Androcles of ancient Roman times, who won the lion's friendship by removing the thorn from his pad, had nothing on the character of Dave Weston, played by Charles Farrell in "The Clash of the Wolves," playing at the Liberty theater.

In this latest Rin-Tin-Tin picture, in which June Marlowe and Pat Hartigan will also appear, Weston transforms Lobo from the savage leader of a pack of cattle-killing wolves to a faithful friend through a simple act of kindness similar to that of Androcles. To young Weston's friends Lobo is the personification of affection and gentleness; to his enemies, a fiend of retribution and revenge.

New Oaklands Have Important Changes

With 77 important changes in mechanical and body construction, the new models of Oakland have arrived in Klamath Falls, at the salesrooms of R. R. R. Garage, 529 Klamath. As in the 1926 models, the harmonic balancer still occupies a feature position among the mechanical improvements.

The latest improvement is the "Rubber-Silenced Chassis." No increase in price accompanies the improvements.

At the PINE TREE

From prologue to final fadeout, "Born to the West," which opened at the PINE TREE theatre yesterday, proved, if one may judge from comment made by satisfied patrons, one of the most entertaining westerns that has come to the screen in many a day.

No author seems to reflect the real west and the vast open spaces as does Zane Grey.

The story opens in Colorado, in the year 1875, with two school boys engaged in a terrible fight, each emerging from the fray with scars he is to carry through life. Likewise, each comes out with an inherent desire to maim and kill, a feud which continues through the years that follow.

In writing about Mystic Clayton, appearing at the Pine Tree this week, "Klieg," of the Santa Barbara Daily News, has the following to say: "Crystal gazing and the fascination of the power to forecast the future has held a lure for the human race for centuries and with astrology is one of the oldest arts in existence."

"Any mind reader, seer or whatever else they may be called, will receive a large and fascinated audience, for it is one of the weaknesses of the human race to want to know what is going to happen. Clayton at the Granada this week presents a mind-reading act with unusual skill and in a convincing manner. He is one of the best of mediums from a theatrical point of view and holds his audience continuously throughout a long act that closed the show. His routine is to make a short explanation of his work and then pass through the audience a large number of envelopes in which are cards. The audience is invited to write any question upon these and attendants collect them and place them upon a table."

PINE TREE Theatre
