

NEWS NOTES OF MERRILL

MERRILL, July 18. (Special to the Herald)—Mr. and Mrs. Bud Chyne, Ellen McVeigh, Charles Stukel and Art Brown of Malin spent the week-end at Medicine Lake on a fishing trip.

John Merritt, who has been employed at Bob's store, left last Sunday for Klamath Falls, where he has accepted a position with the American National bank.

Ray Merrill is assisting at the Dalton store in the place Mr. Merritt left vacant by his resignation.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Haskins and family and Mr. and Mrs. Smith enjoyed a picnic at Hackamore on Sunday.

Miss Mary Taylor and her house guest, Mrs. Wayne McCollough, left Monday for a few days' visit at "Lake of the Woods."

The Anderson clan of Southern Oregon held a picnic near Pinehurst Sunday. Those in Jackson county meeting those from here at Pinehurst. A picnic dinner was served at noon. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lynch and children, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Hayes, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Doran from Talent, Mrs. Edmona Anderson and son from Phoenix, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kleinhammer and son and daughter from Applegate, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Fray of Medford, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Anderson, Mrs. R. C. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Anderson and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Anderson and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Anderson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Colwell and family, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Brown and family, all from Merrill, and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Anderson of Klamath Falls, have moved to Medford, where they will remain for some time for the benefit of their daughter, Katherine's, health. Mr. Colwell returned Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Bogue made a trip to Crescent City, Calif., Sunday.

Miss Louise Dalton returned Monday from Alturas, Calif., where she had been visiting friends.

Mrs. Wm. Turner is visiting relatives in Minn.

Mrs. Burr Westbrook was quite sick last week, but is much better now.

A message was received by William Hulet telling of the death of his grandmother in Oklahoma. He left Wednesday afternoon and will go through with parents, Rev. and Mrs. Hulet.

Dr. and Mrs. B. J. Rea and daughters, Marcia and Betty, and Miss Lee visited in Merrill Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. N. H. Bogue and Miss Ellen McVeigh were shopping in Klamath Falls Wednesday.

Mrs. W. F. Jinnette spent some time in the Falls Wednesday.

Among the Merrill people taking advantage of the excursion to San Francisco were Frank Graybael, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Bowman, Mrs. M. Galcomini, Mrs. J. C. Stevenson and Dr. Norvall.

F. M. Millard was in Klamath Falls Wednesday.

The Ladies' Aid will meet Wednesday, July 20.

Potatoes around Merrill are looking unusually well and growers are very optimistic.

A message was received in Merrill telling of the sudden death of Miss Edith Wight, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Wight of Portland. Mr. and Mrs. Wight are former residents of Merrill, Mr. Wight having ing taught in the high school here for several years.

This false start almost ended Smith's chances to get to Honolulu. Two thousand yards down the Bay Farm Island runway the Travelair plane hit a soft spot, careened and buried one wheel. But Smith started the third time, circled San Francisco to get altitude, and was off.

Mrs. P. L. Pope is spending the summer at the Pope ranch near Merrill.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Frazier have returned from their vacation.

WIDLAND MAN BADLY HURT

MIDLAND, July 18. (Special to the Herald)—William Burnett met with a painful accident on Sunday while crossing a ditch, falling in such a manner as to sprain his ankle. He will be confined to the family home for several weeks.

Carl Heche motored to Bend on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Fleisher are spending a few days on Miller Island.

The farmers in this community are busy putting up their hay.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Middleton were calling at the S. L. Barnett home on Tuesday.

Helen Atchison of Merrill is spending the week with Anna Burnett.

Mrs. J. D. Hopper and son were business visitors in Klamath Falls on Thursday.

Mrs. Harry Withrell has been ill for several days.

Arthur Shulmire was a caller in Midland on Thursday evening.

Mrs. Frank Gray and son were visitors in Klamath Falls.

So valuable was the Mexican cacao bean up to fifty years ago that the entire populace of Mexico used it as money. One bean passed for a cent.

Star Drug Co.

NEWS NOTES OF LAKEVIEW

(Special to the Herald)

LAKEVIEW, Ore., July 18.—Mrs. Alleen Burch, district deputy president, installed the officers for Lakeview Rethkah Lodge No. 22, Thursday night. The new officers for the ensuing six months are: Mrs. Grace Frizel, noble grand; Mrs. Lucy Garrett, vice grand; Mrs. Lulu McKendree, secretary; Miss Mabel Hotchkiss, treasurer, and the various appointed officers. There was a good turnout of the members to witness the installation. Punch and wafers were served.

