LINKVILLE CO-OPERATION

At a rousing meeting of the Linkville chamber of commerce the other night the question of street signs was discussed amid wild enthusiasm.

"Street signs are a vital part of our civic life," declared Honorabile I. Doolittle, in a burst of oratory, which drew thunderous applause. "Why should we delay any longer? We are a progressive people. We do not wait a quarter of a century, nay, not even a decade to put anything across. We believe in speedy action."

"Therefore, I move you, Mr. President, that our chamber of commerce go on record as favoring the installation of sign posts not later than April Fool's day, 1927."

The silence was so tense that you could have heard a pin drop—roller or safety—as President Rip Van Winkle rubbed the sleep out of his eyes and gazed out over that sea of expectant faces.

"I am overwhelmed by this splendid spirit of speed and co-operation," he stammered, "but if each of us puts his shoulder to the wheel, I know we can put it across. It's a mighty task but I believe our civic pride will carry us on to success."

The motion was put, and was carried by a glorious majority.

A moment later the entire membership joined in singing "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," and then the meeting adjourned.

THE WEEKLY DISCORD

Little Lord Fauntleroy, Editor
(A news letter for all members of the Uplift club.)

By unanimous action of the board of directors it was decided to initiate a movement looking toward a 50% reduction in the price of drinks. We have adopted a slogan: "Four bits is too much for a two-bit drink." The committee expects to report progress at the next meeting.

At the next forum luncheon of the Uplifters, Ray Dunn will be the chief speaker, taking for his subject, "Why Girls Leave Home." There will be special music by the Uplift quartet, composed of Jack Glover, Linn NeSmith, Bill Marx and Perry DeLap. They will sing: "You Made Me What I Am Today, I Hope You're Satisfied."

Tom Malarkey, in his usual realistic manner, will sing that ocherous ballad, "JUST A LITTLE DRINK."

The committee on Fair Play reports progress on the movement to induce all duck and geese hunters not to start for the marshes until after 8:30 in the morning. The Uplifters consider it unfair to make Traffic Cop Knowles get up so early in the morning, because of all the vicious road violations, speeding on a deserted road during the early morning hours is the worst. The Uplifters are starting a fund to give Mister Knowles a medal. They probably will select a double-cross.

An old member, Paul Farrington, was reinstated in the Uplift club this week. He passed the first initiation with flying colors, but subsequently was dropped from the rolls. Since his reinstatement he is fast rounding into form like a true Uplifter.

Kiddies' Christmas Fund Will Bring Joy And Laughter Into Many Cheerless Klamath Homes

Evening Herald Wants to Make This a Banner Year For Unfortunate Tots Who Might Otherwise be Forgotten—Boxers Doing Their Bit

While the spirit of Thanksgiving prevails today, it might be well to pause for a moment and give a thought for the unfortunate little youngsters of the city who are looking forward to Christmas morning with some misgivings.

There are a large number of boys and girls who are wondering if Santa Claus is going to pass them by; if, on Christmas morning they are going to awaken in some cheerless home and find that tears and hear-aches are to be theirs instead of joy and happiness.

This is an appeal to you grown folks.

Just let your memories wander back through the years to the days when your mothers tucked you in bed on the night before Christmas. Can't you recall how excited you were? How, in childish fancy, you imagined you heard the sound of the reindeer? How you awakened in the morning and rushed pell mell into the warm sitting room to find that the mysterious Santa had not forgotten you during the night?

Or there may be some of you who may see a far different picture on the seared canvas of memory. Are there those of you who had no Christmas? Whose hearts ached in silence because you had been forgotten?

The Evening Herald, in conjunction with the Christmas Chest, is promoting a fund to be used exclusively in making it a real Christmas for the kiddies of Klamath Falls—the little tots whose parents are unable to provide them with the little toyland gifts so dear to the hearts of the children, and without which it is not a real Christmas. Those children who are recommended as deserving by the Christmas Chest investigating committee will be supplied with toys; inexpensive little gifts which will make childish laughter echo through the drear homes of the city. The Christmas Chest will take care of the families in the way of clothing and food and other supplies. But the Evening Herald's Kiddies' Christmas fund must supply the Christmas cheer for the boys and girls.

