SMOKING IN THEATRES

BOTH LONDONERS
LONDON, July 26. (AP)—London newspapers are printing scores of letters from persons protesting against smoking in theatres, a custom freely permitted here.

One man said he was unable to see the stage at a recent performance because of the smoke. He formed his program into a tube and blew a hole through the smoke near him so that he could see. The smokers ahead objected that he was making a draught on their necks, and he replied that if smoking was permitted, so was blowing.

Another writer says his eyes become so watery from the volume of smoke in the theatre that he either sees double or not at all. Another writes that coughing caused by smoking was all he was able to hear at a play.

An actor wrote that he is frequently forced to imagine that he has an audience, being unable to see them because of the smoke rising before the footlights.

Theatre managers reply that if they discourage smoking the patronage of their theatres will fall off.

Eva Tanguay Weds Hungarian Artist

LOS ANGELES, July 26. (AP)—Evidence that Eva Tanguay, widely known vaudeville dancer and singer, was married to Alexander Booke, Hungarian concert pianist, last Friday, went undisturbed by her today. A feminine voice at Booke's home here admitted her identity as Miss Tanguay but she hung the receiver when questioned about the event.