A number of people from Lakeview motored to Bend, and then to the site of the bridge over the Crooked River, where elaborate dedication ceremonies were held.

A pretty social affair was the shower given in honor of Miss Vesta Dicks, Wednesday evening by members of the G. G. G. club at the home of Miss Mae Hotchkiss. The members of the club were greatly excited when the announcement of the arrival of Lindberg's aeroplane was made. They immediately hastened out on the lawn, where after more excitement, a miniature aeroplane and spilled its cargo at the feet of Miss Dicks. A gay time was enjoyed by all, as one by one the packages were opened and their beautiful contents disclosed. Miss Dicks successfully parried the quiz as to when the happy date would be and where the honeymoon would be spent.

The Tuesday club held its annual picnic at Box Springs, Tuesday evening, July 12.

S. O. Johnson paid Lakeview a flying business trip. Mrs. Johnson accompanied him. They were guests at Hunter's Hot Springs club, leaving Wednesday morning for Bend, where Mr. Johnson has interests. He expects to return to Lakeview shortly, and will spend several days here.

A British army regiment recently returned to England from Constantinople, having been absent for eighteen years and having done duty in eight different countries.

Even botheaded men occasionally get cold feet.

At the Liberty

"The Idol" bites the dust in "No Man's Gold," starring Tom Mix in a screen version of J. Allan Dunn's widely read novel of the desert, which is now showing at the Liberty Theatre for the last times today.

Forrest Taylor, who had the leading role in the thriller "The Idol" has the "heavy" role in "No Man's Gold." In making the selection Mix laughed and said:

"I've always longed to make 'The Idol' bite the dust. You play the role of Wat Lyman in 'No Man's Gold.' You have found a fabulously rich mine and Frank Healy, a gambler trails you and shoots you down. You fall off your horse and bite the dust."

"All right with me," laughed Taylor. "I've devoured a lot of dust in films and I'm an expert now."

A cordial invitation is extended the delegates and members of their families, to attend the showing of "Across the Pacific" at the Liberty Theatre, Tuesday and Wednesday as guests of Mr. H. W. Poole. This photo drama is a wonderful picture of the Spanish-American war.

At the Pine Tree

Starting in life with an ambition to make people laugh, Chester Conklin may, with due modesty, feel that he has earned a generous share of worldly success.

His first job was that of a circus clown. His latest was one of the principal parts in "McFadden's Flats," now showing at the Pine Tree for the last times today.

Sandwiched in between have been many years of acting under canvas, on the stage and on the screen. He declares that his present association with Charlie Murray in "McFadden's Flats" has served to contribute greatly to his life's store of genuine fun.

Charlie Murray has been preparing for the role of Dan McFadden for over thirty years. This noted comedian says that he has always wanted to play that part. The original play opened in New York when Mr. Murray first went on the stage and it has always been his ambition to some day create the role of McFadden on the screen.

If you are tired of the worries of every-day-life attend the Pine Tree tonight and let these two comedians entertain you with a million laughs.

At the Liberty

"The Idol" bites the dust in "No Man's Gold," starring Tom Mix in a screen version of J. Allan Dunn's widely read novel of the desert, which is now showing at the Liberty Theatre for the last times today.

Forrest Taylor, who had the leading role in the thriller "The Idol" has the "heavy" role in "No Man's Gold." In making the selection Mix laughed and said:

"I've always longed to make 'The Idol' bite the dust. You play the role of Wat Lyman in 'No Man's Gold.' You have found a fabulously rich mine and Frank Healy, a gambler trails you and shoots you down. You fall off your horse and bite the dust."

"All right with me," laughed Taylor. "I've devoured a lot of dust in films and I'm an expert now."

A cordial invitation is extended the delegates and members of their families, to attend the showing of "Across the Pacific" at the Liberty Theatre, Tuesday and Wednesday as guests of Mr. H. W. Poole. This photo drama is a wonderful picture of the Spanish-American war.

At the Pine Tree

Starting in life with an ambition to make people laugh, Chester Conklin may, with due modesty, feel that he has earned a generous share of worldly success.

His first job was that of a circus clown. His latest was one of the principal parts in "McFadden's Flats," now showing at the Pine Tree for the last times today.

Sandwiched in between have been many years of acting under canvas, on the stage and on the screen. He declares that his present association with Charlie Murray in "McFadden's Flats" has served to contribute greatly to his life's store of genuine fun.

Charlie Murray has been preparing for the role of Dan McFadden for over thirty years. This noted comedian says that he has always wanted to play that part. The original play opened in New York when Mr. Murray first went on the stage and it has always been his ambition to some day create the role of McFadden on the screen.

