The Pal Byrd Left Behind Him

Floyd Bennett, close friend and flying mate of Commander Richard E. Byrd, received at St. Vincent's hospital in New York word of the progress of the "America's" trans-Atlantic flight. Bennett, Byrd's sole companion on the historic flight to the north pole, was kept from the "America's" Paris hop by injuries received in an accident to the plane last April.

Mrs. Lowe To Preside—

The morning service tomorrow at the Presbyterian church, corner Sixth and Pine streets, will be in charge of Mrs. John Lowe, mother of Mrs. Drury V. Haight, wife of the pastor. Mr. and Mrs. Haight are absent from the city upon their vacation. Mrs. Lowe will talk upon the tenth chapter of John's gospel, using as her text: "Whereas I was Blind, Now I See." She has had wide experience in personal evangelistic work in Southern California, and her recent series of talks here to the ladies of the church have been largely attended and greatly enjoyed. She will be visiting her daughter for a few weeks yet before returning home. All are cordially invited to attend at 11 o'clock.

Error Is Made—

Through error it was announced in a recent article that the Community club of Fort Klamath entertained the Spanish War Veterans and their lady friends at dinner upon their return from Crater lake on last Wednesday evening. The dinner was given the visitors by Applegate Camp Number 25. More than 250 attended the dinner at the Fort Klamath hotel.

written consent which is necessary under Quebec laws for the marriage of a minor daughter. But none of Miss Wilson's relatives, says the dispatch, will be permitted to attend the wedding, and a gown brought from New York for one of Lema's six sisters to wear as bridesmaids now awaits a wearer of somewhat similar size.

Credit Shut Off

Mrs. James A. Stillman, Byrd's mother, is reported to have ordered the Wilsons from the house at La Tuque which she presented to her son when his engagement was announced and also has advised storekeepers in Montreal, La Tuque and Grande Mere that the Wilsons are to receive no more credit in her name.

"They are primitive people," Mrs. Stillman is quoted as saying, "and the only things they understand are primitive actions. Very well, I'll see that they get them."

Discovers Rift

First information that the Wilson family did not look kindly upon the approaching marriage of their daughter, came to Mrs. Stillman, she said, when she arrived at the camp last week to find the Wilson home deserted and a firmly throughout the region that Lema had jilted "Bud." "Can you doubt that I was frantic," said Mrs. Stillman. "My camp was not ready. Twelve New York servants have had to sleep on floors. We didn't know whether the wedding was to take place or not." "Don't think," she said, "that I have a grudge against Lema's family. I haven't but I have keen interest in Bud's happiness."
