

R. C. Groesbeck Tells Of U. S. Chamber Meet

Believes New Era of Business Has Dawned in U. S.

A new era in business, an era in which campaign cries of "down with big business and corporations," will never more be heard, has dawned in the United States, R. C. Groesbeck, director of the chamber of commerce, assured the chamber forum this noon. Mr. Groesbeck reported to the members of the forum the successful meeting of the United States chamber of commerce meeting in Seattle, at which he represented the Klamath chamber.

That there has grown up a better understanding between business and the individual, was the chief point stressed at the Seattle meeting. Mr. Groesbeck reported. This understanding has dispelled doubts as to the honesty and good purposes of big business men and corporations.

Miss Cowgill Speaks
That girls' clubs will go far to make better homes on the farms, and that the club movement has gained momentum in the past few years, was the message told the forum by Miss Helen Cowgill, state leader of girls' clubs, here on an inspection visit of the Klamath Clubs. Miss Cowgill cited interesting facts and figures tending to show the importance of clubs in this county.

Lynn Nesmith, chairman of the chamber of commerce forum committee, announced that the forum next week would be devoted to scenic attractions of Klamath and southern Oregon. Chief speakers will be Colonel Thompson, head of the Crater Lake park, and Secretary Fuller of the Ashland chamber of commerce. The luncheon was enlivened by two violin solos by Harry Borel.

Crop Conservation Sought by Lowden

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13. (AP)—Conservation of surplus crops or their manufactured products "to serve society in deficit years," was favored today by Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois, in testimony before the house agriculture committee. He said crops could be used in much the same way as credit resources were handled, under the Federal reserve system—in other words spread out so they would serve where needed. "If the farmers were completely organized," he added, "they would not need legislation."

Reclamation of Rubber Is Urged

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13. (AP)—Urging economy in the use and reclamation of rubber, P. L. Palmerton, chief of the department of commerce rubber division, told the house commerce committee today that the situation promised to become acute by 1929.

Demand was increasing steadily he said, with only slight advance in potential production and the British restrictions had aggravated the situation. The decreased plantings, he added, had allowed acreage to remain also the same in the face of increasing consumption.

The normal demand in 1925, Palmerton placed at 672,000 tons, as compared with a maximum possible production of 661,000 tons.

"Almost illimitable" acreage for producing trees in Brazil awaits enterprising work to increase accessibility, he said.

Wild sources were dominant in world supply until 1914, he declared and still furnish potential production of superior quality rubber to supplement plantation output in emergencies.

ANXIETY FELT

LONDON, Jan. 13. (AP)—The uncertain future of the hop growing industry in England is causing grave anxiety. With government control ended, it is said that anything may happen as regards over production. The suggestion is made that the acreage be reduced ten per cent and that ten million pounds of the crop still unsold be destroyed in the interest of the industry.

KILLS HIMSELF

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 13. (AP)—Harold Rasmussen, 56, consulting engineer ended his life today by shooting himself through the abdomen with a rifle at the home of his daughter, the coroner's office reported. He left a note attributing his act to ill health.

CHARLES INMAN TO BE RE-TRIED

Case Set for Trial Friday Morning at 10 O'clock in Justice Court

The state will make another attempt to prove to the satisfaction of six jurors that Charles Inman was intoxicated while driving to Pelican City last month. The case has been set for re-trial Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

In one of the most unique and in many ways, humorous, trials that has come up in justice court in months, a jury could not agree on the trial. Yesterday afternoon the state announced its decision to re-try Inman.

Nye Gets Seat on Democratic Side

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13. (AP)—Gerald P. Nye, seated yesterday as a senator from North Dakota by the votes of democrats and insurgent republicans, today classified himself as a "republican progressive" and was formally assigned a desk on the democratic side of the senate chamber. Republican leaders said there was no available place on their side for the aisle.

"I am willing to stay where I am at least among friends," said the new senator.

This afternoon the convention heard papers and talks by J. S. Joyce, Portland; H. H. Lynch, San Diego; W. B. Edson, Los Angeles, and Professor H. A. Bendixon of the University of Idaho.

