

FRANKIE BRITT KNOCKS OUT BEND FEATHERWEIGHT IN THIRD ROUND

Frankie Britt of Tacoma did a business like job of blighting the hopes of Allie Taylor of Bend last night when he sent the rugged Taylor down and out in the third round of their scheduled 10-round bout. The end came shortly after the third started when Britt rushed Taylor toward the ropes and planted a terrific left hook to Taylor's midsection.

The Bend youth dropped in agony. Gasping for breath he rolled about the floor while Referee Bobbie Ross counted him out. It was several minutes before Taylor could stand on his feet.

Taylor fought hard up to the time Britt put over his painful blow, but the little Tacoma veteran carried too many gloves for the younger lad.

Mike Daly of Pelican City and Jack O'Malley of Spokane went six rounds to a draw. Daly fought a tough up-hill fight to win an even break with the more experienced O'Malley. O'Malley dropped Daly for the count of nine in the opening round with a hard smack to the jaw, but Daly weathered the storm and came back fighting like a tiger.

Johnny Bray, a fast stepping kid, is a good body puncher but his wild heaves land too low. In his battle with Young Chapman of Bend, Bray hit low several times and was repeatedly cautioned by Ross. In spite of the crowd's disapproval, Ross properly awarded the decision to Bray as he outboxed and outhit Chapman in nearly every one of their six rounds. Chapman was a good, willing boy but he was slowed up after Bray sent home some of those painful body punches.

The crowd was disappointing and it is still a question whether or not boxing can be revived in Klamath Falls.

Beavers Manage to Defeat Hollywood

A pair of rookie southpaws opposed each other in the Hollywood-Portland encounter and the Beaver recruit, Larry French, pitched his way to a 5-4 win over his opponent, Bud Teachout. Batteries: Teachout, W. Murphy and Agnew; French and Fischer.

Two home runs, one by Suhr and one by Bodie, were all the tallies San Francisco could collect off Kallio, and Sacramento punched out a 4-2 victory. Batteries: Kallio and Koehler; Moudy, Geary, Turpin and Rego, McRea.

Los Angeles cut the Oaks' lead over Seattle by one full game, hammering three Acorn hurlers for a 12-5 victory. Batteries: Boshier, Craighead, Dickerman and Read, Boal; Piercy and Hannah.

Seattle made it two straight over the Missions, winning 3-1. Batteries: Holling, Ludolph, Eckert and Wales; Graham and Jenkins.

FINDS FEWER NEURASTHENICS AMONG GERMAN ARTISTS

BERLIN, July 21. (A.P.)—Homer Saint-Gaudens, director of fine arts at Carnegie Institute of Pittsburgh, finds that the neurasthenic in German art has practically disappeared. Saint-Gaudens is touring Europe to select pictures by prominent artists to be exhibited at Pittsburgh, beginning October 14. In Berlin a luncheon was given in his honor by the cultural division of the foreign office.

"Immediately after the war," Saint-Gaudens said, "Germans, like many other countries, produced a number of neurasthenics in art, whose productions were of a decidedly freakish nature. I find that now, after stable conditions have been established in the republic, the neurasthenics are rapidly disappearing. There is much earnest, sincere endeavor by well-balanced artists.

"German present-day art differs from French or Spanish in that apparently greater emphasis is laid upon the manner of execution. In Spain and France, matter is supreme, manner secondary."

"FRAULEIN BEROLINA" TEMPORARILY EXILED

BERLIN, July 21. (A.P.)—"Fraulein Berolina" has been named to the suburbs.

"Berolina" is a heroic female figure adorning the Alexander Platz in the heart of the city. It symbolizes the City of Berlin, and has for many years towered far above the turmoil and confusion of this busy square.

Excavation in the building of a new subway station made necessary the temporary removal of the gigantic statue. "Berolina" was taken out into an obscure suburb, where she is being "parked" until she can resume her old stand opposite the office of the chief of police.

PIRATES LOSE ONE THEN WIN

For the third time in as many days the National Leadership changed hands yesterday when Pittsburgh divided a double header with Philadelphia and the New York Giants beat out the Chicago Cubs.

The Cubs were glad to get away from New York, where they lost four out of six games. The series with the Giants played havoc with the brilliant ringer McCarthy's club had been setting all along the line.

Clarence Mitchell baffled the Pirates in the opener at Philadelphia and Stuffy McInnis' hand came out on top 4-3. Carmel Hill pitched effectively for the Pirates in the second game, turning in a 6-5 victory.

Cincinnati and Boston split even in their twin bill, Jackie May turning in a 4-2 verdict for the Reds in the opener and Genewich beating Art Nehf in the second game, which Boston won 2-1.

Brooklyn won the opener of a double header with St. Louis 2-1, but the Cards put away the second game 3-1.

The Washington Senators made it four out of five against the White Sox at Chicago, Tom Zachary getting credit for a 5-3 win.

