

Says Another World Exists

CHICAGO, Jan. 21. (AP)—For years astronomers have speculated whether various nebula formations in the heavens belonged to this universe or were "island" universes of their own, insular.

Some of the white patches were known to be true nebulae, composed of luminous gases, or star clusters that dissolved before the telescope. But others peered, no telescope being strong enough to separate them into their component parts, some astronomers suggest that they were universes of stars so far away that they appeared as one mass.

Evidence that another universe really exists is offered by Dr. Edwin Hubble, in a study published today by the University of Chicago in the Astro-Physical Journal.

Dr. Hubble describes this universe as containing bright and dim stars and nebulae in a heaven like our own and offers photographs and definite measurements of the mass of celestial bodies that compose it. The galaxy's general appearance was described as like that of the magellanic clouds, a mass of nebulae like the milky way in the skies of the southern hemisphere.

What the world needs is an alarm clock that will say, "You'll lose your job if you don't get up."

Cold Wave Sweeps Mountain Section

DENVER, Colo., Jan. 21. (AP)—The entire eastern Rocky mountain region was in the grip of a cold wave today.

The cold swept southward today in southwestern Texas, El Paso and the Panhandle, reporting snow and freezing temperatures. Reports from the Panhandle placed the snowfall at from six to eight inches. Roswell, N. Mex., also reported snow.

Leadville, Colo., and Lander, Wyo., had minimum temperatures last night of 14 degrees below zero. The zero temperatures prevailed in Montana, North and South Dakota, while Colorado and Wyoming had temperatures only a few degrees above.

In the northern states of the region, only a light snow fell.

Elks Lodge Will Meet This Evening

The Klamath Falls Lodge of Elks will hold its regular meeting tonight in the Elks Temple at eight o'clock and it will be a regular business session.

The next initiation of the Elks will be Thursday, January 23, according to Exalted Ruler Charlton S. Curran at which time a large class will be received. This will be the first initiation since December 11th.

Large Tax Cut Is To Be Made

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21. (AP)—Secretary Mellon expects to raise no serious objection to the tax bill as reported to the senate, despite the fact that it proposes a reduction of $352,000,000 in government receipts, whereas the treasurer had recommended a limit of $300,000,000. It was said by department officials today that Mr. Mellon believed it inadvisable to interfere.

Some tax experts at the treasury believe a greater cut than at first proposed will serve as a stimulation to business, increasing tax receipts above the calculations upon which the senate committee based its revision of the law.

While the secretary himself has expressed no opinion on that subject he recognizes that such a stimulation actually did follow enactment of the 1921 and 1924 tax laws.

RAIN AT PENDLETON

PENDLETON, Ore., Jan. 21. (AP)—Rain that started shortly after eight o'clock yesterday morning and only stopped for a few hours yesterday afternoon, continued all night and was still coming down today. The rain, which is falling slowly and steadily, is welcomed by wheat farmers and stockmen. In the higher altitudes of the Blue mountains it is snowing, according to reports.

PORTLAND, Maine.—Chinook is a clever dog and daddy. He awoke his master, Arthur T. Walden by pulling off the bed clothes. Walden went to the stables and found Koltag, Chinook's son and team mate, in a dog derby, strangling from a tangled chain.

Report Shows Condition Of Market Roads

Financial Status of Fund Is Revealed Today

Status of the much discussed 1925 Klamath county market road fund, of how many warrants are outstanding, of what was spent on different market roads in Klamath, and a general financial survey of the market road situation, was revealed today in an annual report of market road funds to J. H. Scott, state market road engineer.

In dollars and cents, the amount which the 1925 market road fund was overdrawn was $4,049.69. This amount must be met by the market road fund for 1926, or, in other words, funds for road construction in 1926 must meet certain construction costs of 1925.

Total expenditure of market road funds during the past year, aggregated $65,314.23. Of this amount the sum of $28,143.52 was expended on the Chiloquin-Williamson river road; $18,983.18 on the Midland market road; $13,909.52 on the Langell Valley market road; $4,141.54 on the Yonka Valley market road; and $1,626.09 on the Poe Valley market road. The most startling revelation made by the figures was the amount reported to have been spent on the Langell Valley market road, which extends from Bonanza to Lorella to Langell Valley post office. The figures, in the hands of the county clerk, indicate that there has been general construction and maintenance on the Langell Valley market road fund during every month of the past year; whereas it was discontinued only in January, November and December was money spent on the road. It is believed that the county court used part of the money to defray expenses for the maintenance and repair of road construction equipment.

House to Take Up Haugen Farm Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21. (AP)—The house expects to devote the first of next week to consideration of the Haugen bill, which embodies the administrative plan for a division of cooperative marketing in the department of agriculture. After it has been disposed of the house plans to take up the annual appropriation bill for the agriculture department.

Honesty may be the best policy, but telling the truth isn't always exactly polite.

Sheep Killed by Grass Poisoning

BOISE, Ida., Jan. 21. (AP)—Sheepmen of Grandview estimated that approximately 100 sheep have died in the last week of grasswood poisoning. Death did not begin to occur until the sheep were brought in from the ranges for feeding in this section. The animals ranged on the north side of the Snake river, apparently have been the only ones affected, as no trouble has thus far developed in those whose ranges were along the south banks.

East Africa Is Visited by Flood

SALISBURY, Rhodesia, Jan. 21. (AP)—Disastrous floods continued in the low portions of Portuguese East Africa, caused by 41 inches of rain which has fallen in the last ten days.

Many natives have been drowned in their homes. Others swept from the roofs of their floating huts, have been devoured by crocodiles.
