

Hunters Give Till It Hurts For Big Feed

Marion Barnes Tries Psychology And It Worked

Just over the imaginary line that separates Oregon from California, stood District Game Warden Marion J. Barnes last night. He stood in Oregon and hailed Tule lake duck hunters returning to Klamath Falls by the west side road.

Now, Marion, as his friends call him, was not desperate in his attempt to take a "pinch." But there were those that he stopped that believed he was, and many was the heart throb and sweaty brow that was caused by the game warden's flash light which signalled automobiles to stop.

What the game warden was after was ducks, and geese for the Klamath Sportsmen's association annual duck feed at the chamber of commerce, December 7. Barnes applied just the right psychology to gain his end. So happy and grateful were the nimrods that Barnes did not bother them particularly, that they gave "until it hurt," for the Klamath Sportsmen's banquet, and considered themselves well off at that.

Barnes had a tonneau full of birds at the end of an hour or so, and Sportsmen attending the annual banquet will be guaranteed a good feed December 7.

Klamath Indian Is Sent to Jail For Eighty Days

Bid Riddle, son of that old and respected member of the Klamath Indian tribe, Jeff Riddle, is in jail today. He will be in jail 79 more days before he may again join his family and friends at Beatty, his home.

Riddle entered a plea of guilty Saturday before Justice of the Peace Olson of Beatty to the charge of assault and was sentenced to serve 80 days in the county jail. The young Indian was arrested for assaulting a young woman of the neighborhood with a dangerous weapon.

County Court Lets Contract For Culverts

Portland Concern Successful Bidder For Material

Entanglements of several weeks over the culvert contract came to an end Saturday afternoon when the county court let to the Fenotti Pipe company of Portland, the 1926 road culvert contract for Klamath.

The Court agreed to use road culverts exclusively supplied by the Portland concern for the year 1926. There was one other bidder, the Beall Iron Pipe company of Portland.

When bids were first opened the Fenotti bid was invalidated because the company did not submit a certified check with its written offer. The representative of the Beall Iron Pipe company immediately demanded that the contract be let to his concern because his company had submitted the only legal bid. Instead the county court threw out all bids and re-advertised.

John Rogers Is Taken in Raid; Let Go on Bail

Another Broad street habitue was arrested on Saturday night on the usual charge of possession of intoxicating liquor. He is John Rogers, who resides at 327 1/2 Broad street. Rogers' home was raided by Special State Agent William Cole. A diligent search finally revealed a gallon jug and two pints of alleged moonshine whiskey cleverly hidden underneath the house, the officers reported.

Rogers appeared before Justice of the Peace Kendall this morning and asked to be released on bond. He put up $100 bail and will appear before the magistrate tomorrow morning to enter a plea.

SEVEN ROBBERY SUSPECTS HELD IN CITY JAIL

Finger Prints to Be Taken and Alibis Will Be Checked By Local Police

Seven men, suspected of either being connected with or having some inside knowledge of the robbery Friday night of the Waldorf pool hall, were picked up yesterday and today by police and will be held pending a further investigation into their activities in Klamath Falls the past few days.

Chief of Police Harry Loucks declined to make public the names of the men in custody but said this morning that their finger prints would be taken and that any alibis offered as to their activities Friday night would be checked up.

Ranchers Want Improved Road

County Court Tells Farmers To Get Right-of-Way

Let ranchers of the district affected, provide a right of way and the county will do the rest.

In substance this is the reply Saturday of the county court to a petition signed by 21 ranchers asking for the construction of one half mile of road from the Beardsley place to the state highway. The petition sets forth that the small piece of road is necessary to that section inasmuch as two mail routes traverse that territory and also because of the population of the district. The district affected is south of Malin and near the Dalton ranch.

IDEAL HUNTING IS ENJOYED BY DUCK HUNTERS

Overcast Day Is Good for Nimrods on Tule Lake Hunting Fields Yesterday

A sullen overcast day, marked with intermittent rainfall—that was Sunday, and what a day it was for the duck and geese hunters on Tule lake!

Each hunting season there are perhaps three or four days when hunting conditions are ideal, and yesterday was one of those days.

In the first place the weather was comfortable, almost warm. In the second place the clouds were hanging low, very low, and as a result geese and ducks were flying low and within range of the hunter's gun all during the day. Third, the birds were on the fly most of the day, particularly the ducks.

Next Sunday will undoubtedly bring a change of weather and a change of luck in hunting, but however the weather changes, the hunting will hardly be better than it was yesterday.

KLAMATH FALLS PEOPLE

Among the well known residents of Klamath Falls who are visiting in California are Miss Margaret Lewis, Miss Constance Schallock and Fred Schallock. The party arrived at the hotel Del Monte the day before Thanksgiving and are spending several days in Del Monte and Monterey with friends.

Man Comes Back and Is Arrested

When Robert McCarn returned to Oregon last week he unwittingly walked into the county jail, for that is where McCarn is today under a charge of stealing an automobile. He was taken in custody in Malin by Deputy Sheriff Ben Foss and lodged in the county jail yesterday afternoon.

McCarn told an interesting story to officers. He said that one day last August he was intoxicated in Malin. Two men gave him their car and told him to go to Dorris to buy some whiskey. He had almost reached the northern California town when his car broke down. He walked on into Dorris and returned later to repair the damage. In the meantime highway cultures had swooped down on the automobile and stripped it of everything but the engine, wheels and body. In his intoxicated condition, he said, he believed that he had purchased the car. So instead of patching up the damage he journeyed on south and did not return to Malin until Saturday.

Deputy Sheriff Ben Foss was on hand with a warrant for his arrest.

Hunter Penalized $350 for Shooting Over Legal Limit

On Beebe, referred to as John Doe Beebe, was fined $50 yesterday for taking over his legal limit of game birds shot in Oregon. Beebe, with H. H. Short and V. Carey, was arrested Friday near the Hopkins ranch in lower Klamath lake by District Game Warden Marion Barnes.
