"BUT, after all, the very best thing is good talk and the thing which helps it most is friendship. How it dissolves the barriers that divide us, and how it all constrains and diffuses itself like some fine old cordial through all the veins of life—this feeling that we understand and trust each other, and wish each other heartily well."—Henry Van Dyke.

GOD gave me once a gift
A gift of joy.
Of love, of power, of peace, of purity.
And I, oh, wretched I was—
I left it on the sands
And the great sea
Swept in and bore my gift
In passionate derision
Far from me.

HE is happiest who hath power
To gather wisdom from every flower.
And wake his heart in every hour
To pleasant gratitude.
—William Wordsworth

AS people throw themselves into the joyous spirit of summer, motoring becomes more essential to their pleasure. The Sunday all day trip—with a luscious, dainty luncheon, prepared to satisfy ravenous appetites induced by Oregon's wonderful mountain air—have become a part of the family regime, and just as soon as the lazy Sunday breakfast is over, a devout word or two offered in the family pew, and the indispensable Sunday paper perused, there is an eager dash for the motor and a spin to one of the numerous beautiful spots about our little city.

Oregon is rich in gorgeous scenery and it is to be wondered at that her own people enjoy it so calmly when tourists by the hundreds from all parts of the country, come here to get a fleeting glimpse of the beauties of this "land of the shining mountain." It isn't exactly that appreciation is lacking, but the Oregon people are so accustomed to seeing their grandeur that the first flush of enthusiasm is taken off by constant association.