If you are tired of the worries of every-day-life attend the Pine Tree tonight and let these two comedians entertain you with a million laughs.

At the Liberty

"The Idol" bites the dust in "No Man's Gold," starring Tom Mix in a screen version of J. Allan Dunn's widely read novel of the desert, which is now showing at the Liberty Theatre for the last times today.

Forrest Taylor, who had the leading role in the thriller "The Idol" has the "heavy" role in "No Man's Gold." In making the selection Mix laughed and said:

"I've always longed to make 'The Idol' bite the dust. You play the role of Wat Lyman in 'No Man's Gold.' You have found a fabulously rich mine and Frank Healy, a gambler trails you and shoots you down. You fall off your horse and bite the dust."

"All right with me," laughed Taylor. "I've devoured a lot of dust in films and I'm an expert now."

A cordial invitation is extended the delegates and members of their families, to attend the showing of "Across the Pacific" at the Liberty Theatre, Tuesday and Wednesday as guests of Mr. H. W. Poole. This photo drama is a wonderful picture of the Spanish-American war.

At the Pine Tree

Starting in life with an ambition to make people laugh, Chester Conklin may, with due modesty, feel that he has earned a generous share of worldly success.

His first job was that of a circus clown. His latest was one of the principal parts in "McFadden's Flats," now showing at the Pine Tree for the last times today.

Sandwiched in between have been many years of acting under canvas, on the stage and on the screen. He declares that his present association with Charlie Murray in "McFadden's Flats" has served to contribute greatly to his life's store of genuine fun.

Charlie Murray has been preparing for the role of Dan McFadden for over thirty years. This noted comedian says that he has always wanted to play that part. The original play opened in New York when Mr. Murray first went on the stage and it has always been his ambition to some day create the role of McFadden on the screen.

If you are tired of the worries of every-day-life attend the Pine Tree tonight and let these two comedians entertain you with a million laughs.

At the Liberty

"The Idol" bites the dust in "No Man's Gold," starring Tom Mix in a screen version of J. Allan Dunn's widely read novel of the desert, which is now showing at the Liberty Theatre for the last times today.

Forrest Taylor, who had the leading role in the thriller "The Idol" has the "heavy" role in "No Man's Gold." In making the selection Mix laughed and said:

"I've always longed to make 'The Idol' bite the dust. You play the role of Wat Lyman in 'No Man's Gold.' You have found a fabulously rich mine and Frank Healy, a gambler trails you and shoots you down. You fall off your horse and bite the dust."

"All right with me," laughed Taylor. "I've devoured a lot of dust in films and I'm an expert now."

A cordial invitation is extended the delegates and members of their families, to attend the showing of "Across the Pacific" at the Liberty Theatre, Tuesday and Wednesday as guests of Mr. H. W. Poole. This photo drama is a wonderful picture of the Spanish-American war.

At the Pine Tree

Starting in life with an ambition to make people laugh, Chester Conklin may, with due modesty, feel that he has earned a generous share of worldly success.

His first job was that of a circus clown. His latest was one of the principal parts in "McFadden's Flats," now showing at the Pine Tree for the last times today.

Sandwiched in between have been many years of acting under canvas, on the stage and on the screen. He declares that his present association with Charlie Murray in "McFadden's Flats" has served to contribute greatly to his life's store of genuine fun.

Charlie Murray has been preparing for the role of Dan McFadden for over thirty years. This noted comedian says that he has always wanted to play that part. The original play opened in New York when Mr. Murray first went on the stage and it has always been his ambition to some day create the role of McFadden on the screen.

If you are tired of the worries of every-day-life attend the Pine Tree tonight and let these two comedians entertain you with a million laughs.

At the Liberty

"The Idol" bites the dust in "No Man's Gold," starring Tom Mix in a screen version of J. Allan Dunn's widely read novel of the desert, which is now showing at the Liberty Theatre for the last times today.

Forrest Taylor, who had the leading role in the thriller "The Idol" has the "heavy" role in "No Man's Gold." In making the selection Mix laughed and said:

"I've always longed to make 'The Idol' bite the dust. You play the role of Wat Lyman in 'No Man's Gold.' You have found a fabulously rich mine and Frank Healy, a gambler trails you and shoots you down. You fall off your horse and bite the dust."

"All right with me," laughed Taylor. "I've devoured a lot of dust in films and I'm an expert now."

A cordial invitation is extended the delegates and members of their families, to attend the showing of "Across the Pacific" at the Liberty Theatre, Tuesday and Wednesday as guests of Mr. H. W. Poole. This photo drama is a wonderful picture of the Spanish-American war.

