The Unknown?

America's "Unknown Soldier" was Beth S. Shaw of Bangs, Tex., in the belief of Hugh T. Ramsey, Texas war veteran. The spot in France from which the body of the "Unknown" was taken falls exactly, says Ramsey, with Shaw's burial place. A picture of Shaw, victim of the Meuse-Argonne offensive, is shown above.

There will be a dance at the Worden community hall next Saturday evening November 28th. The ladies are invited to bring a basket supper. Everybody is invited and a good time is promised for all.

ROME.—Use of liquor, even wine, and tobacco is now forbidden at school and college by the fascists. Children under 15 may not act in the movies; children may witness only approved films.

Feng Declares War On Chang

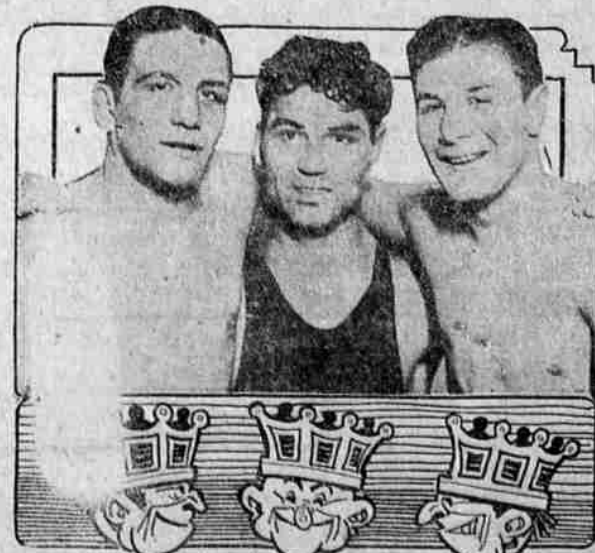

PEKING, Nov. 27. —(AP)—General Feng Yu-Hsiang, the "Christian general," today in effect declared war on Marshal Chang Tso-Lin. In a telegram to the Manchurian leader, Feng urged that he retire from active politics. Otherwise, he said, he would attack immediately.

Feng continued today to tighten his grip on Peking, where an additional division and brigade of his forces were taking their places in the garrison. Meanwhile detachments from Mukden, capital of Manchuria, reported Marshal Chang Tso-Lin's determination to fight to a finish against the efforts of his former followers and other enemies to completely oust him from power. The Manchurian war lord, whose stand appears to be a forlorn hope, is reported to have announced his intention to make a stand first at Shan-hai-kwan, 150 miles north of Tientsin, and later, if necessary at the river Liao, near Mukden. However, only fifty thousand of his troops are said to remain loyal, while 100,000 have followed the revolting general Kuo Sung-Lien.

Chang's position, moreover, has been weakened by the apparent defection of Chang Tsung-Chang, governor of Shantung, who has refused a summons to join Chang. Meanwhile the Manchurian chieftain's foes are preparing to divide the spoils of their coup.

PHILADELPHIA.—Charles Wehgart, of New Brunswick, N. J., has had enough of speculating in football tickets, especially when he takes a girl to a game. Miss Honorietta Diehl waited in an automobile while he tried to sell two extra Pennsylvania-Cornell football tickets. But federal agents took him to jail with nine other speculators and kept him there until police found the weeping girl, still waiting late last night.

Three Pugilistic Kings

Three of a kind—and all kings. In other words, from left to right, we present Mike Ballorino, junior lightweight champion; Jack Dempsey, heavyweight titleholder and Phil Rosenberg, who wears the bantam crown. They were snatched at Jack Dempsey's Los Angeles gym the other day.
