Farm Community Council Remove All Building Restrictions

MERRILL, Ore., May 13—Rev. E. L. Moore preached Sunday morning, a sermon appropriate of Mothers Day. He took as his subject, "The Angel of the Home." "Take this child away and nurse it for me," Exodus 2-9. These are the words of Pharaoh's daughter to the mother of Moses. When the child had been found by the daughter of Pharaoh and she sends Moses' sister, who has been watching the babe who is hidden in the bulrushes. It was a good sermon, woven around this text. The mother being the angel of the home. Mrs. Seogins' Sunday School class, the Live Wires, gave each mother present a carnation. In the evening Mr. Moore preached the sermon for the graduating class. He gave the class a great deal of good advice, telling them they were starting out, and of the opportunities they have which the former generations did not have. Mrs. Lester Offield of Klamath Falls delighted the audience with a special solo.

Mr. and Mrs. Offield spent Sunday with Mrs. Offield's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Galcomini.

It would be a credit to a much larger school.

Reckless Elks Western Night Great Success

Rough, reckless, raring, razzin', roustabout Elks were hosts last night to a host of tenderfeet seeking to be initiated into the mysteries of the wild west.

With the usual abandon, the spontaneous shots and howls, the Elks put it on "right." The gambling tables hummed with activity. To the tune of Hal Blackburn's orchestra, many dance.

Last night was the opening; tonight is the second night and tomorrow evening will bring the three day event to a close.

LOOK into the faces you see about you—the faces of people both familiar and strange. Did it ever occur to you that behind those sparkling eyes and smiling lips there may be secret turmoil—a seething drama of love, a story of passionate hate, an epic of self-sacrifice, a poem of sorrow and tears?

How little we know of the inner lives of those we see about us! How thrilling it would be if we could lift the mask of pretense and see what the curtain of each soul conceals!

Yet that is exactly what happens every month in True Story Magazine. In its pages, men and women who have lived, struggled, suffered and conquered or failed, frankly bare the secrets in their lives.
