TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS

Now that Christmas is over and you have given and received of those things that bring you joy, we are going to ask that you "lend us your ears," for a moment or two. The Evening Herald, like other legitimate newspapers, needs revenue. Its existence depends upon the money paid for its subscription and for the advertising that appears in its columns. At this time we have particularly in mind the question of your subscription.

If those receiving their paper through the mail will look at the date that follows their name, it will tell how your account stands with The Evening Herald. If you are in arrears, wont you please send us your check for an amount that will bring you up to January 1, 1926. If you have a little surplus cash, add five dollars more, and you will be paid to January 1, 1927. If you are, like most of our subscribers, paid up to date, then drop us your check for five dollars for another year and we will appreciate it.

As you doubtless know, the subscription price of a newspaper is but a small factor in meeting the cost of production. For that reason every publisher is constantly seeking means of reducing the cost of his subscription department. If you will cooperate with us in the matter of paying your subscription, you will save us a great deal of money that will have to be spent if payments are not voluntary. Letters will have to be written, bills made out and mailed and other expenses incurred that will be avoided if you will start the New Year right by mailing us your check to cover the amount of your subscription. What we have said above, and which is directed particularly to our subscribers who receive their paper through the mails, applies with equal force to subscribers who receive their paper by carrier. For one reason or another, a few of these are in arrears. These we ask to call at the office and balance their account with us. If it is not convenient to call, your carrier will bring you a bill and you can pay him.

JUVENILES

How many times during your life have you done little things which you got away with, but which you would have disliked to see in the newspapers, especially if it were in connection with your arrest?

Do you stop to consider that when a reporter turns in the name of some youngster, still under or in the early teen age, who has committed some offense for which he has been arrested and held by juvenile authorities.

Most newspapers of today have a rule against the use of names of all juveniles, except in extreme criminal cases, such as murder. That rule should be in force in every newspaper.

Many youngsters commit crimes because of their ignorance of the law. They should be protected by the newspapers to such an extent that their mistake is not made public, thus branding the child for the rest of his or her life.

A child's mistake is most satisfactorily corrected by making him realize the mistake and the possible results. Publicity results in either scorn or admiration from the youth's companions.

Scorn turns the child against his companions and 'soldom will he try to replace himself with them, while admiration makes him proud of his misdeed and results in attempts to win even more admiration from his companions.

Protect those kiddies' names as you would your own. Give them a chance to correct and live down youthful errors.

LACE ON FRENCH PROCKS
PARIS, Dec. 28. (AP)—Zion City lace for Paris gowns which Zion City would be far from approving, are the first American-made laces ever to be imported by a dressmaker here. Many of the dresses trimmed with the product of the little Illinois town will go back near home again. A big Chicago store has bought half of them.

LINDSAY RAPS WOMEN'S CLUBS

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 28. (AP)—Nicholas Vachel Lindsay, poet, returning home today after a tour of the west, declared he had "sworn off going to women's clubs." "I prefer hostesses who do their own work and who also read," he said. "Almost any college professor's wife is this sort, but the women's clubs have such people with a deadly hatred. They prefer to thrust me among hostesses where there is much tea and a smothering of servants."

"If there are husbands present, they are the kind of business men who find their chief nourishment in the full page advertisements of office supplies."

"Their only idealism is to keep their wives like those supplied with tea pots and servants, while they themselves, as good business men, keep on attending peppy business men's lunquets."

Of the 3000 patents issued for radio apparatus in Washington, the bulk of the applications for patents come from the younger class of workers, experimenters, young graduate engineers and technical students.

The United States Bureau of Standards has forbidden the use of its name in connection with the sale by various manufacturers of dry batteries for radio sets.

Bits of News From Towns Throughout the State FROM ALL OVER OREGON

PISTOLS STOLEN

Two pistols made up the sole loot of a sneak thief who on Saturday night burglarized the home of Paul R. McKee, 18 Geneva street. Although the house was thoroughly ransacked, and clothing was pulled from drawers and scattered over rooms the burglar was apparently satisfied with taking the guns. One gun was a 45 calibre Colt and the other was a 32 calibre of the same make.

According to Chief of Police Adams, the McKee family was out of town when the burglary took place. There is little chance of catching the culprit unless he offers the guns for sale in Medford, or is arrested with them in his possession. Adams said.—Jackson County News.

GEORGE TETHROW PASSES

George Tethrow, for many years a resident of Grants Pass, passed away suddenly Wednesday afternoon at the home of the mother of Mrs. Tethrow. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 Saturday afternoon at Hall's chapel, with interment at the Granite Hill cemetery. His widow, Mrs. Ruth Tethrow, two daughters, Vivian and Gretchen, one brother, S. I. Tethrow, and a sister, Mrs. James Pennington, survive.—Grants Pass Courier.