FRENCH PRESS WANTS CHANNEL SWIM RULES

PARIS, July 20. (A.P.)—An organization to control channel swims is being advocated by the French press. The agitation began when the Czechoslovak swimmer, Vencelas Spock, breezed into Paris the other day and told the world he had swum from France to England in 19 hours and 45 minutes, breaking all records. Efforts to find anyone at Dover or Boulogne who had seen or heard of Spock's feat were unavailing, whereupon the French newspapers decided a committee should guard the channel's reputation.

In France the Parisian baker Georges Michel is still considered the record-holder in channel swimming.

youth and the endurance that attending it, he is assured a tremendous acclaim, far greater than any he ever knew as the champion.

Dempsey is 32 years old. Sharkey, whose real name is Josef Paul Cukoschay, is 25. He is of Lithuanian ancestry.

Dempsey's return to the ring after his miserable showing against Tunney at Philadelphia last year is the magnet that is to draw the third largest crowd in ring history, the Tunney-Dempsey and the Dempsey-Carpentier bouts alone eclipsing it. In both of those a championship was involved.

The former champion has completed one of the most strenuous training campaigns a boxer has ever undergone. Four months ago he began work in the Ojai Hills of California, and after satisfying himself that he had regained the physical power so noticeably absent when he lost to Tunney, he came east to complete the process of preparations. The former champion and his manager, Leo Flynn, came to New York last night from Saratoga with an air of conviction.

searing drama of the night. Sharkey's performance will decide once and for all the mooted question of his class. The Bostonian's backers are cock-sure of him. Those who lean toward Dempsey discount Sharkey's victories over Mike McTigue, Harry Wills and Jim Maloney. If Sharkey beats Dempsey he will have established clearly his claim to pugilistic greatness.

NEW YORK, July 21. (A.P.)—A life of ease for a "model husband" has ended. Vincenzo Barbaro, 31, obtain a written promise from his bride that she would earn enough money to support him and her two children and also do the housework. A year passed. Mrs. Barbaro became ill and had to quit work in a factory. Then, she said in court, he hit her and she had him arrested. "But," she explained regarding the situation up till the blow, "he was a model husband. He did not drink or smoke. He never stayed out late and he was no boaster."

It's a poor Welch rabbit that doesn't make you regret having formed its acquaintance.

MAKINGS OF MOVIE SCENARIO IN STILLMAN-WILSON LOVE ROMANCE

NEW YORK, July 21. (A.P.)—Out of such stuff as movies are made has been fashioned the romance of "Bud" Stillman, heir to millions, and Lena Wilson, who will be wed on July 29.

Into this real life romance have been woven all the "Choderella" things which cynics say "don't happen." The blonde Scotch-Canadian daughter of the Quebec forest country, who once worked in the Canadian home of the wealthy and socially prominent Stillmans of New York, now is to wed the actor of the family.

The romance really had its beginning half a dozen years ago after John Wilson, farmer and woodsman, died. Lena Wilson, one of the eleven children, and then a lass of thirteen, hitched up her dog team and "mashed" to the home of Mrs. James A. Stillman to look for work, and found it.

I was just a kid then, and so was she," said "Bud" as he recalled their meeting. "But we became friends when I went up to mother's place at Grand Anse for the summers. We used to roam the woods together, and fish and hunt."

Then, somehow, a year ago, it suddenly seemed that we became the most important persons in each other's lives and we admitted it and that's how it happened."

When the young son of the family announced his intention of passing by the debutantes of New York to marry this girl of the north country, his parents, recently reconciled after divorce proceedings, offered no objection. In fact, both announced enthusiastic approval and, it is said, shopped together for the $25,000 emerald and diamond ring for the girl their "Bud" had chosen to become his wife. In this respect, the romance departed from the accepted course of the movie drama, because there were no complications.

Last December, Miss Wilson, described by her fiancé as a "simple, unaffected little backwoods girl" who did not smoke, drink or dance (except square dances), came to New York. She made her home with the Stillmans and promptly decided that she should study to "keep up" with "Bud," then completing his senior year, with honors, at Princeton.

"It was all her idea," commented girls nowadays. Still, if she wants to study mathematics and history and a bit of science, it's all right with me."

Miss Wilson did so desire, and more. Two women tutors called daily. To the "math, history and science" she added English, music and drawing, and studied longer hours than "Bud."

In the meantime, the country girl was transformed, as far as clothes were concerned, into a modern, fashionably dressed miss. But she lost none of her charm for "Bud."

The wedding will be in LaTuque, Quebec, and the honeymoon trip will take the young couple abroad. Afterward, they plan to take a little apartment near Columbia University's medical school. While "Bud" studies to become a physician, "Lena" will cook and keep house.

POLICE TRAIL ABDUCTORS OF TRAFFIC COP DUMMY

BERLIN, July 21. (A.P.)—The life-size dummy of a traffic cop in full uniform was stolen overnight from its station at a Berlin suburb where it stood as a warning signal for motorists.

Through the intrinsic value of this wooden statue representative of Berlin's finest is but negligible and it is believed that only a hoax was intended, the authorities are inclined to consider the act as a contempt of Prussia's guardians of law and order. They have therefore gone to the trouble of taking up the trail of the practical joker with a number of tried police dogs.

Revenge is sweet only to the very small individuals.
