A WARNING

PROTEST against the increasing paternalism of the federal government is voiced by the American Bar association — says the Portland Telegram. A report of the committee on citizenship includes the following:

"The Roman citizens bartered their ancient liberties for bread and circuses. The American citizen today freely barter his liberties and rights for bounties and bonuses. He is being pauperized by government alms. If he supports the government, he asks the government in return to build his roads, educate his offspring, sanitize him, physic him, bring his children into the world, prescribe his dietary and tell him what to believe in matters of conscience. . . It is apparent to every thoughtful lawyer that we are approaching the time when the states may be reduced to the rank of counties, when all important powers will be centralized in Washington, and this government will come, as all other democracies have come to a centralized despotism."

"Federal aid"—the name itself is a misnomer which betrays us. We have all the demoralizing moral effect of asking and accepting charity and yet we have eventually to foot the bill. Usually it is a bigger bill, incurred by Washington bureaucrats from the seclusion of their tilted chairs, than it would be if we had done our own business, in our own way and under our own supervision.

Lawyers are traditionally conservative. They are not given to sensational alarms, and we may be assured that they see a real danger and sound a needed warning.

Our sturdy American spirit of independence grows flabby with prosperity, and obseely helpless from over-indulgence at the pork barrel. Patrick Henry may have said "Give me liberty or give me death," but we are too willing to trade liberty for a bonus or an irrigation ditch.

If some day we wake up to the fact that we enjoy only an illusion of freedom, weariness and cynicism may follow the old historic path, abandon the fiction of independence and invite despots to return.

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTER

By CHARLES P. STEWART
WASHINGTON — Over at Fort Meyer, Va., a platoon of cavalry was drilling the other day. It was a lovely sight. Beautiful horses. Magnificent horsemen. Perfect teamwork. The most intricate maneuvers executed with an ease that made them look simplicity itself. Risks taken that would make a circus rider's hair stand on end, but never an accident, never a hitch. What a sad thought that cavalry is vicinually obsolete! They say it was used only two or three times on the west front, Done to death by the auto and the plane!

Then it occurred to me. "If cavalry is obsolete, why do they keep this up? Is it, in fact, obsolete?" So I investigated. Here's what I found out: Cavalry isn't obsolete. The auto and the plane have cut in on its usefulness, but there still are things a man on horseback can do that can't be done by a man in an auto or the cockpit of a plane. When those things have to be done, cavalry's needed the worst way. The horse isn't even obsolete in the artillery service, much less cavalry.

True, cavalry didn't figure much on the west front during the World war, but it was used to good effect on the east front and in Palestine. Filling stations are few and far between on the Russo-German and Austro-Russian borders, in the Balkans and Mesopotamia. A country must be industrialized to support automobiles. A horse can find forage almost anywhere. Bringing gas up to a front is slow work, in a region where there isn't any. A horse can make it in jig time. Time counts in war.

32.25 cwt. f.o.b. Portland. Poultry steady. Heavy hens 25 to 26; light 16 to 17; springs white 17 to 18; ditto colored up to 26; young white ducks 24 to 28; colored 18 to 20. Onions quiet, 1.75 to 2.00. Potatoes quiet, 1.50 per sack; new 3c pound. Hogs at standstill; receipts 230. Cattle nominally steady; no receipts. Sheep receipts 120 (97 direct). Steady.

MILL MENACED
RENO, Nev., July 20. — (AP) — Campbell mill on Clover flat near Lakeview, Ore., is completely surrounded by fire and there is no hope of saving 500,000 feet of lumber there, according to a dispatch received by J. H. McClure, district freight and passenger agent for the Southern Pacific company, today. Dempsey may be world champion heavyweight fighter, but these women who reduce deserve honorable mention.