JOINS EXAMINER STAFF

Wm. A. Bessler, newspaperman and printer of wide experience, has joined the Examiner staff as shop foreman. Mr. Bessler was formerly on the Portland Oregonian staff and comes to the Examiner after a three-year stay with the Klamath Herald. Mrs. Bessler, who conducts a furrier shop in Klamath Falls, remains there while their son, who is a butler on the Klamath high football team, completes his high school work.—Lake County Examiner.

PIONEER PASSES

Funeral services for G. R. Higgins, Oregon pioneer, who died in North Bend Sunday evening after a short illness, will be held this afternoon at the Steltz and Son chapel in North Bend. Burial will be in the Sunset cemetery.

Higgins was born in Illinois, on April 30, 1843. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Joe Parker of Janesville, Iowa; Mrs. A. D. Pierce, North Bend; three brothers, one sister, eight grand children and eight great-grandchildren.—Marshfield News.

BURGLARS AT ASHLAND

Merchandise and supplies valued at over $100 were stolen from the Rich store and schoolhouse Tuesday night by parties believed to be a man and woman. No clues, other than the tracks of a high power automobile and two pair of shoes, were left behind. The car is thought to have speeded away by way of Grants Pass through the Applegate valley.

The school house was visited first. There entrance was made into the basement with a pass key, where a case of condensed milk and a gallon of sugar and cocoa were taken. The car then stopped in front of the store where a window was broken to allow entrance. Merchandise and supplies that have not as yet been identified were taken, including such articles as shoes, clothing, bacon and flour. The car was fully loaded, the sheriff believes, when the burglars drove away.—Ashland Tidings.

CRASH VICTIMS INJURED

Lawrence Dupree of Carson, Wash. was seriously injured late yesterday afternoon when his car collided with one driven by Carl Johnson, route 2, Gervais, near the Chemawa road and Pacific highway, about five miles north of Salem.

Dupree was rushed to a local hospital by the Golden Ambulance where last night he was said to be in a semi-conscious condition. He received severe injuries about the head and his car was demolished. Johnson was cut and bruised.—Salem Statesman.

FIRE AT MARSHFIELD

The Marshfield fire department was called to Englewood at 6 o'clock this morning to extinguish the fire which broke out in the Wm. Sylvester home there early today. The fire was put out with chemicals after efforts to check the fire were made by neighbors.

NEW RESERVOIR OPENED

Residents of the Fairmount district were given a Christmas present by the Eugene water board yesterday when the gates were opened between the new high level reservoir and the Fairmount district mains.

Water of such force as to surprise the early morning bathers came through the pipes, it was reported and the confirmation of the action of the water board was made later.

The high level reservoir was completed several weeks ago, it was said by C. A. McLain, superintendent, but owing to difficulties in getting adjustments made, the water was not turned into the mains until yesterday morning. The capacity of the reservoir is 150,000 gallons. The adjustments were not completed, but it is expected that within a few days the machinery will be working in first class manner.—Eugene Guard.

WASHINGTON.—President Coolidge doesn't like coming down stairs to the strains of "Hail to the Chief," blared out by the Marine band.

It's been the custom at past White House receptions. The present president doesn't believe it's the right idea for a host to appear among his guests with a brass band tooting his own horn.

So at the diplomatic reception which opened the White House "season" of 1925-26 a few evenings ago the Marine Band cut out "Hail to the Chief." It played, but it played nothing calculated to be interpreted as advertising for "the big chief," with the president in that role.

The guests at the diplomatic reception weren't so modest.

They had no bands, but the clothes those diplomats wore! Who says women are more stuck on themselves than men? Blazing with your doorbell. Could have been and lace, plastered with medals, jangling with awards, the men, at that reception—most of them—outshone the women far and away.

Mrs. Coolidge wore a train. Not many other women did. Short evening dresses were the rule—short at the bottom and short at the top. Princess Antoine Bibesco, the Rumanian minister's wife, was especially the latter. It was a wonder how she kept it on.

The presidential handshake is warm, moist, very limp. Mrs. Coolidge's is a genuine handshake. The presidential smile is just a "trace," as the weather bureau folk say. Mrs. Coolidge's is the real thing.

AMERICAN RULE GROWS IRKSOME

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 28. (AP)—The Philippines will rebel against United States rule within 10 years if its demands for independence are not granted. Celfo Manat, president of the Filipino Independent commission, told the Detroit labor forum Sunday.

He accused Governor General Wood of attempting to sell the natural resources of the island to American capitalists. The Philippines have been ready for self-government for several years, he said, citing the peaceful elections and willingness to support the government and power to maintain order and transact business with other nations. Only one twelfth of the citizens of the island are unevilked, he said.

SEATTLE, Dec. 28. (AP)—Liquor was not the only thing that was hit by prohibition, said Carl J. Deutch, representative of a Japanese fan company, who has just returned from the Far East.

Since the advent of the Volstead era the decorated fan has almost ceased to be, he said. Before prohibition millions of the fans were sold, especially to breweries, which used them for advertising purposes. "In those days," said Deutch, "it was quite the fad for ladies, especially when sitting in beer gardens, to cool themselves with our fans, but since the country went dry this business has dropped to almost nothing."