At the Pine Tree

Starting in life with an ambition to make people laugh, Chester Conklin may, with due modesty, feel that he has earned a generous share of worldly success.

His first job was that of a circus clown. His latest was one of the principal parts in "McFadden's Flats," now showing at the Pine Tree for the last times today.

Sandwiched in between have been many years of acting under canvas, on the stage and on the screen. He declares that his present association with Charlie Murray in "McFadden's Flats" has served to contribute greatly to his life's store of genuine fun.

Charlie Murray has been preparing for the role of Dan McFadden for over thirty years. This noted comedian says that he has always wanted to play that part. The original play opened in New York when Mr. Murray first went on the stage and it has always been his ambition to some day create the role of McFadden on the screen.

If you are tired of the worries of every-day-life attend the Pine Tree tonight and let these two comedians entertain you with a million laughs.

At the Liberty

"The Idol" bites the dust in "No Man's Gold," starring Tom Mix in a screen version of J. Allan Dunn's widely read novel of the desert, which is now showing at the Liberty Theatre for the last times today.

Forrest Taylor, who had the leading role in the thriller "The Idol" has the "heavy" role in "No Man's Gold." In making the selection Mix laughed and said:

"I've always longed to make 'The Idol' bite the dust. You play the role of Wat Lyman in 'No Man's Gold.' You have found a fabulously rich mine and Frank Healy, a gambler trails you and shoots you down. You fall off your horse and bite the dust."

"All right with me," laughed Taylor. "I've devoured a lot of dust in films and I'm an expert now."

A cordial invitation is extended the delegates and members of their families, to attend the showing of "Across the Pacific" at the Liberty Theatre, Tuesday and Wednesday as guests of Mr. H. W. Poole. This photo drama is a wonderful picture of the Spanish-American war.

At the Pine Tree

Starting in life with an ambition to make people laugh, Chester Conklin may, with due modesty, feel that he has earned a generous share of worldly success.

His first job was that of a circus clown. His latest was one of the principal parts in "McFadden's Flats," now showing at the Pine Tree for the last times today.

Sandwiched in between have been many years of acting under canvas, on the stage and on the screen. He declares that his present association with Charlie Murray in "McFadden's Flats" has served to contribute greatly to his life's store of genuine fun.

Charlie Murray has been preparing for the role of Dan McFadden for over thirty years. This noted comedian says that he has always wanted to play that part. The original play opened in New York when Mr. Murray first went on the stage and it has always been his ambition to some day create the role of McFadden on the screen.

If you are tired of the worries of every-day-life attend the Pine Tree tonight and let these two comedians entertain you with a million laughs.

At the Liberty

"The Idol" bites the dust in "No Man's Gold," starring Tom Mix in a screen version of J. Allan Dunn's widely read novel of the desert, which is now showing at the Liberty Theatre for the last times today.

Forrest Taylor, who had the leading role in the thriller "The Idol" has the "heavy" role in "No Man's Gold." In making the selection Mix laughed and said:

"I've always longed to make 'The Idol' bite the dust. You play the role of Wat Lyman in 'No Man's Gold.' You have found a fabulously rich mine and Frank Healy, a gambler trails you and shoots you down. You fall off your horse and bite the dust."

"All right with me," laughed Taylor. "I've devoured a lot of dust in films and I'm an expert now."

A cordial invitation is extended the delegates and members of their families, to attend the showing of "Across the Pacific" at the Liberty Theatre, Tuesday and Wednesday as guests of Mr. H. W. Poole. This photo drama is a wonderful picture of the Spanish-American war.

At the Pine Tree

Starting in life with an ambition to make people laugh, Chester Conklin may, with due modesty, feel that he has earned a generous share of worldly success.

His first job was that of a circus clown. His latest was one of the principal parts in "McFadden's Flats," now showing at the Pine Tree for the last times today.

Sandwiched in between have been many years of acting under canvas, on the stage and on the screen. He declares that his present association with Charlie Murray in "McFadden's Flats" has served to contribute greatly to his life's store of genuine fun.

Charlie Murray has been preparing for the role of Dan McFadden for over thirty years. This noted comedian says that he has always wanted to play that part. The original play opened in New York when Mr. Murray first went on the stage and it has always been his ambition to some day create the role of McFadden on the screen.

If you are tired of the worries of every-day-life attend the Pine Tree tonight and let these two comedians entertain you with a million laughs.

