At the PINE TREE

"The Home-Maker," a Universal-Jewel King Baggott production, opens Tuesday at the Pine Tree theatre. It is a wonderfully well done screen adaptation of Dorothy Canfield's famous story of the same name and features Alice Joyce and Clive Brook in the two leading roles. The group of players supporting Miss Joyce and Brook is excellent and the entire cast is the most evenly balanced one that we have seen for some time.

Those who see "The Home-Maker" will leave the theatre satisfied that they have spent a profitable afternoon or evening, for it is just one of that sort of picture plays that brings before us incidents that have happened or could happen in our own homes. Universal has done a big thing in giving screen fans this wholesome picture of something that is familiar to us all. In "The Home-Maker," romance that has died, flickers back to life. There is pathos and comedy in the work of the disgruntled Eva as she scrubs the kitchen floor. The same holds good for the equally disgruntled Lester as he toils over rows and rows of figures. There is comedy and pathos in the antics of the Knapp children. It is one of those rare pictures that turns tears into laughter and laughter into tears.

MIDLAND GIRL MARRIED

Coming as a complete surprise to her hosts of friends in Klamath county, is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Ina Hooper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Hooper, well known ranchers of the Midland district. The popular young girl was married in San Francisco on Monday, January 25, to John Scott, prominent bridge contractor of the bay city.

They will make their future home in California. The bride had been spending the past two months in the south visiting and the news of her marriage was a complete surprise to her parents as well as her hosts of friends.

FLOWERS BLOOM AT CAVE

Flowers are blooming at the Oregon Caves and the weather is extremely balmy there, states Manager George Sabin, who returned from the Oregon Caves resort this morning. Although there are a few inches of snow on the ground, this is disappearing rapidly and in a few days it will have disappeared. At the bottom of the hill, the ground was frozen solid, while at the higher elevations, the thermometer registered 38 early this morning. To prove that the flowers are blooming, Mr. Sabin brought in a small bouquet. — Grants Pass Courier.