WATER TOO LOW

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 13. (AP)—While Portlanders are reveling in clear, sunny weather, that same weather is causing water bureau officials to scan the skies with troubled looks.

There is no snow whatever at Bull Run lake nor on the surrounding mountains, according to Charles E. Oliver, engineer in charge of the lake division of the water bureau.

There should be normally four or five feet of snow at the lake level at this time of the year and more in proportion on the mountains surrounding, according to Oliver.

EGG MARKET FIRMER

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 13. (AP)—A firmer feeling prevails in the local egg market and values are 1 to 2 cents higher on the dairy exchange. Lighter receipts and more severe weather conditions are the principal factors in the upward swing of values at this time. Fresh standard extras and current receipts are a cent higher at 34 cents and 28c (net). Pullets or fresh mediums are 2 cents for the day at 21c. Firsts and undersized grades held steady at 32 cents and 27 cents.

Local jobbers and commission men are generally of the opinion that the market is due for a turn, with values working higher. Some look for the market to mark time, being more or less a weather affair for the next few weeks.

HAS CORK LEG BUT IS BEST CENTER ON SCHOOL TEAM

CENTER POINT, Iowa—Although Beryl Hunter, 19, has a cork leg, he is a regular member of the Center Point high school football team. He plays center. Coach Alfred Kline said the boy is a good player; that he makes his tackles along with the rest of the squad and asks no favors because of his handicap. "He is a game youngster," Coach Kline declared, "and I use him at center because he is the best player we have for the position. Last year Beryl played on the basketball team."

Contractors Must Raise Larger Bond

Instead of having to raise a bond equal to half the amount of their bid, contractors must raise a bond equal to the entire sum of the bid.

This was the announcement received this morning by County Road Engineer Frank Z. Howard from State Market Road Engineer J. H. Scott.

"In other words," Howard explained, "if a contractor bids $1000 on a county road project and he is the successful bidder, he must raise a $1000 bond instead of $500 as of old. The cost will not increase, however. For instead of the three per cent premium paid under the old system, it has been cut down to one and one-half per cent. The effect of the new regulation will be to make bonding companies more careful when they give bonds to contractors."

Advise Farmers To Secure Calves

Once each year, County Agent C. A. Henderson, writes to practically every farmer in the county, advising him of the advisability of placing their orders for Tillamook county calves. Yesterday, these annual letters were mailed to Klamath farmers and will be received today and tomorrow.

To place orders, money must be sent to the county agent's office and the calves will be shipped to Klamath Falls. The last date for placing orders is January 25, the letter states.

Mr. Henderson has just returned from Tillamook county, where he made a comprehensive inspection of Guernsey, Holstein and Jersey dairy livestock for sale.

Find No Trace of Supposed 'Legger'

Prohibition officers have not yet made an arrest of the reputed bootlegger whom they intercepted yesterday while making a delivery to a Broad street bootlegging dive, and at whom they fired several shots when he made his getaway. They have the license number of the car and hope to trace him through that means.

The supposed bootlegger struck at Joe Zimmerman, a state officer, with a hatchet when Zimmerman boarded the car to make the arrest. He then sped up and drove away while Agent McMills fired several shots at him. The officers say the man threw out a jug of whiskey as he was speeding away.

"Red Pants Brigade" Gives Explanation

Withering sarcasm and unkind remarks directed at their attire has caused four young men working as musicians at Scandia hall to register a loud protest. "The red pants are part of our uniform—we had to wear them," they explain. "Anyway, what difference does it make as long as we produce good music? Be on hand tonight or Saturday night and we'll show you such a good time you'll forget all about the kind of pants we wear."

Saving and Prosperity

James J. Hill, the renowned philanthropist, said, "If a man wants to know whether he is to be a success or not, he may find out by asking himself whether he can save money. If he cannot, he may as well drop out of the race. The seed of success is not in him." Regardless of what you buy at Pilcher's, you save money. Money saved is money earned.
