Shifting the Burden

What a relief it is, in times of great trouble, to find someone who can be depended upon to take care of practical matters! When the mind is burdened with grief, even the smallest details are irksome.

It is our aim to give more than the bare essentials of service to our clients. We like to be entrusted with little duties of helpfulness, and in such cases we act more as sympathetic friends than as a commercial institution. Every department of our service has been organized with the idea of providing an individual service suited to the needs of each case. Our clients may trust the most personal matters to us with perfect assurance that their confidence will be respected.

LONDON, March 24. —(AP)—Charles Schwartz, American turfman, whose Jack Horner has been scratched from Friday's grand national steeple chase, made a vain eleventh hour attempt to obtain another entry.

He offered H. Liddell $50,000 for Silver Somme, a horse which Liddell bought last year for 179 pounds sterling but the owner declined. The purchase would have given Schwartz a chance to repeat last year's victory in the grand national, which he achieved with Jack Horner.

$210,000 cripple

With a cane, the Salton of Slam has been hobbling around the Yankees' St. Petersburg training camp downheartedly watching his teammates do their diamond stuff. Don't let the glass in the Babe's hand lead you to believe that he undertook to drown his disappointment in his disappointment has been known to be drowned—it contains soda pop!

Officials Inspect—

"Red" Saunders Unanimously Elected Manager Klamath Pelicans

Merit, not reputation, will be the governing factor in selecting the baseball nine of the Klamath Falls Pelicans, it was announced today by "Red" Saunders, who last night was unanimously elected manager of the team for this year.

Aspirants for berths on the semi-professional nine practiced this afternoon at 5 o'clock on fair grounds field.

Manager Saunders, a seasoned veteran of many seasons who has not only managed many teams but pitched for years in fast aggregations in the middle west, stressed the fact that nobody had any position assured on the Klamath Falls nine and that the way was open for any player to win a place on the team.

Saunders was elected manager by a group of last season's players who met last night and laid preliminary plans for the baseball season this year. Final arrangements toward Klamath Falls' entrance in the Southern Oregon baseball league will be made at a baseball meeting held in Ashland next Sunday.
