DIFFICULT WHISKEY

One of the sure signs of the success of prohibition is the high price of whiskey. In saloon days anyone could get a quart of whiskey for from $1 to $1.25 as easily as he could get a quart of castor oil. Today whiskey may be had at some risk of arrest at from $6 to $12 a quart. The $6 type is bought without guarantee and at the consumer's risk. Those who desire to be entirely safe in their bibulations can get the Simon pure Canadian, aged-in-the wood goods, manufactured last week in a back cellar in the North End of Portland, for $12 a quart.

Now that rum running on the Pacific Northwest coast has become a more hazardous business the price of liquor, it is predicted, will go to $15 a quart. The tighter the prohibition, the higher the price of whiskey.

It is perfectly obvious that the ease with which one can obtain liquor has much to do with the amount consumed. It is also obvious that the greater part of this abnormally high priced whiskey is consumed by people whose appetite for whiskey was formed in the days of easy access to liquor.—Portland Telegram.

Kid Starkey To Make His Last Appearance Before Local Fans At Scandia Hall Wednesday Eve

Popular Little Carpenter Has Won Many Friends by His Clever Ring Work Here—If He Beats Trambitas It Will Be Big Feather

Kid Starkey's farewell appearance before Klamath Fans promises to be the most spectacular of his career in this city. When he faces Johnnie Trambitas at Scandinavian hall Wednesday night in the 10-round main event bout, he is going to tear right in and try to dispose of the Portlander in quick order. A decisive win over Trambitas means main events and big purses in the south, where Starkey plans to live for the winter.

The little carpenter has made himself a prime favorite with local fight fans, and he will have the crowd with him Wednesday night. He has always put up a slashing fight in every start here, and his willingness to mix it

Local Knights of Columbus Hold Meeting at Falvey Home

A large number of local Knights of Columbus and their wives motored to Merrill last evening where a meeting of the Merrill and Klamath Falls Knights was held at the home of Hugh Falvey. Following the lodge meeting a social time was enjoyed with refreshments served at the conclusion of the evening.

CARS OF TODAY

G. J. Ogil, Seattle; George H. Meyer, San Francisco; Clarence E. Miller, Mt. Hebron; F. L. Woodcock, Warm Beach Wash.; Henry Graham, Winters, Calif.; Earl Troyer, Walnut Creek, Ohio; James N. Hayes, Aberdeen, Wash., and Mariou House of Marysville, Calif., registered with the chamber of commerce today.

A loafer usually wishes he was doing something else.

with the highly touted boxers who have been imported has made him many warm friends who will watch his career with much interest.

Trambitas was delayed a day in leaving Portland, but is due to arrive here tonight to complete his training. Like all boxers, Johnnie claimed he wasn't "right" when he met Starkey here two weeks ago and lost on a foul. But he says he is now used to the higher altitude and will be ready to go full speed ahead from start to finish. The bout ought to be a whizz no matter who wins.

Wilbur Harrington has a double purpose in wanting to knock Jack Crim kicking in their six-round wrangle. There is real hatred between the boys which is carried out of the squared arena. Likewise, when he failed to sign up immediately for a return go with the Modoc Indian youth, rumors floated about the city that Harrington didn't like Crim's line of lefts and rights.

But it was the purse which Harrington was balking about, and with that arranged to the satisfaction of all, he is now putting on the finishing touches to his training.

"I'll feel that I haven't earned a dime if I don't knock him out," declared Harrington, at which Crim merely smiled and got that left hook of his into more action in readiness for their bout.

Bobby Allen and Tommy Murphy will tangle in four rounds, while "Iron Man" Burke and Jim Fleming will hurl gloves and grimaces at each other in the four-round opener.

All in all, it looks like a great card. Seats are on sale in downtown cigar stores and billiard halls, and the advance sale is reported to be brisk.

At the PINE TREE

Tonight the Pine Tree offers not only a good picture but also five acts of exceptionally clever vaudeville. The final act called Musical Moments is one of the best seen here in many a day. Three clever girls who are really good enough for the Orpheum, handle this number perfectly and to miss them is to miss some rare entertainment.

Something to get excited about—a motion picture without a "juvenile" or a flapper!

This is "Inez from Hollywood," which plays at the Pine Tree Saturday.

The principal roles are played by Anna Q. Nilsson, as Inez, and Lewis S. Stone, as Stewart Caylor. This is in line with the very praiseworthy tendency shown by the most intelligent producers to cast in their leading roles actors and actresses, rather than merely pretty faces and youthful inexperience. Not that Anna Q. isn't beautiful enough to satisfy the most critical in the role of Hollywood's reigning vamp."

Stone has an ideal role as a millionaire man-about-town who is wise enough to escape from the alien's tolls, only to fall in love with her younger sister.

MacMillan Chooses "A Well-Balanced Diet Built Around Meats"

Nothing developed on the trip to cause me to revise my idea about foods; which is that a well-balanced diet built around meats yields the best health results.

On the way north we had fresh domestic meat from the supply taken aboard when we sailed. After we reached the North we relied upon the wild life of the region, using seal, walrus, caribou, muskox, Arctic hare, and many kinds of wild ducks.

Every day we had fresh meat with plenty of fat at least one meal and usually oftener when supplies were plentiful, and every one came through the four months in excellent condition; in fact, most of the members of the party gained weight.

While we often hear it claimed that eating too much meat is unfavorable to health, it is a fact that such ailments as gout, hardening of the arteries, and other disorders attributed to an excess of meat eating are quite unknown to the Eskimos who eat nothing but meat.

In my own experience I have never known anyone to attempt to live in the Arctic on a vegetarian diet. On the other hand, every Arctic explorer nowadays relies upon the native fresh meats as a sure preventive of scurvy, a much dreaded nutritional disorder which was prevalent in earlier Arctic experience times before we learned a lesson in diet from the Eskimo.
