FRAGMENT

A glimmer of things that might be—
A shimmer of things that are—
And far away on the mountain top
The gleam of a setting star.

The creeping of days before me—
The leading of days gone by—
But over it all, the memory of you
And hours that cannot die.

THIS cure for the "blues" is worth the attention of each and every one of us, for I truly believe that there are few of us who at times do not feel like the world is all wrong. Whether it be "Blue Monday" or not.

Take one ounce of the seeds of resolution, mixed with the oil of good will and infuse into it a large spoonful of the balsam of patience. Distill carefully a composing plant called other's woes, which you will find in everyone's garden of life. Gather a handful of blossoms of hope, sweeten with charity and if you can get any real seeds of friendship, you will have the most valuable medicine that one can take.

To give way to the "blues" is worse than folly—it is the quintessence of selfishness and instead of the sympathy meted out to a person in the doldrums, what he heartily deserves is a thorough good shaking.

Truly troubled persons, people who've been through the mill, are the ones who grumble the least. "Blues" arise perhaps most often from our own selfishness. Look within, don't try to find out why you're not happy, but why you are miserable. Is it that you expect too much from life? The happiest person is the one who is content with little for the present time, and expects much from the future. Go out in the world and instead of comparing your misfortunes with other peoples success, realize your own blessings in life as contrasted with some other person's downright bad luck.

Don't think so much about what you haven't, as what you do possess. The "blues" are a disgrace to a healthy man or woman, and besides a doleful person becomes so wearisome.

The "bluer" you feel, the cheerier you should be. Be happy and make other people so.

YOUNG COUPLE MARRIED ON SATURDAY AFTERNOON

ONLY a few near relatives and close friends attended the wedding of Miss Minnie Dawson to Mr. Ernest Cartwright, both well known young people of Klamath Falls on last Saturday. The wedding was solemnized at the home of Rev. and Mrs. A. L. Rice, with Rev. Rice officiating.

Miss Faye Dawson attended the bride and Mr. Billy Hall attended the groom. The only guests were Mrs. Dawson, mother of the bride, Mrs. Cartwright, mother of the groom, Mrs. Wayne Blehn, Mr. Delbert Jennings and Mrs. A. L. Rice. Mr. and Mrs. Cartwright are at home to their friends at 226 Mortimer street.

'TIS WHISPERED RUSSIAN BOOTS ARE BEING WORN

"Russian Wellington" boots, eighteen inches high with flaring "jester" tops are the latest style in women's footwear in London's fashionable west end shoe shops.

The new boots are being made in black patent leather and glace kid. They are also being made in other shades to match the color of Madame's favorite dress.

P. E. O. CLUB WITH MRS. SABIN TUESDAY

MRS. LYNN SABIN will be hostess on next Tuesday to the members of the P. E. O. club at her home on North Third.

PROPER BOOKS FOR THE LITTLE TOTS

MATRONS of Klamath Falls will attempt to interest every parent of this community in books for children, when on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this coming week a collection of the best books for children will be on display at Baldwin's Hardware store. These books from the state library have been selected from thousands as being the best reading matter for the younger children.

An attempt will be made to have each and every parent think of books for the small child as an ideal Christmas gift. While the books on display cannot be purchased, the Star Drug, Underwoods and Southwells have expressed their willingness to order any of the books which parents might wish to purchase.

This coming week will be known as "Children's Book Week" in Klamath Falls.

Mrs. H. R. Harrison of Pelican City will be glad to assist in giving out any further information on the subject. During the days when the books will be on display someone familiar with the books will be in charge of the exhibit.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY WITH MRS. YARNS

Mrs. T. B. Yarns was hostess on Thursday afternoon to the ladies of the Methodist Missionary society. During the afternoon Mrs. George T. Casper gave an interesting talk on missionary work. Twelve members of the society were present and at the close of the social hours, Mrs. Yarns served light refreshments.

THE PRINCE AND THE PORRIDGE

THE PRINCE OF WALES did not like porridge any better than thousands of other little children who make very faces over their oatmeal in spite of all the Scotch manufacturers can do to popularize it in the British Isles.

In an address before the Industrial Welfare Society Mrs. M. A. Cloudeley Breerton told an anecdote of the Prince's youth. On his last morning at home before he was to go into the naval service, when the porridge was set before him he said: "Well, thank goodness, there is one thing about going into the navy. I won't have to eat this beastly stuff every morning of my life."

But to the surprise of the Prince his first breakfast in the navy began with stiff porridge handed out in wooden bowls. He knew what his duty was when he saw the knowing look exchanged by two senior officers, and swallowed the inevitable oatmeal.

DINNER PARTY HONORS SONS TWELFTH BIRTHDAY

rain mixture. Combine the two mixtures, then add one and one-half cups of flour. Bake in a shallow pan and cut in squares.

Carrots Lyonnaise

Cut carrots into one and one-half inch strips and cook until nearly done, then put some butter into frying pan, add a small onion chopped fine and cook until onions begin to brown. Then add carrots and cook without browning about five minutes. Add salt and pepper to taste and a pinch of sugar. Cover, and when ready to serve add some finely chopped parsley. Drain and serve hot. Fine for a change.

Fried Hominy Cakes
Into four cups of water stir one cup of hominy and a teaspoon of salt. Stir until it begins to thicken, then cook three hours in a double boiler. When cooked pour into pound-size baking powder tins which have been rinsed in cold water. Next morning for breakfast slip from tins and fry in butter until a nice brown. Serve with maple syrup.
