

MAILBOXES FOR AUTOISTS PLAN

HOUSTON, Tex., July 19. (AP)—A sidewalk mailbox for motorists, an idea born of exasperation, has been tried out here and recommended to postmasters in other cities by John H. Bartlett, assistant postmaster general.

"Why don't you put a mail box on the sidewalk and keep a space clear around it so motorists can mail their letters without getting out," a Houston man who had difficulty in finding a parking space near the postoffice wrote Postmaster Roy B. Nichols a year ago.

Nichols liked the idea. He procured an ordinary postoffice package box, anchored it to the edge of the cement sidewalk at one side of the postoffice, painting a "no parking" zone on the pavement, christened it a "courtesy mail box" and awaited results. A ten-inch metal handle with a chain was affixed to the drop.

Motorists adopted the idea at once. They found they could drive to the box, pull the lid down with one hand and deposit a letter or package with the other without leaving their motor cars.

Each mail collector takes mail from the box every time he comes into the postoffice and it has resulted in a minimum of 17 collections daily. In one day a count revealed 800 motor cars had stopped at the box.

Postmaster Nichols made a report on the box to Washington and the idea so highly commended itself to officials there that Bartlett has recommended it to other cities throughout the country.

Local Man May Win State Job

The coming of "Heroes of the Philippines of '98" to Klamath Falls for their 19th annual convention has brought many prominent citizens to Klamath county from all over Oregon, and the political gossip prevalent always at conventions, places one of Klamath's most prominent young men in the line light for appointment to one of the most responsible state positions in Oregon.

It is strongly pointed out that the Patterson administration has not thus far recognized a Klamath county man for anything of importance, and the Veterans are therefore urging Thomas B. Kay, state treasurer, to appoint John M. Glover first deputy state treasurer to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of George Griffith who was also state commander of the American Legion. Glover is assistant cashier of the First National Bank, treasurer of the Klamath County Republican Central Committee, secretary of the Klamath Reserve Officers Association, member of the American Legion, first lieutenant in the reserve officers, member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and chairman of the Klamath Falls Lodge of Elks entertainment committee, and is considered to be one of the best qualified young men in Oregon for the position.

Glover is said to have the strong endorsement of Senator Jay H. Upton and Representative Denton G. Burdick.

Wooden Sidewalks Will be Permitted

Despite the ordinance which calls for no new wooden sidewalks to be laid in Klamath Falls, leniency will be allowed in some instances, and a few temporary walks of wood will be allowed.

This was brought to the attention of the council on Monday evening, when the need of temporary walks west of the Williams garage on Main street was discussed. It was pointed out that no walks are found on the left hand side of the street in this section and the safety of pedestrians calls for walks of some description.

These permits are just temporary, however, and few will be granted.

Ed Clark Chosen City Electrician

Ed Clark was appointed city electrician by the city council last night following the resignation of M. W. Harbeson, who plans to enter private work here. Clark has worked at the electrical business here for several years.

Delivery Trucks Placed Under Ban

Effective today, no delivery trucks will be permitted to load or unload deliveries on Main street. This was the decision reached at the council meeting on Monday night and this morning truck drivers were notified of the rigid enforcement of the order.

He Swallowed It

For 24 hours little Roland Westbrook, 3 of Waverly, Va., lived with his throat blocked by the coin which he had swallowed while playing with a mechanical toy. Through the tiny hole in the center he was able to breathe while his parents took him to Philadelphia where the obstruction was removed.

Indian Girls Held On Arson Charges

Cal Wells, deputy United States marshal, left early this morning for the reservation in search of the remaining two Indian girls who are under indictment on charges of setting fire to the girls' dormitory at Klamath Agency several months ago.

Ten of the indicted girls were apprehended by Wells Sunday and yesterday, five of them being picked up in and around Beatty and the other five taken into custody on the northern part of the reservation.

The girls now held at the county jail are: Ophelia Grain, Florence Gowen, Hattie Godwin, Wave Hiddle, Audrey Baker, Orpha Roonchin, Marian Heetels, Cassie Ball, Mary Johns, and Addie Weeks.
