One of the does was killed near the summit of Hayden mountain near the edge of the highway, the crossed carcasses of the other killed near Spencer creek, was taken away by a car headed toward Ashland, according to evidence on the ground.

He Still Plays

John J. Louson is 65, but he's still able to put up a pretty nifty brand of pastime in the rather exacting game of lacrosse. He's a member of the Montreal A. A. A. and at various times has participated in 27 kinds of sport. His recipe for health is constant exercise.

Stewart's Daily Letter

By CHAS. P. STEWART
NEA Service Writer

"And 'tis remarkable that they talk most who have the least to say." —Prior.

WASHINGTON.—Congress, in the last few days, has been in a state of oratorical eruption such as Washington hasn't witnessed in a long time.

I say "witnessed" advisedly. Nobody stays and listens to it.

It's all because election is coming.

The lawmakers have been wanting to get home for quite a while, to find out what shape their fences are in, and fix them, if necessary.

The managers, however, weren't able to get through with their season's program as early as they had hoped, which has kept the session stringing along.

Tied by the leg here in the capital, the worried legislators have been forced to the expedient of making their political speeches in the Senate and House of Representatives, "extending" 'em in the Congressional Record "ad infinitum"—and "ad nauseam" in some instances—and malling 'em, by the bale, to their districts.

"Plenty of eloquence but little wisdom!" as C. Sallust Crispus once remarked about a speech he'd been listening to in the Roman senate in 46 B. C., or thereabout.

The senators and representatives who really have anything important to say have been too busy recently, with the wind-up work of the session, to say it. They've said nothing and sawed wood. Most of the talking has been done by the one's whose first consideration is to get themselves re-elected.

I know of one congressman who made a ringing speech about nothing in particular and sent 30,000 copies of it, which is an awful stack, to his constituents.

PAT BURKE BACK

Back again after a 15 day trip through the East and Middlewest, P. E. Burke declares that nothing can compare with Klamath Falls for business opportunities. "I kept my eyes open while away," the local insurance man declared, "and the more I saw the more I was convinced that this is the community of business opportunity."

Burke visited relatives in Chicago.

CHILOQUIN

Scoutmaster Balfour returned Saturday from several days spent with a group of boy scouts at Skyline, some 40 miles north at the head of Seven Mile creek. The fishing season will be open June 15 and it is expected the scoutmaster will take out a crowd of the boys this week.

Those who went on the scout trip last week had a great time. It is reported that on their trip at one place, they counted 17 lakes from where they stood, with the aid of a pair of binoculars.

Mr. and Mrs. Stansbury have left for their home in Bray, Calif., Sunday after spending a week with Mrs. Stansbury's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Ferris. They have been with their parents for a week.

The new Electric bakery, which has been under construction for some time, is nearing completion. This new cement block building will be a credit to Chilquin.

The Ford display building which is being constructed on the highway across from the Davis furniture store, is well under way.

THREE CONVICTS ATTEMPT ESCAPE

Upon checking on the night guard, his services were enlisted and Hall was captured without trouble.

Long Sentences

All the prisoners were in for long stretches. Hall was received from Jackson county December 29, 1925, to serve ten years for breaking jail.

Duncan was under 35 year sentence on an aggregation of seven counts, including jail breaking. Blake was sent to the prison hospital on account of his ill health. Duncan became a patient when appeared to have a fever, believed to have been caused by his own action in order to gain admission to the hospital. Hall was also "supposed" to be ill.

Search of the hospital quarters today revealed the presence of an excellent "dummy" revolver. The apocryphal is described as the finest ever seen by prison officials and was complete in detail, empty shells being filled with imitation bullets.

STOCKYARD ROMANCE

CHICAGO, (AP)—In Chicago's stock yards the romance of Miss Claire Dux and Chas. H. Swift had its inception. The opera singer and the packer, who will wed in August, were luncheon partners after Miss Dux sang at the yards. And she had to ask a friend, after lunch, what was the name of the man who sat beside her.
