always cross and irritable, criticizing and complaining, that he does not love her any longer or that he is working too hard—when as a matter of fact the real cause of his "flare-ups" is—chronic fatigue. Chronic fatigue is entirely different from the ordinary fatigue you feel after hard work. Chronic fatigue comes from within. Your nerves, organs, and muscles have become debilitated due to lack of sufficient organic iron in your blood. To conquer chronic fatigue you must strengthen your system by restoring this organic iron to your blood. But don't take the older mineral iron medicines which many doctors now say do little good. Take organic iron—Nuxated Iron—which is like the iron in your blood and like that in spinach and lentils. Unlike ordinary mineral iron, it will not injure the teeth or disturb the stomach, but is promptly assimilated. Take Nuxated Iron for just two weeks and you'll be astonished how much stronger and better you feel. Money back if not improved. At all good druggists.