First response to the Herald's appeal was made by Johnnie Sylvester and Jack Meehan, promoters of the boxing cards. Ten per cent of the proceeds of the card next Tuesday night will be donated to this fund.

State's Wards Will Have Big Thanksgiving

Special Programs Prepared in Institutions

SALEM, Ore., Nov. 26.—Today will be a day of joy for the wards of the state, all the way from the tiny tots at the state school for the blind to the most hard boiled "eight minute egg" in the penitentiary. Thanksgiving dinners and programs will be the order of the day. Because of its high price turkey will be eliminated from the menus except in the institutions that do not have a large population, and in some of the others where the officers may have a snack of turkey.

Here is the menu at the state hospital for the insane:

Two thousand pounds roast chicken; 100 gallons giblet gravy; 160 gallons fruit salad; 160 gallons mashed potatoes; 1000 bunches of celery; 4 barrels cranberries; 300 pumpkin pies; 300 mince pies; 100 boxes apples; 600 gallons cider; 600 pounds raisin cake; 200 dozen eggs; 200 gallons milk; 200 gallons coffee; 200 gallons tea; 100 pounds plumb pudding, and all "trimmin's".

At the state penitentiary a vaudeville program and motion picture will be put on in the forenoon.

All the other state institutions will be entertained by motion picture shows and have special Thanksgiving dinners.

YOUNG STUDENT NEAR DEATH IN AUTO SMASH-UP

Frank Humphrey, Enroute Home for Thanksgiving, is Seriously Injured

OTHERS IN HOSPITAL

Skidding Car on Wet Pavement Causes Crash, Woman Driver at Fault

EUGENE, Ore., Nov. 26.—Homeward bound for Thanksgiving, Frank Humphrey, a student at the University of Oregon, was perhaps fatally injured, and five other people were more or less seriously injured late yesterday afternoon in an automobile accident six miles north of Eugene.

Humphrey suffered a fractured skull, and little hopes are expressed at the hospital where he has been taken that he might live.

Mrs. Hazel Cantor and Mrs. Rae Elliott of Portland, and Mr. and Mrs. John Toeves of Aberdeen, Idaho, are also in the hospital, victims of the same crash. Jerry Jarnard, also a student at the university and a brother of Mrs. Cantor, was badly bruised and suffered a wrenched back, but returned to the fraternity house where he has been living.

Mr. and Mrs. Toeves were in one machine, while the others were in the second car.

According to the story told here, the party of three had left Eugene for Portland. Mrs. Cantor was driving, and had been following another machine, the machine ahead slowed down suddenly at a road crossing, and in attempting to slow down her light coupe, Mrs. Cantor applied the brakes. The car skidded, and was struck broadside by the Toeves car. Both machines were practically demolished.

Humphrey was thrown against the windshield and bracing of the closed car. Mrs. Cantor suffered a badly sprained ankle and the others in the mishap suffered cuts about their faces and heads. All were suffering from severe shock.

Uncle Of Kip Rhinelander Was Once Married To Servant Girl Declares New York Newspaper

Evening World Digs Up Evidence That Relative of Wealthy Youth Had Same Sort Of Trouble And Was Disinherited By His Relatives

NEW YORK, Nov. 26. (AP)—The New York Evening World says today that Leonard Kid Rhinelander, in his marriage to the daughter of a negro hack driver, from whom he is now seeking an annulment, followed the marital example of another Rhinelander, one of his uncles, who twice married beneath his social position. This uncle was William Copeland Rhinelander, oldest brother of Leonard's father. He married a servant of the family nearly fifty years ago when he was just out of Columbia college, and was at the age of his nephew who is now in a marital tangle. Nearly twenty one years after his marriage to the servant girl this uncle married again—this time to a waitress in a quick lunch place.

