

SURFACING OF ROAD PLANNED

Quartz Valley section of the Klamath Falls-Lakeview highway, from a point east of Bly, eleven miles toward Lakeview, will be surfaced this summer, according to word received here today from Lakeview.

Bureau of Public Roads has advertised for bids on the project and has ordered that the grading, now in progress, be rushed to completion.

The section of road included in the proposed improvement passes through Fremont national forest.

Flyers Who Saved Thousands In Flood

Aviators, circling over the flooded wastes of the Mississippi river, have saved thousands of lives. This group of Arkansas National Guard flyers, from Little Rock, helped in the rescue work by locating the homeless, many of whom were perched on housetops, narrow levees or in trees throughout the flood area.

COPCO EMPLOYEE AWARDED MEDAL

Singular Honor Accorded Yreka Man; Third of Co. to be Named

The California Oregon Power Company which operates throughout Southern Oregon and Northern California has again won national recognition through the award of the Insull Medal to another member of the Copco organization. This makes the third Insull Medal to be presented to Copco employees in recognition of their efforts in saving the lives of their fellow workers through resuscitation from electric shock. This honor is doubly appreciated when it is known that only four of these coveted medals have been awarded in the entire Northwest and three of these have gone to employees of the local company. The first of these awards was made to Howard Dyan of Medford on December 1, 1925, the second to Ted Montgomery of Klamath Falls on August 27, 1926, and the last one to Emmitt Knackstedt of Yreka on May 3, 1927. The history of the accident which so nearly proved fatal is as follows:

On July 19, 1925, Emmitt Knackstedt, known to all of Siskiyou County as "Perky," was engaged with Barney Gray in making repairs to the Montague substation. They were replacing some disconnecting switches which had been destroyed a short time before by lightning. Gray was in the substation, putting a switch in place behind the switch board. Knackstedt was engaged at the moment outside the substation building. He heard the familiar flash of a short circuit and a groan from Gray. Pushing inside he found that the switch in Gray's hand had slipped into a line switch adjoining, and Gray was stretched on the floor unconscious and not breathing.

Hurriedly dragging Gray out onto the floor in front of the switchboard, Knackstedt applied first resuscitation methods in which all Copco men are trained. His man was to all appearances dead, but after ten minutes work, Knackstedt was rewarded by a return of life to his patient. After a few hours rest, Gray was back on the job, none the worse for his experience. Without the prompt ministrations of Knackstedt, Gray would not have lived through his experience.

Following the accident the company made the usual report to the National Electric Light Association and after thorough investigation of all circumstances, the National Safety Council authorized the award of the Insull Medal to Knackstedt for his prompt and efficient action in a vital emergency.

SEVENTH VICTORY

PHILADELPHIA—Foster Sanford Jr., son of the famous footballer, is quite a baseballer. He pitched his seventh victory of the season for Penn in defeating Rutgers, where his dad coaches. In five innings he fanned seven and yielded three hits, then was taken out to rest up for Princeton.

Brief News of Klamath

Randall Goes South

C. D. Randall, who spent some time in Klamath Falls drilling for oil at the old Siemens well, has returned from his home in Southern California to settle up some business matters. He is meeting old friends and enjoying his visit. There is oil in this Klamath Basin, was the old time driller's remark to The Evening Herald. "I know it is here, there is no guess work about it. You will see one of these days another Bakersfield right here in Klamath county, for nature has put the oil right here and plenty of it," was his closing remark, as he lighted his cigar and began talking about the safety of the French flyers.

Hovey Breaks Limb

Charles Hovey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Hovey of San Francisco suffered a broken limb recently while attending college at Harvard. Hovey was knocked to the pavement by a passing motorist. Richard Hovey, his father is one of the prominent lumber men of California and Oregon and is here for several days transacting business with his father, C. L. Hovey of San Francisco. They plan to leave this afternoon for Portland on business.

Baby Son Born

An announcement of more than passing interest is the arrival of a baby son, born at two o'clock on Thursday afternoon to Mr. and Mrs. Francis P. Hannon at Richmond, California. Word of the arrival of the new babe was received by its grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Hannon yesterday. The new son has been named "John Patrick."
