

You Can't Escape the Styles With Profit

Civilization has imposed upon its members the responsibility of assuming an appealing appearance. It maintains a vogue that expands the style and fashion with the changing seasons. Provides creations of design and pattern that forestall the monotony of dress and affords the wearer a choice and select attire, that adds zest and attraction to his appearance and respect to his taste and station.

He who would progress must be abreast of the times in appearance as in thought. The adage that "clothes make the man" is not true as a whole but it is not amiss. The feeling of prosperity, of favorable reception and the knowledge of being well dressed gives to the inner man a sustaining morale and happy anticipation that can be attained in no other way.

Motor Official Praises Klamath County Autoists

Klamath county autoists are showing better cooperation with the Oregon State Motor association than can be found in any other part of the state, declares H. E. Gale of Grants Pass, Southern Oregon manager for the state association.

"We have our local offices in the chamber of commerce quarters opened and functioning properly," said Mr. Gale. "Not only are we receiving the cooperation of our Klamath members, but likewise from your chamber of commerce and the motoring public generally."

Mr. Gale called attention to the fact that the state association offers its members many conveniences and he wants all members to take full advantage of all their membership privileges.

Death Claims Anna Jane Tucker

A serious operation to eliminate the throats of a malignant disease proved fatal last evening at 6:55 o'clock to Mrs. Anna Tucker, aged 62, who died at a local hospital.

Mrs. Tucker had been ill for one year with the disease. Funeral services have been set for tomorrow afternoon at the Whitlock funeral home. The Rev. T. D. Yarnes of the Methodist Episcopal church will officiate at the services.

Mrs. Tucker, a native of Tennessee, had been a resident of Klamath for 11 years and at the time of her death had resided just south of town in the Altamont district.

She is survived by her husband, S. J. Tucker, three daughters, Mrs. Maude Purkey, Mrs. Clarice Dowling and Eva Tucker; and four sons, James A. Tucker, Elmer Tucker, Carl Tucker and Ralph Tucker. The body will be interred in Linkville cemetery.

WHITE LUNCH IS CLOSED; CLAIMS FILED IN COURT

A padlock was placed on the front door of the White Lunch, 1222 Main street, by a sheriff's deputy this morning, while a group of creditors of Nick Valleas, owner of the place, are wondering if they will get the money alleged to be due them.

An attachment against the restaurant was served by the sheriff's office this morning following the filing of a suit in circuit court late yesterday afternoon by Gus Miller, representing Miller's market and other creditors of the lunch room.

Miller claims the sum of $528 due him for meat purchased since March, while Sinclair's market holds a claim of $9.10 and the Holiday dairy holds two claims aggregating approximately $80.
