

SPANISH QUEEN MINGLES WITH LONDON CROWD WHILE SHOPPING

LONDON.—(AP)—When Queen Victoria Eugenie of Spain comes to London to do her shopping she thinks nothing of taking a taxi and being hustled to Kensington Palace with her arms full of bundles. Princess Ena of Battenburg, as she is known here, combats a tendency to plumpness by taking vigorous exercise, and on her fall shopping tour she bought many sports clothes.

On one occasion she accompanied Queen Mary of England and Queen Maud of Norway on a shopping trip, but the tour had been prearranged so carefully that few persons in the busy centers were aware that three queens of as many countries were in their midst.

High Altitude Will Not Hurt Either McGreer Or Keller In Their Bout Thursday Evening

Both Big Boys Like This Sort of Climate—Public Workouts to be Staged Starting at Three o'Clock Tomorrow—Interest is Keen

Jack McGreer, Texas heavyweight, was jogging along in the light snowfall early this morning, improving his wind and getting on speaking terms with Klamath's high altitude. He was losing no time in shaping himself for his 10-round battle with Willie Keeler, Idaho champ, at Scandia hall next Thursday night.

"I've fought in high altitudes before so it doesn't affect me at all," smiled the big boy. "I understand that Keeler has spent most of his life up in the mountains so neither of us will have any excuse about not being used to this altitude. And I don't want Keeler to have any excuse to offer because I intend to flatten him out plenty, and am glad the promoters were cautious enough to strengthen the ring for him when he drops."

Keeler and his manager-wife are due to breeze into the city some time this evening, and will take his first workout at Scandia hall tomorrow afternoon, when all the battlers will go through a stiff workout to which the fans are invited.

By all the rules of the game this bout between these two clever heavies ought to be a peach of a go. They're both clever, they're both terrific hitters and both are masters of ringcraft with reputations which give them the call on fight cards any place in the Pacific northwest.

Those who like to see the local boys in action will get a good run for their cash when Sid Herbert and Jack Crim square off for their six rounds of leather pushing. For some reason or other these two boys have been making all sorts of threats against each other. Perhaps it's because Herbert helped to condition Wilbur Harrington for his last battle with Crim, but at any rate, the two lightweights are going to crawl through the ropes ready to tear into each other with the tap of the gong, that's what's going to make it a real fight. Opinion among the fans is about evenly divided with both boys having plenty of supporters.

Jim Fleming is showing more stuff than he did in his last bout with "One Round" Hogan and those who have been watching him do his stuff are figuring that the Malibu farmer boy will have a lot of trouble in stopping Jim in the opening casts of their four-round special event. Hogan, however, has shown worlds of improvement, and if he keeps going like he has lately, Sylvester, who has him in charge, says he'll be ready to take on some of the coast's leading battlers within a few more months. In Sylvester's opinion, Hogan is a real "flad," and he looks to see the boy make a big name for himself in the squared arena. Down around Malibu they are all hopped up over their battling Bohemian with the Irish moniker, and a flock of Malibu fans will be on hand for this quarrel.

They dug up a mastodon tusk near Middletown, N. Y. Wonder what kind of tooth paste the animal used.

Everything has its use. If there were no burglars no telling what would get lost under the bed.

COUNTY COURT ANSWERS BUREAU

Charles Martin Explains Klamath County's Side in Highway Controversy

Klamath county answered the United States bureau of public roads late yesterday.

Charles Martin, county commissioner, was spokesman for Klamath. C. R. Purcell, district engineer of the bureau of public roads had already spoken in no uncertain terms, charging Klamath with being the only county in the state which has failed to live up to its agreement with the government in the construction of federal aid roads.

Mr. Martin, in a dispassionate, yet sincere manner, reviewed briefly the road situation. He pointed out how the firm of Lee & Harris were slightly behind in their work, but finally did complete the grubbing and clearing work on The Dalles-California highway, north of Sand creek.

The reason the work was completed as soon as it was, Mr. Martin said, was because the county court sent a county crew north and pushed the project through to completion.

Three other contracts for road construction in the northern part of the state were necessarily delayed last year until the passage of a bond issue.

"I do not feel that Mr. Purcell was justified in attacking Klamath," Mr. Martin explained. "I can't help but feel he has been misinformed."

The controversy between the county and the bureau of public roads arose over federal aid sections of The Dalles-California highway, now under construction. By an agreement, the county court agreed to have certain parts of the road cleared and grubbed by a certain time, but, according to Purcell, the work was not completed on time or according to specifications.

Elkdom throughout the state is now flourishing, the two officials said, and Klamath lodge is taking a leading part in the affairs of the state organization.

Nearly 50 "Bills" from Lakeview also were present last night, making the hard drive over the Lake county city in order to mingle with their brother lodge members here during the visit of Fisher and Page.

Following the lodge meeting, the State traffic officers last night were guests at a feed and smoker arranged by the local lodge.