Local Hunter Lost In Marsh Of Tule Lake

Last Seen of Will Hardberger is Yesterday At 2 P. M.

A hunter is either lost or seriously injured out in the dangerous marshes of Tule lake, according to word received this morning by the sheriff's office. He is William Hardberger, sawyer for the Ewauna Box company, and his hunting companions have not seen him since he plodded out into the marsh yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Weds Servant Girl

William Copeland Rhinelander was barely 21 years of age when he shocked society in 1876 by marrying Maggie McGinness, a servant employed by his family. Miss McGinness claimed to be the direct descendant of an Irish king, but the father turned the couple out of doors. John Drake, family lawyer, made an arrangement whereby they received $100 a week.

In 1884 Rhinelander was arrested charged with trying to kill Drake, whom he accused of trying to alienate the affections of his wife and offering her money to go to Ireland and never return. Drake was shot in the shoulder and died six months later. Rhinelander was never tried for the shooting.

Second Runaway

This Rhinelander attracted attention again in 1897, by a runaway marriage with Juliette Maier, pretty waitress in a quick lunch place in Manhattan. It is believed he had obtained a separation from his first wife. After his second marriage Rhinelander posed as the man who had sacrificed "millions for love."

He obtained aittance from his father's will on the stipulation that he would live away from New York. For years he resided in Canada and Brooklyn, then a city by itself, and finally settled down in Schenectady, where he lived as a recluse. The last known of him was in 1914, when he was living in a furnished room in Schenectady, blind and paralyzed. His second wife was still with him.

DAY OF THANKS CELEBRATED BY KLAMATH PEOPLE

Community Has Much to be Grateful for During Year of 1925

TURKEYS REIGNING

Football Game to be Attended by Many, Before Thanksgiving Dinner

Once again the year has rolled around to Thanksgiving day and once again the Klamath populace are celebrating this day of thanks as their particular dispositions and whims direct.

Today is the 364th anniversary of Thanksgiving, a holiday strictly American. It originated in 1621 among the Pilgrim fathers on the hard and rocky soil of New England.

These God-fearing and courageous men, fresh from the soil of their native heath in England, survived a year in a strange country and with the odds against them. When the late fall rolled around and their harvested crops were secure in storage stacks, they felt that some expression of thanks to the Almighty would be appropriate.

Declare Thanksgiving

So a day of Thanks was declared, a day on which the chores were forgotten and on which worship prevailed in the morning and feasting and celebration marked the late afternoon and evening. So fitting was the custom and so perfectly did it fit into the habits of the average American, that it was adopted as a National holiday and has so endured for 304 years.

Locally speaking, Thanksgiving will be celebrated just as it will be celebrated in thousands of other communities within the boundaries of the United States. There will be church in the morning, for those who feel the call to worship at the altar of their God. There will be the football game in the afternoon which will undoubtedly be well attended.

Thieves Enter Waldorf Cigar Store At Night

Sixty Dollars Stolen By Unknown Prowlers

One or more burglars last night broke into the Waldorf card room and cigar store, stole $50 out of the safe, took about $10 from a money drawer beneath the counter and made their escape, leaving no clues behind. The robbery was discovered when the place was opened for business this morning.

The proprietors and police believe that one of the burglars hid in the basement during the evening and remained secreted until after the place had closed for the night. This could be accomplished by lifting a small trap door when nobody was looking. It is thought this prowler then opened one of the doors for his pals and that they then proceeded to rob the place.

The small safe in which the $50 was cached, had been left unlocked, although the burglars were compelled to jimmy open the inside money box of the safe. They then cut out the lock from the counter money drawer, where they got the $10 in silver.

There was no evidence that the visitors had taken any large amount of tobacco or other articles of merchandise.