At the Liberty

"The Idol" bites the dust in "No Man's Gold," starring Tom Mix in a screen version of J. Allan Dunn's widely read novel of the desert, which is now showing at the Liberty Theatre for the last times today.

Forrest Taylor, who had the leading role in the thriller "The Idol" has the "heavy" role in "No Man's Gold." In making the selection Mix laughed and said:

"I've always longed to make 'The Idol' bite the dust. You play the role of Wat Lyman in 'No Man's Gold.' You have found a fabulously rich mine and Frank Healy, a gambler trails you and shoots you down. You fall off your horse and bite the dust."

"All right with me," laughed Taylor. "I've devoured a lot of dust in films and I'm an expert now."

A cordial invitation is extended the delegates and members of their families, to attend the showing of "Across the Pacific" at the Liberty Theatre, Tuesday and Wednesday as guests of Mr. H. W. Poole. This photo drama is a wonderful picture of the Spanish-American war.

At the Pine Tree

Starting in life with an ambition to make people laugh, Chester Conklin may, with due modesty, feel that he has earned a generous share of worldly success.

Forrest Taylor, who had the leading role in the thriller "The Idol" has the "heavy" role in "No Man's Gold." In making the selection Mix laughed and said:

"I've always longed to make 'The Idol' bite the dust. You play the role of Wat Lyman in 'No Man's Gold.' You have found a fabulously rich mine and Frank Healy, a gambler trails you and shoots you down. You fall off your horse and bite the dust."

"All right with me," laughed Taylor. "I've devoured a lot of dust in films and I'm an expert now."

A cordial invitation is extended the delegates and members of their families, to attend the showing of "Across the Pacific" at the Liberty Theatre, Tuesday and Wednesday as guests of Mr. H. W. Poole. This photo drama is a wonderful picture of the Spanish-American war.

At the Pine Tree

Starting in life with an ambition to make people laugh, Chester Conklin may, with due modesty, feel that he has earned a generous share of worldly success.

His first job was that of a circus clown. His latest was one of the principal parts in "McFadden's Flats," now showing at the Pine Tree for the last times today.

Sandwiched in between have been many years of acting under canvas, on the stage and on the screen. He declares that his present association with Charlie Murray in "McFadden's Flats" has served to contribute greatly to his life's store of genuine fun.

Charlie Murray has been preparing for the role of Dan McFadden for over thirty years. This noted comedian says that he has always wanted to play that part. The original play opened in New York when Mr. Murray first went on the stage and it has always been his ambition to some day create the role of McFadden on the screen.

If you are tired of the worries of every-day-life attend the Pine Tree tonight and let these two comedians entertain you with a million laughs.

At the Liberty

"The Idol" bites the dust in "No Man's Gold," starring Tom Mix in a screen version of J. Allan Dunn's widely read novel of the desert, which is now showing at the Liberty Theatre for the last times today.

Forrest Taylor, who had the leading role in the thriller "The Idol" has the "heavy" role in "No Man's Gold." In making the selection Mix laughed and said:

"I've always longed to make 'The Idol' bite the dust. You play the role of Wat Lyman in 'No Man's Gold.' You have found a fabulously rich mine and Frank Healy, a gambler trails you and shoots you down. You fall off your horse and bite the dust."

"All right with me," laughed Taylor. "I've devoured a lot of dust in films and I'm an expert now."

A cordial invitation is extended the delegates and members of their families, to attend the showing of "Across the Pacific" at the Liberty Theatre, Tuesday and Wednesday as guests of Mr. H. W. Poole. This photo drama is a wonderful picture of the Spanish-American war.

At the Pine Tree

Starting in life with an ambition to make people laugh, Chester Conklin may, with due modesty, feel that he has earned a generous share of worldly success.

His first job was that of a circus clown. His latest was one of the principal parts in "McFadden's Flats," now showing at the Pine Tree for the last times today.

Sandwiched in between have been many years of acting under canvas, on the stage and on the screen. He declares that his present association with Charlie Murray in "McFadden's Flats" has served to contribute greatly to his life's store of genuine fun.

Charlie Murray has been preparing for the role of Dan McFadden for over thirty years. This noted comedian says that he has always wanted to play that part. The original play opened in New York when Mr. Murray first went on the stage and it has always been his ambition to some day create the role of McFadden on the screen.

If you are tired of the worries of every-day-life attend the Pine Tree tonight and let these two comedians entertain you with a million laughs.

At the Liberty

"The Idol" bites the dust in "No Man's Gold," starring Tom Mix in a screen version of J. Allan Dunn's widely read novel of the desert, which is now showing at the Liberty Theatre for the